POLICE KILL TWO HOLDUP MEN

FEWER AT WORK THAN YEAR AGO, GREEN ASSERTS

A. F. of L. Calls Dole 95 Millions Monthly.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor today asserted that more men were jobless than a year ago. The labor group challenged industry to coöperate in a "general program" to increase employment.

WILLIAM GREEN.

A statement by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, found, too, that although the federal government's monthly relief payment for 2,229,000 persons was $95,000,000, that expenditure was "not creating income to pay their cost." "They are a steady drain on federal resources," Green said.

Urges Plea to Industry.

Then he made this challenge to industry:

"Could not the administration invite all industries to coöperate in a general program to increase production and put men to work?

"If the nation-wide level of all production were lifted 30 per cent in a balanced program, adjusting production to consumption needs, each industry would then be assured that all other industries would increase their production, and the wealth produced by putting labor to work would create income to buy the product of all.

Jobs Below Last Year.

"For the first time since the President's reëmployment program started in July, 1933, unemployment has exceeded last year's level.

"The total number at work in the United States was 39,764,000 in September, 1933; by September, 1934, it has declined to 39,367,000. During these twelve months the normal increase in population has added close to 450,000 to the army of job seekers for whom industry provides no work. Thus the number without work in industry has risen from 10,108,000 in September, 1933, to 10,951,000 in September, 1934."

President Green's statement held that September created only 154,000 new jobs and these would be lost again with the approach of the winter season.

Cites More Retail Selling.

"It is significant," Green said, "that the largest employment gain in September was in the industry directly affected by farmers and workers' buying power—retail trade. This buying power, which had been accumulated over recent months, became effective in the September sales, increasing the volume of trade and creating new jobs."

President Green estimated that 17,000,000 persons, members of 4,334,000 families, were on relief rolls in July.

SURVEY OF TRADE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Business, industrial and labor reports for the last fortnight indicate that sentiment is running ahead of conditions, just the reverse of the situation during the summer months.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, official spokesman for big business, reports that "continued improvement of business sentiment is discernible, although it has not as yet reflected definitly in the volume of transactions."

The chamber's statement that "relations between business sentiment and business volume were reversed between July and early October" is accompanied by a series of reasons why the present outlook is brighter. On the other hand reports from the American Federation of Labor, the national industrial conference board, and the American Iron and Steel institute show that unemployment during September was greater than in September of 1933.

Output Cuts Reported.

The national industrial conference board also reports that the general improvement in manufacturing conditions usually seasonal in September did not occur last month. The decline was ascribed not only to the textile strike but to curtailment in the automobile, foundry, heavy equipment, rubber, paint and varnish, iron and steel and paper products industries.

There was a decline of 5.7 per cent in the number of wage earners em-

A. & P. BUTCHERS GO OUT TODAY IN MILWAUKEE

Claim Company Has Closed 26 Shops.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on Back Page.)

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Union meat cutters in 47 stores of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company and the Kroger Grocery and Baking company will be on strike tomorrow, it was announced tonight. Nearly 200 men will begin the picketing of 38 A. & P. stores and the nine Kroger stores in the morning.

In addition to the battle with the chain stores, the union announced that the 20 butchers employed in the five markets of the E. G. Shinner company had voted to strike early in the week, probably Tuesday.

Nearby cities also are involved in the A. & P. and Kroger walkouts.

Charge A. & P. Closed 26.

The Milwaukee A. & P. butchers charge the company has closed 26 of its meat departments here because of labor difficulties. Eleven were closed early in the week and workmen in 15 more were paid off last night and told the departments were to be shut down.

H. J. Schilling, secretary of the union, described the walkouts as part of a general move to unionize all meat cutters and butchers in Milwaukee and adjacent cities. He declared that 180 markets of the approximately 300 in Milwaukee have already signed agreements with the unions for higher wages and union recognition. Negotiations are in progress with the markets not unionized, and in some cases where the union demands have been definitly refused strikes will be ordered this week.

The strike of the A. & P. store meat cutters in Milwaukee will also extend to Racine, according to Schilling. He was informed tonight, he said, that meat cutters in Racine A. & P. stores also have voted to go on strike tomorrow.

Balks at Union Recognition.

"The 80 meat cutters in the nine markets of the Kroger stores in Milwaukee also will strike tomorrow morning," Schilling said. "This company has been agreeable to the increase in wages demanded, which average about 10 per cent, but balked at union recognition. It favors a company union."

Negotiations are still under way with the five markets of the Star company in Milwaukee, and there may be an agreement, union officials said.

The meat cutters had endeavored to enter into negotiations with the company officials, the unions assert, to adjust labor difficulties and had planned to strike later in the week if an agreement were not reached. The action to strike immediately was precipitated, they said, by last night's action of the company.

The officials said they are seeking to contact the leaders of the newly formed Retail Clerks' union and trucking unions, to enlist their aid. The retail clerks will meet tomorrow night. The meat cutters then may present their plea for a general strike at the stores, they said.

Ask $35 for Managers.

The union demands are for $35 a week for managers, $27.50 for butchers, a sliding scale for apprentices, and for elimination of overtime.

J. B. Smith, general superintendent of the A. & P. stores here, said tonight that of the 100 stores in Milwaukee only a small percentage have meat counters.

"The strike will not affect the conduct of our stores here and there isn't a chance that the situation here will develop into anything like the one in Cleveland," he said. The closing of several markets by the company, he declared, had nothing to do with the labor dispute. These markets, he insisted, were closed because they were not doing the business expected. Their closing was a matter of business judgment, he asserted.

William Mansfield, union organizer, however, said late tonight that the strike had definite connections with the situation in Cleveland.

ADAMANT IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., Oct. 28.—(AP)—While the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company stood by its decision to keep its 428 stores in greater Cleveland closed, seven labor unions today issued a statement saying "the only guarantee" that the company would live up to section 7-A of the recovery code would be submission to unionization of its employés.

The company paid off and dis-

MODERATE COLD FORECAST TODAY; CITY HAS FREEZE

Although moderate to fresh northerly winds are forecast for today, clear skies are expected to keep the temperature only "moderately" cold during the day. Yesterday the city experienced the first frost since April 13 as north winds sent the mercury down to an official 31 degrees at 6 o'clock in the morning. Suburbs reported temperatures as low as 25, while the airport recorded 29.

Although the air was dry, Forecaster W. P. Day explained that the frost was probably killing in effect because of the below freezing temperature. The weather man also reported that attendants at the University of Chicago observatory recorded the first official snow of the year Saturday afternoon for three minutes during the football game on the Midway.

Gardeners in the Horticultural building on the Fair grounds protected the tender flowers outside the heated building by all night work Saturday. They sprayed the flowers and shrubs with water which froze, saving them from the frost. As the temperature rose yesterday morning the ice thawed.

QUINTS SLEEP IN SNOWSTORM AND ENJOY IT

CALLANDER, Ont., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets, five months old today and husky, were out in a snowstorm, and they enjoyed it. The five sisters were left on the porch of their hospital to complete a five-hour nap. Snow fell on their blankets, but they remained snug and warm.

Tonight the babies were prepared for bed by electric light for the first time in their lives. A two and a half mile electric line, constructed by the Ontario government from Callander to the Little Country hospital, started functioning.

Although normal babies usually double their weight the first five months of their lives, the Dionne quintuplets have done much better than that, their physician, Dr. A. R. Dafoe, said. Today all of the girls were more than four times as heavy as they were when their first accurate weights were taken a week after their births.

2 Australians Near Hawaii on Ocean Hop

BULLETIN.

San Francisco, Oct. 29.—(Monday.)—(AP)—The Globe wireless reported Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith was "less than 1,000 miles" from Honolulu in his flight from Suva, Fiji, at 3 a. m. (Chicago time) today. The navy radio station at Honolulu heard the plane's wireless for the first time when Sir Charles gave his position at 1 a. m. central standard time Monday as latitude 2.12 north, longitude 168.10 west. This position placed the flyers slightly past the halfway mark on the 3,197 mile flight from Suva to Honolulu.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith sped toward Hawaii over the Pacific ocean tonight on a hop of 3,197 miles from Suva, Fiji Islands, to Honolulu.

Confidence the Lady Southern Cross could reach Honolulu in a single jump was expressed by Sir Charles in a wireless message to Fanning Island, where he had established an emergency supply of gasoline.

"Cheerio," it read. "Don't think we will need to take advantage of your kindness. Can reach Honolulu."

A straightaway shot at Hawaii lay ahead of the plane as it sped over the Phoenix atolls, one third of the distance, and bored toward gathering darkness.

Hear Frequent Messages.

Messages intercepted from the plane by the navy radio station at Tutuila, Samoa, and relayed here, told the progress of the Lady Southern Cross from its takeoff at Naselai beach, Suva. Sir Charles and his navigator, Capt. P. G. Taylor, hopped at 6:05 a. m., Suva time, Monday [12:05 p. m. Sunday, central standard time].

"Passed Birnie Island [one of the Phoenix group] at 3:18 a. m. Greenwich time [9:18 p. m. C. S. T.]; Bill's course as usual perfect," was the story told in dots and dashes by the plane's wireless.

Winging away from Naselai beach the two Australians resumed a flight that began in Brisbane, Australia, Oct. 20. Oakland, Cal., is their ultimate destination.

The first leg of 1,760 miles of ocean from Brisbane to Suva was completed last Sunday in 11 hours and 45 minutes. After pausing briefly in Honolulu, Kingsford-Smith planned to begin the final leg of 2,408 miles to Oakland, making an overseas journey of 7,365 miles.

Clear Weather Ahead.

Over this same route, but in reverse order, Sir Charles flew in 1928 with four companions.

From cloudy skies north of Suva the flyers will pass into clear weather through the vicinity of Fanning Island. Weather reports from Honolulu told of excellent flying conditions from Honolulu south to Fanning.

The takeoff at Suva at dawn was perfect. The Lady Southern Cross, heavily laden with 510 gallons of gasoline, roared 1,000 yards down the beach, then rose slowly.

"Just passed Horne Islands," said a message shortly after the takeoff. "We are a bit bored to think of the long day and night ahead.

Dodge Rainclouds.

"We have throttled well back to guard consumption and so as to arrive at Wheeler field [Honolulu] after daylight."

A short time later:

"Uncomfortably warm now at 5,500 feet. Distance from Naselai [the takeoff point] 680 miles." [6 hours out].

Then came news of the storm ahead and a possible threat to their safety.

"Running into storm, so climbing to try and pass over," crackled the ship's wireless.

"Now below heavy rainclouds at 500 feet. All O. K.," was the flash a few minutes later.

Ninth Co-ed Is Slugged on Colorado U. Campus

Boulder, Colo., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Again the co-ed slugger—terror of Colorado university campus for a week—has struck, bringing renewed fear to women students. Chief of Police R. C. Prater said tonight he had obtained a description of the slugger. The ninth victim was struck last night as she and two girl companions walked on the campus.

Detective Shot in Battle with Tavern Bandits

Two youthful bandits were shot to death last night in a furious gun battle which followed their attempt to hold up a saloon at 1723 South Jefferson street while two detectives were inside. One of the policemen was seriously wounded in the interchange of shots.

One of the holdup men, tentatively identified as Joseph Vorachek, a police character, was killed instantly. The other robber, who identified himself as Morris Stell, 16 years old, of 2024 West 19th street, Omaha, Neb., died an hour after the shooting at the Bridewell hospital.

The wounded policeman is John Lamb, 30 years old, 5513 South Elizabeth street, attached to the Maxwell street station. He was shot through the groin, but doctors at the county hospital held out hope for his recovery.

Order Police Into Back Room.

With his partner, William Newton, with whom he is assigned to patrol the district, Lamb entered the tavern shortly after midnight, parking his new sedan outside. The two policemen engaged Joseph Vojacek, the saloon-keeper, in a conversation. The two holdup men entered a moment later and one of them asked: "Who's new car is that outside?"

Lamb said it was his, and the man later identified as Stell drew an automatic pistol and ordered the three into a back room. After making sure there was nobody else in the saloon, Vorachek, who was unarmed, rifled the cash register and then entered the back room.

Both Bandits Shot Down.

Evidently intending to get the keys of the automobile from Lamb, the unarmed bandit took hold of his coat and opened it. Lamb stepped back, drew his revolver and shot the man.

As Vorachek fell, Stell fired at Lamb, one of the bullets passing through the policeman's abdomen on the lower right side. In the meantime Newton had drawn his revolver and was firing at Stell. Five of his bullets passed through the holdup man's body.

Vorachek attempted to crawl out of the room, but from where he lay wounded on the floor Lamb shot him twice, one of the bullets killing him. Squads from the Maxwell station found Newton vainly trying to lift Lamb into his car and they transfered the wounded man to a squad car. Loot from the robbery, found in Vorachek's pocket, amounted to $13.

POLICE HUNT KILLERS

Picked police squads last night were searching Chicago for the two robbers who killed George Mayes, 31 years old, a World's Fair visitor from Mount Vernon, Ill., on Saturday evening. Mayes was shot to death in his automobile before the eyes of his sweetheart and two other young women.

The squads were assigned to the special duty of capturing or killing the two gunmen by Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan. Chief Sullivan characterized the murder of Mayes as one of the most cold-blooded and motiveless killings in recent years.

Three Girls Aid Search.

Aiding in the search for the slayers were the three young women who saw Mayes shot. They are Miss Alta Eicher, 29 years old, of Summerfield, Ill., Mayes' fiancée: her sister, Irma, 24 years old, and Miss Ida May Flettner, 29 years old, of Mexico, Mo., a friend of the Eicher girls.

The girls said two gunmen climbed into Mayes' car as he stopped for a traffic light at Garfield and Normal boulevards. One sat in each seat. The robber in the front seat took $32 Mayes had in his pockets and demanded more.

As Mayes, wishing to comply, reached for a compartment in the dash, the man in the rear seat leaned forward and fired three shots into his back. Mayes fell dying and the two assailants ran away.

Fiancée Hunts for Hours.

When policemen appeared at the scene Alta Eicher, overcome as she was by the suddenness of her fiancé's death, joined them in a search for the slayers. For several hours she toured the district with a squad.

The girls said they were sure that they would recognize the killers if captured and all three expressed a determination to come to Chicago from their homes when any suspects are taken. They said they would remain in the city today for the inquest into Mayes' murder.

"I believe the robbers were Chicago men," said Sullivan. "The killer's hat, which he dropped, was purchased from a west side clothing store which has been out of business a year. It was either their first job or they thought they were tough, the kind who shoot first and ask questions afterward."

248,000 STORM FAIR; TWO 1934 RECORDS FALL

City Plans Farewell to Exposition.

Holiday Proclaimed

Mayor Kelly last night issued a proclamation of a half holiday Wednesday, the last day of A Century of Progress Exposition. Public schools and offices at the city hall will be closed at noon. The mayor called on business men of the city to release their employes at noon for a last chance to visit the Fair. The proclamation also decreed a city-wide salute to the passing Exposition at 9 a. m. Wednesday.

BY EARL MULLIN.

A Century of Progress Exposition yesterday moved triumphantly toward its final closing—just three days away—leaving far behind all Sunday and week-end attendance records for 1934.

Throughout Chicago the realization had taken hold that the chance to see one of the world's greatest spectacles was slipping rapidly away and as the gates opened at 9 a. m. crowds were massed at the principal gates. Throughout the nation the news had spread that Wednesday's closing would be final and railroads yesterday brought in more than 20,000 Fair visitors.

Crowds Massed at Gates.

As the turnstiles began their steady hum that was to last far into the night, the vanguard of the day's sightseers rushed in. At 10 a. m. the tabulating machine showed 20,349. At noon the total was 73,440. The 100,000 mark was passed at 1 p. m. and at 4 p. m. the attendance soared past 200,000. At midnight 248,737 persons had bought admission tickets.

As night descended upon the multi-colored buildings of the magic Fair city the lights blazed on, reminding the multitude on the grounds that only three more times will this amazing spectacle be repeated.

Thousands Say Farewell.

Thousands of those present were seeing these sights for the last time, each saying farewell, in his own way, to the Exposition.

It seemed that few of the visitors were there for the first time. Most of the talk was of exhibits that had been seen many times and that were to be seen once more before they became memories.

Cold breezes kept the sightseers bundled in furs and overcoats, but bright weather held their spirits high yesterday, a much pleasanter day than the previous one, when 187,574 visitors made it the record Saturday of 1934. Including yesterday's 248,737, the week-end attendance reached 436,311, far in excess of the previous 1934 week-end record, 385,784, set Oct. 13 and 14.

Second Biggest Day of Season.

Yesterday's paid admissions were exceeded by only one other day during the entire summer. First place is held by Sept. 17, Constitution day, when 359,671 visitors entered the grounds. Third place honors now are held by Sunday, Oct. 14, previous high Sunday, with 216,813 paid admissions. While the past week-end exceeded by many thousands any similar period during 1934, it fell behind the record week-end of 1933, the Labor day period, when 623,684 visitors entered the grounds.

According to officials, the totals of the week-end just past heralded crowds of 100,000 or better for today and tomorrow, with estimates of the attendance on Wednesday—the final day—running as high as 250,000. If the predictions hold true, with the season's total already standing at 15,678,235, a final of 16,000,000 paid admissions will be reached for 1934.

Strong Finish for 1934.

The strong finish of the 1934 Exposition is in contrast with last year's showing, when the closing days' attendance averaged only about 100,000. Sunday, Oct. 29, 1933, drew only 164,214 visitors.

But the final Sunday of the 1934 Exposition found a city thrilled with the Fair's glories and determined to salute its passing with a celebration befitting the most successful and probably the most brilliant World's Fair ever held.

Mayor Kelly's proclamation of a half holiday on Wednesday, closing the schools and calling upon business men to give their employés a final chance to see the Exposition, made official the plans for a city-wide demonstration.

At 9 a. m. Wednesday a farewell salute to the Exposition will thunder out over Chicago. An entire battery of field artillery in Grant park will roar a 50 gun salvo, one gun for each ward in Chicago, in tribute to the men and women who helped make World's Fair history. As the echo of the gunfire dies away, locomotive and factory whistles and church bells will carry on the salute.

At noon, buglers posted on each of the elevated railway platforms in the loop will blow first call and assembly as a second reminder that the Fair is in its last hours.

Plan Night of Carnival.

When the myriad lights flash on for the last time a night of carnival revelry and merrymaking will begin on the broad lakefront between 12th and 35th streets.

At 8:30 p. m., a Victory parade will form at the Court of Honor at 14th street and march through the exposition grounds. This parade will consist entirely of musical organizations including many military bands.

In keeping with the spirit of Halloween, carnival activities will predominate the final night. Nationality groups will appear at the Lagoon theater at 8 p. m. Costume prizes will be awarded.

A costume contest open to all comers will be staged in the Court of States at 8:30. Cash prizes will be awarded.

At 10 p. m. the Festival of Light, which has been featured for the past week, will be staged for the last time. Planes will zoom over the grounds leaving smoke screens upon which forty giant searchlights will throw their beams of many colors. Lieut. William Newhall will make his sensational "shooting star" airplane dive.

Final ceremonies will be staged in the Court of States, beginning at 11:30 p. m. Gov. Horner of Illinois, Mayor Kelly, and Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, will be the speakers.

Bugles to Sound Finish.

The ceremonies will end exactly at midnight, when the official Century of Progress flag will be lowered, taps will be played by buglers from the Court of States stage and broadcast throughout the exposition grounds over the public address system.

At the same time Mr. Dawes will throw a switch on the Court of States stage which will shut off all lights on the Exposition grounds, close all turnstiles and set off a gigantic fireworks display on the east shore of the North lagoon. After the fireworks display, which will be the largest ever staged at the Fair, the exposition lights will again be turned on and will remain on until 3 a. m., when all visitors must leave. However, no one will be admitted after midnight.

MARMON'S WIFE TAKES HIS EX-WIFE FROM MALLORCA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PALMA, Mallorca, Oct. 28.—With weeping creditors standing on the wharf, Mrs. Florence Marmon, whose latest adventure in Spain was an effort to get a Dutchman made king of Andorra, sailed from here last Friday in the tow of Mrs. Howard Marmon, wife of her former husband, the multimillionaire automobile manufacturer.

Mrs. Howard Marmon came expressly to get her. She said Mrs. Florence Marmon will live with her brother, but the latter's Swiss business manager, Gaston Lang, asserted Mrs. Howard Marmon previously had stated she would be placed in a private clinic in California for rest.

Mrs. Florence Marmon, whose apartment once was raided by police after a swindle suit, wanted to pay the creditors before sailing, but said her former husband failed to send the $200 a month allowance which he had promised. Lang and Miss E. M. Webb loaned her money while her finances were being reorganized. Other creditors include grocers, a dentist, and dressmakers. It was arranged for Miss Webb to administer the allowance under an agreement approved by Claude L. Dawson, American consul general at Barcelona.

5 ROBBERS TAKE $100,000 WORTH OF FOUNTAIN PENS

Fort Madison, Ia., Oct. 28.—(AP)—A gang of five men overpowered four night watchmen at the W. A. Sheaffer Fountain Pen company early today, drilled through a brick wall and escaped with an estimated $100,000 in merchandise and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Sherif F. L. Klopsenstein and a police squad arrived at the factory after one of the watchmen had unloosened the wire around his feet, and, with his hands still tied, took the telephone receiver off the hook and attracted the operator's attention.

The loss was estimated at $100,000 in merchandise by W. A. Sheaffer, president of the company, who was summoned to the building. Sherif Klopsenstein said. Besides the cash, $136 worth of stamps were stolen.

The sherif said that the robbers attacked the watchmen as they came to work, bound them with wire in the factory basement, and then drilled through a 12 inch brick wall to get at the merchandise.

World's Fair Notes

Detective Sergeant William Drury and three members of his squad were given pearl handled revolvers yesterday by the Exposition management in appreciation of their work in arresting pickpockets who preyed on Fair visitors. The presentation was made by Maj. Lenox R. Lohr. The squad members were Edward Griffen, Herman Steinberg, and James Curtin.

Fire losses during the two years of the Exposition amounted to only $2,300, according to a summary of the work done by the Fair fire department yesterday. Ninety per cent of the fires were charged to the 1933 edition of the Fair. Of the sixty-seven alarms answered this year twenty-five were false. The fireboat made only one trip on duty, being used to pump water from leaky gondolas at other times.

Opera contracts were awarded yesterday to winners in the grand opera contest which closed Saturday night at the Fair. Winner in the men's class was Frank Jakavicius, 1046 West 105th street. First honors in the women's class went to Mrs. Zita G. Newell, 621 North Harvey avenue, Oak Park.

The first motion pictures in natural color to be made at the Fair will be shot today, tomorrow, and Wednesday at the Wilson company exhibit on Northerly Island. The Technicolor company of Hollywood yesterday sent a crew of ten men here.

The winner of the Scottish dance contest at Merrie England on Saturday was Margaret Baikie, 1933 Scotland queen of the Fair. She won prizes in the sword dance, the Highland fling, and the Shean Truibhas.

ROBBERS RAID 10 FILLING STATIONS IN HOUR; GET $190

With half a dozen police squads in pursuit, two youths in a stolen automobile held up ten gasoline stations on the south side within an hour last night, collecting a total of $190. At one station they fired two shots at an attendant.

After stealing the car of Walter Ligocki from in front of his grocery at 4601 South Francisco avenue, the bandits first held up Edward Bartali in a filling station at 4513 South Western avenue, robbing him of $7.

The other victims and their losses in order were: Edward Starr, 5300 South Western avenue, $12; Stanley Kanakackis, 5158 South Western avenue, $4; James Kelly, 5400 South Kedzie avenue, who was fired on when he fled after filling the bandit car's gasoline tank; James Ryan, 5600 South Kedzie avenue, $40; George Nyquist, 6601 South Ashland avenue, $50; Sam Winograd, Archer and Ashland avenues, $7; Marvin Olsen, 1422 West 63d street, $22; Thomas Whalen, 63d street and Oakley avenue, $25; and Francis Johnson, 63d street and California avenue, $23.

MARCH ON ROME BIG IN HISTORY, SAYS MUSSOLINI

Italy Celebrates 12th Year of Fascist Era.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 28.—The Black Shirt march on Rome was one of the most decisive events in the history of Europe, Premier Benito Mussolini declared today in addressing 15,000 barelegged athletes in running pants and jerseys who filed by him at the inauguration of the new Circus Maximus avenue.

The parade of athletes was in celebration of the 12th anniversary of the march on Rome, which was observed with festivities throughout the country, and Il Duce, still dealing in superlatives, said that the new Circus Maximus was Rome's most beautiful street.

"You are exemplary of a new race of Italians," Il Duce told the athletes. "We are going toward the new year of Fascism, which must attain two things: More social justice for the people and greater power for our country."

Start Two Battleships.

Mussolini referred in the latter phrase probably to the laying of the keels today, in Genoa and Trieste, of two new 35,000 ton battleships which will be the largest in the world, and which will help him to attain his desired naval parity with France. One ship is to be named the "Littorio" and the other "Vittorio Veneto." Construction will occupy 2,000 workmen in each city for three years and will considerably relieve Italy's unemployment.

Mussolini started the day with the inauguration of new public buildings which included the school of aerial warfare. After reviewing the athletes in Circus Maximus he rushed to Piazza di Venezia, packed with people in black shirts to see him distribute $5,000 in prizes to farmers who had won "agricultural merit" and had proved their "loyalty to the land" during the last year.

Fascist Fair Closes.

Each meritorious farmer received a medal and a diploma and, in some cases, Mussolini also handed out a cash remuneration of 500 lire [currently $42.75]. These included awards to heads of families which have remained on one piece of land for more than 100 years. Some could show tenure of 500 and 1,000 years by their families.

As the last act in the festive events Il Duce helped to close the Exposition of the Fascist Revolution, which has been open for two years. Later, to carry the celebration far into the night, beacon fires were lighted on mountain peaks along the Apennines and in the Alps, and they will blaze until morning to usher in the "Year XIII, Era Fascista."

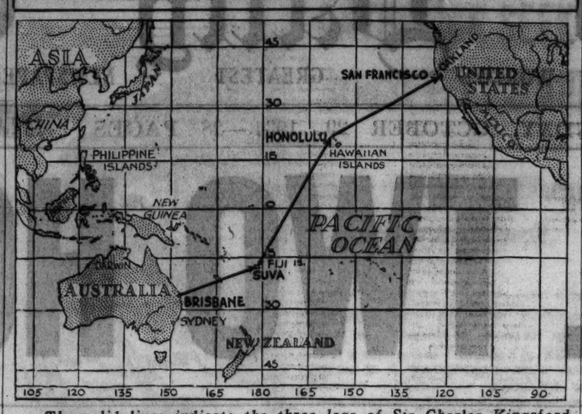
The Fascist exposition attracted 4,000,000 visitors in two years. The 3,500 documents and relics that had been on display will be stored in the Roman Gallery of Modern Art until the new Littorio palace is completed in 1939.

To Launch Military Plan.

Tomorrow the premier will inaugurate the newly created inspectorate of military training, designed to mold Italy's male population from 8 to 33 years into an enormous fighting machine.

Work was started today in various parts of the country on drainage, irrigation and other projects for converting now useless regions into farm lands. There were 472 such projects and their total cost will reach $40,000,000.

ROUTE OF KINGSFORD-SMITH'S FLIGHT



The solid lines indicate the three legs of Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith's 7,365 mile flight from Brisbane, Australia, to Oakland, Cal. The first leg of 1,760 miles from Brisbane to Suva, Fiji Islands, was completed Oct. 21. The pilot waited seven days for perfect weather to make the 3,197 mile hop to Honolulu.

DR. J. B. DE LEE GETS MEDAL ON 65TH BIRTHDAY

Rosenberger Award Is Presented at Dinner.

Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, founder of the the Chicago Lying-In hospital, was honored last night at a testimonial dinner in the Hotel Shoreland on the occasion of his 65th birthday and the 30th anniversary of the founding of the Mothers' Aid of the hospital. The Mothers' Aid is an organization of women who assist the Lying-In hospital with funds and personal service.

For his "great service to humanity" Dr. De Lee received the Jesse L. Rosenberger medal, which first was won by Dr. C. L. Banting, the co-discoverer of insulin. Frederic Woodward, vice president of the University of Chicago, presented the medal.

Pays Tribute to Helpers.

Dr. De Lee accepted the award, but spoke little of himself.

"A spider can spin by itself," he said, "but a man can do nothing without his friends. I proudly acknowledge the help and support of mine."

He listed the names of many persons who have helped him in the Lying-In hospital, which he founded in 1895.

"I was continually begging, either personally or by letter," he recalled, "but somehow, some way, we have finally achieved something. From 204 deliveries that first year in our dispensary, located on the ground floor of a tenement, we now have brought a total of 77,425 babies into the world."

Personality and Work Fuse.

Although the dinner last night, which was attended by more than 450 persons, was planned as a joint celebration, no attempt was made to distinguish between the two anniversaries, for, as Mrs. Harry B. Kempner, president of the Mother's Aid, stated: "The relationship that has always existed between Dr. De Lee and the 1,200 members of Mothers' Aid makes it impossible to dissociate them. If there is any single phase that epitomizes Dr. De Lee's career, it is that he has always been, always, the mothers' aid."

This sentiment was voiced over and over again throughout the entire evening by each of the speakers.

Among those speakers, all workers or former workers with Dr. De Lee at the hospital, were Mrs. Ernest Freund, president of the Lying-In hospital and dispensary; Dr. Fred L. Adair, professor of gynecology; Mrs. C. K. Corsant, honorary president of the Mothers' Aid and vice president of the hospital, and the hospital and member of the board of directors for 20 years.

GASOLINE TANK EMPTY AS AIR RACE FLYER REACHES PORT DARWIN

PORT DARWIN, Australia, Oct. 28.—(AP)—C. J. Melrose, Australian entry flying alone in the London-to-Melbourne air Derby, touched his native soil today after a dramatic flight over the Timor sea. Gliding in from a great height, he reached the Port Darwin air field this morning with the fuel tanks of his plane bone dry.

Meanwhile Cathcart Jones and Ken W. Waller, England's "boomerang bullets," who are making a return flight to London, reached Singapore in a single hop from Port Darwin. They covered the 2,084 miles across the sea and over the East Indies in a little more than 10 hours, their speed being 201.7 miles an hour. They took off again for Allahabad, India.

John Wright and John Polando, Americans, continued to be hard luck competitors in the Derby. They were held at Calcutta by motor trouble.

The flying cousins, D. E. and K. G. Stodart, English, reached Newcastle Waters, Australia, today. J. D. Hewett and C. E. Kay, New Zealanders, arrived safely at Cloncurry, Australia. Lieut. M. Hansen, Danish flyer, reached Rambang and prepared to take off over the Java sea.

Fitzmaurice Delayed on Flight.

LYMPNE AIRDROME, Eng., Oct. 29 [Monday]—(AP)—Col. James C. Fitzmaurice, Irish flyer, returned here today, three hours after he took off at 7:07 a. m. [1:07 a. m., central standard time] for Australia in an attempt to best the record recently established by C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black of England. A piece of the shield on the undercarriage of his plane had fallen off.

Hundreds saw the Irishman take off in his American built plane.

Fitzmaurice did not compete in the England to Melbourne race, in which Scott's record was established. He refused to make changes in his plane demanded by the race committee.

The record for the 11,323 mile flight is 70 hours 59 minutes and 50 seconds.

SUMMER HOTEL BURNS.

Mount Kosco, N. Y., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Colonial hotel, famous summer resort for 30 years, burned to the ground tonight while volunteer firemen from three villages, handicapped by lack of water, stood by and watched. Loss was estimated at $100,000.

charged its 2,200 employés here at the close of business Saturday after announcing it could not remain in business longer because of labor trouble. The seven unions, engaged in a campaign to organize the 2,200 employés, picketed the warehouses of the company and halted deliveries to the stores.

Sees "Business Wrecked."

George L. Hartford, chairman of the board of the company, before leaving for Pittsburgh late today, said: "I don't see what we can do now. We're sorry."

Asked if there was a possibility the company might reconsider its closing order, he said: "I can't see any solution today. We're not arbitrary and we don't want to give that impression. But I can't see any solution. These stores are closed. I think the business here is wrecked."

Seven hundred managers and clerks who had been employed by the company until Saturday met tonight and drew up a petition asking Mayor Harry L. Davis to do everything in his power to get the company to reopen its stores.

Union Charges Intimidation.

Asserting the company has "domineered its employés," the union statement said "This effort to intimidate the public of our city and the city administration is but further proof of our contention that the A. & P. company is more anxious to defy the government and the unions than interested in the future of the city of Cleveland.

"If the A. & P. company decides to leave the city on account of this labor controversy, or because of any other reason not yet disclosed, we are willing to be judged before the bar of public opinion, after all facts have been presented and all evidence gone over, for the part, if any, that we have taken."

Signing the statement were the bakers' union, meat cutters' union, engineers' union, auto mechanics' union, warehousemen's union, managers' and clerks' union, and the firemen's union, all affiliated with the Cleveland Federation of Labor.

It was indicated by officials tonight that only the 300 stores in Cuyahoga county had been closed, while the 128 outside the borders of the county will continue operations.

May Hit All Stores in State.

Cincinnati, O., Oct., 28.—(AP)—Michael Schuld, state chairman of the meat cutters' union, said tonight that a statewide strike of union meat cutters employed by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company may be sought.

Unless difficulties concerning the firm in Cleveland are settled in the meantime, he said, such action may be sought at the organization's convention in Columbus, beginning next Sunday.

ROBBERS HALT CHICAGO COACH LEAVING DETROIT

Line Feeds the Victims After Stickup.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Emulating the old time stage coach robbers, three well dressed young men held up a Chicago bound bus at the edge of this city early today. They took $125 to $200 from the ten passengers.

The robbers boarded the bus at a downtown station with tickets for South Bend, Ind. One took a seat near the driver, the others going to the rear of the bus.

One Terrorizes Driver.

Apparently taking their cue from three horn blasts from a trailing automobile, the robbers went into action. One shoved a pistol against the back of the driver, Phillip H. Fiekert, and forced him to turn on the interior lights. The other two then forced the passengers to give up their purses and other valuables.

Then the robbers alighted, warning the driver that they would follow in their automobile and shoot if he stopped to call any police.

Fiekert drove on for six miles, then notified state police. He saw nothing more of the bandits.

Bus Lines Feed Victims.

Manferd Burleigh, vice president and assistant general manager of the Greyhound lines, operating the bus, said the passengers were fed at the company's own hotel and furnished transportation to their destinations.

Most of the passengers were from Detroit. Henry Bear, a Chicagoan, lost $9.

SIAM ASKS KING TO KEEP THRONE; HE SETS TERMS

Ruler Demands Nation Restore Powers.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—King Prajadhipok, 5 foot, wiry monarch of Siam, is willing to take back his threat to quit the throne if the home government knuckles down to what over night proved to be an ultimatum demanding withdrawal of a measure curbing his royal prerogatives.

The Bangkok government, Prajadhipok's private secretary revealed today, has asked the diminutive ruler to reconsider his intention to abdicate and thus drop his varied assortment of venerable oriental titles.

Subjects in the Dark.

Advices direct from Bangkok, the first since establishment of strict censorship, revealed meanwhile that the king's 10,000,000 subjects are completely in the dark about what is going on. There is no revolution, it was indicated, but those in power are keeping from the public the information that the king has threatened to abdicate, waiting until the thing is settled one way or the other.

The king and queen spent the weekend quietly at the private retreat in Surrey where they have been for the last two weeks. His majesty remained firm as Gibraltar in his determination that the only thing that will keep him from shuffling off the royal title is the home government's capitulation.

It appeared that while the cat was away the mice had begun to play. Since ancient times, it was explained in London, the king of Siam has had the power of life and death over his subjects. When a prisoner is condemned to death the king's command must be obtained before the sentence is carried out.

Amend King's Rights.

But the government under Premier Phya Bahol submitted to the national assembly a law amending the king's prerogatives in this respect, resulting in the long range battle for the royal precepts.

"The king's fight is really a fight for the principles of democratic government," said the king's secretary. "The king made known to the regent his intention to abdicate about ten days ago, and negotiations with the government are still pending on the question.

"In the meantime the government at Bangkok has pressed the king to reconsider his decision.

"The king's intention to abdicate unless his present position in Siam is altered remains unchanged, but if the government is prepared to give way and drop the measure curtailing his prerogative, thus bowing to what his majesty feels is the will of his people, who through their elected representatives in the assembly voted against the measure, he may be prepared to remain on the throne."

The secretary explained that half the members of the Siamese legislative assembly are elected directly by the people, and the other half nominated by the government, with his majesty placing "great importance upon the attitude of the elected members," whom Prajadhipok claims opposed the measure relating to life and death prerogatives.

King Suggests Plebiscite.

"Had the measure been passed by the whole assembly," the secretary continued, "including the elected members, the position would have been quite different and the king would have been ready to bow to the public will."

The secretary added that Prajadhipok's intention to abdicate "was thus in the nature of an ultimatum to the government, who could avoid the step by either dropping the measure entirely or putting it before a plebiscite, or making it the issue of a general election."

It was learned that the cables between London and Bangkok have been hot since early last month with exchanges of messages between Prajadhipok and his ministers.

As early as Sept. 8 the monarch, criticizing the legislation, cabled:

"I am afraid the passing of this act is a good opportunity for the opponents of the government to spread propaganda that the government had only passed the law in order to deal more ruthlessly with its political opponents, and that the king's right of pardon will somehow be made ineffective."

GANDHI DELIVERS HIS FAREWELL AS CONGRESS LEADER

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BOMBAY, Oct. 28.—While a crowd of 80,000 listened to his words through loud speakers, Mahatma Gandhi today delivered his farewell address as president of the All-Indian National congress.

Henceforth, he will devote himself to the new All-India Village Industries association, authorized by the congress at its closing session today. The association will work for the restoration of ancient industries, apart from spinning, and for the moral and physical advancement of the villages. Its organization was formally entrusted to J. C. Kumarrapla, an Indian economist with American experience, but he will be under Gandhi's "advice and guidance."

Gandhi in his address confined himself to advocating a change in the congress which would limit its membership to 2,000 and make future meetings less spectacular.

BILLS DRAFTED TO LET ALL IN ON TAX REDUCTIONS

Prompt Payers Suffer as Law Stands.

Drafts of six bills that would give all taxpayers the benefits of all reductions in rates and penalties have been prepared for introduction in the next general assembly, Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell said yesterday. Mr. Bell is in charge of tax matters in the state's attorney's office.

Several adjustments and reductions have been made to encourage delinquents to pay their taxes. Persons who paid up promptly during the tax periods affected have suffered what might be styled "penalties for their promptness," Mr. Bell pointed out, because those who met the levies on time were obliged to pay full rates.

Explanation of Six Proposals.

The first bill designed to correct this inequity would provide refunds to owners of single residences and small apartment buildings who paid taxes for 1931 and 1932 in full before the 15 per cent reduction for those years was ordered by County Judge Jarecki. The second bill would extend the benefit of other recent reductions to taxpayers who paid in full.

The third bill would give the courts power to waive penalties on unpaid taxes for 1932 and 1933. Under existing law penalties can be waived at the discretion of the courts for the period of 1928 to 1931, and recently County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash announced that 1932 tax delinquents would be permitted to waive half the penalty. The bill would advance court jurisdiction through 1933, and thus benefit many homeowners who might pay taxes but not taxes plus interest and penalties, Mr. Bell said.

Measures Affecting Procedure.

Bill No. 4, he disclosed, would effect savings of about $500,000 in the county treasurer's office by simplifying certain office procedures. The fifth bill would amend the Kerner-Skarda law to clarify jurisdiction of the County court in tax receivership suits instituted by the county treasurer. Such suits have netted the county almost $100,000,000 in the last two years. In a recent decision the State Supreme court ruled that the Circuit court, not the County court had jurisdiction in such cases.

The sixth bill would provide for tax loans on tax liens supported by owners' obligations, plus reasonable interest, to enable taxpayers to pay and stop the accumulation of penalties.

County Judge Jarecki is to confer today with other county tax officials on the proposed bills. Judge Jarecki also will discuss a bill he intends to propose calling for the presentation of tax rates to the County court for approval as soon as they are announced, to eliminate test suits after the rates are put into effect.

Mr. Bell, Treasurer Nash, Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the city council finance committee; County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer and others will attend the meeting.

Sails for Home

PANAMA CITY, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The first units of the United States fleet, bound for the California coast, were scheduled to leave Canal Zone waters at midnight. Orders were issued to have the vessels in formation at sea by 8 a. m. tomorrow and the trip north is to start soon thereafter.

While steaming up the coast of Mexico the battleships will execute a number of maneuvers. Airplanes, submarines and destroyers will "attack" other portions of the fleet.

The fleet, under present orders, is to reach San Diego and San Pedro Nov. 9. Cruisers, destroyers and submarines are to remain at San Diego, while battleships, heavy cruisers and airplane carriers will be headed for San Pedro. The vessels will be stationed at these California ports until Dec. 12, when the entire fleet is to start for San Francisco.

SOCIETY WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO IN CALIFORNIA

Napa, Cal., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Nephi Kuykendall, the former Dorothy May Sherwood of Chevy Chase, Md., who was married Oct. 17, was killed when an automobile driven by her husband crashed into a Southern Pacific freight train 10 miles south of here today.

Kuykendall suffered a crushed chest and possible skull fracture but physicians said he probably would recover. Mrs. Kuykendall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilbur Sherwood of 5301 Reno road, Chevy Chase, was en route with her husband to Vallejo, where they were going to make their home.

Kuykendall, son of a San Francisco resident, is a telephone company executive at Vallejo.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Jack Oakie, film comedian, and Rex Lease, also a screen actor, were principals today in a one punch fistic duel, which left both contestants undamaged and extremely secretive.

A Santa Monica boulevard café was the scene of the encounter, and bystanders said Lease let fly with a well-aimed right to Oakie's chin after the comedian had stopped at Lease's table and exchanged a few "wisecracks."

Afterwards Oakie denied that there "had really been a fight," and Lease said he did not want to talk about it.

"I was kidding Lease," explained Oakie. "Guess he didn't feel very well and couldn't take it. You can bet your life, baby, nobody clipped Jackie on the chin."

Spectators said the two were separated by friends.

California Judge Ousts 50 "Box Car Tourists"

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Fifty "box car tourists," given "postcard" sentences by Municipal Judge E. R. Brand on pleas of guilty to vagrancy, were released from jail today and were presumably leaving California. "Mail me a postcard from any state in the union other than California," said Judge Brand, "and I'll dismiss the charges." He had sentenced the vagrants to 180 days in jail, and suspended 179 on the postcard condition.

MEXICO CLAIMS CATHOLICS SEEK ROOSEVELT'S AID

Paper Charges Clergy Plots Armed Revolt.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The newspaper El Nacional published today an allegedly intercepted letter from a mysterious "Sophie" in Washington, D. C., purporting to show that Mexican Catholics are attempting to draw President Roosevelt into the national religious conflict. The newspaper is the official organ of the National Revolutionary [government] party.

El Nacional said the mysterious "Sophie" held several conferences with high dignitaries of the Catholic church in the United States seeking their moral support and "to impress President Roosevelt against the cause of the people of Mexico."

Claims Catholics Plot Revolt.

"High dignitaries of the church in Mexico," said El Nacional, "besides directing anti-government agitation and preparing an armed revolt and possibly a political assassination, are attempting to obtain foreign intervention, if not armed, at least moral and diplomatic."

The newspaper charged that the clergy was "apt to commit treason in order to satisfy its desire for vengeance and its ambition to command."

It was announced that the department of interior is conducting an investigation to determine the authenticity of the published letter.

Archbishop Pascual Diaz, denying that archbishops and bishops in Mexico are responsible for sedition, reaffirmed a previous statement that "the Mexican episcopate has not authorized Catholics to defend the rights of the church through the use of arms or through a political party of religious tendencies."

200,000 Parade in Capital.

A crowd estimated to number 200,000 paraded today through the principal streets of the capital and in front of the national palace, demonstrating in support of the government's religious and educational policies.

President Abelardo Rodriguez reviewed the parade from a balcony of the palace.

A few minor disorders occurred during the parade, but no attempt was made either by Catholics or by students to interfere with the pro-government demonstration.

The Catholics held a simultaneous counter-manifestation, going in small groups to the Villa Guadalupe, shrine of the patron saint of Mexico. Police had prevented them from marching in a body.

Reports from Mazatlan, Sinaloa, said all churches in the city were closed on orders issued by the governor. Priests were said to have left the city, apparently for the United States.

ASKS TIGHTENING UP OF ST. CLAIR RELIEF MACHINE

Fact Finders Report Third of Population Aided.

East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—A "tightening up" of the relief machine in St. Clair county, where nearly a third of the entire population of 158,000 are on the rolls, is urged in a report to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission by a citizens' fact finding committee, it was learned during a survey today.

Although half a dozen other counties have as great a proportion of their people on relief, St. Clair is far larger than any of these and therefore is perhaps the blackest spot on the map in this regard. Climbing pretty steadily, the case load this month is an estimated 11,960 families, or about 47,840 persons. In the county is East St. Louis, a meat packing center of 75,000 population, and Belleville, stove producing capital, with 30,000 inhabitants.

Struggle to Slash Costs.

In May the relief "G. H. Q." at Chicago ousted the regular county relief committee, which had been struggling to keep costs down. From $222,751 that month the expenditures rose to $265,430 in June. After a decline to $251,097 in July the figure went up to $264,559 for August, $318,069 for September, and an estimated $350,000 for October. Administration expense, $4,354 in February, is estimated at $25,000 this month.

The fact finding committee was appointed in June by Executive Secretary W. S. Reynolds of the commission. It consists of Duncan C. Smith and George E. Wuller of Belleville, and I. M. Selser of this city. The committee interviewed a score of prominent citizens, including business men, public officials, and members of the former relief committee.

The resultant report indicates, first, a serious concern on the part of the community in regard to the dependency of a large part of the population and the expenditure of "tremendous amounts" of money. Secondly, it reflects the consensus that the program has been "reasonably well" administered, and honest, and that it probably has in it "inefficient points which should be tightened up as far as possible."

New Relief Committee.

The committee recommended that a new county relief committee be appointed promptly, with general administrative responsibility and directorship, that a public relations division be created.

"It is quite evident," the citizen investigators wrote in part, "that the relief administration has made and will make mistakes. . . . In view of the criticism which is state wide against present administrative costs, this committee desires only to increase such costs when beyond doubt this will decrease the relief load."

Study of the report by the executive staf was recommended by the relief commission, with a view to improving the situation in St. Clair county.

AIRPORT SERVICE PROGRAM ENDED BY GOV. HORNER

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Gov. Henry Horner and his party landed here today to finish his air jaunt about the state conducting dedication ceremonies for four new or reconditioned airports.

It was the second Sunday in succession that the governor took to the air on trips to be present at airport dedications.

Today a squadron of thirteen planes set out from Springfield with the governor and his party. At each of the four airports—Quincy, Dixon, Bloomington, and Joliet—large crowds turned out for the ceremonies.

After the dedication of the airport here the governor went to Chicago, where for the next few days he will enter actively into the political campaign that culminates with the election on Nov. 6.

ployed in the manufacturing industries and a decrease of 5.8 in the pay rolls. In addition to this there was a rise in the cost of living of 2.1 per cent over the previous month.

The national industrial conference board estimated the number of unemployed during September at 9,976,000, an increase of 301,000 over September, 1933.

The American Iron and Steel institute reports that employment in the steel industry was 6 per cent lower in September than in August and nearly 10 per cent below that of September, 1933. The total number of employés in the industry in September was 331,828, as against 404,793 in August and 417,020 in September, 1933.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States says a lag in business operations has appeared in carloadings, in the production of steel, in coal mined and in textile manufacture. But the chamber reports evidence of general improved sentiment in the volume of newspaper advertising, which for twelve consecutive months has shown improvement. The chamber also reports "further indications of a convergence of the general aims of business and the administration in promoting recovery and a growing realization that it must come about through the revival of industry and employment."

Indications Are Summarized.

These indications are:

"The President's address to the bankers. Continued improvement of business sentiment is discernible, although it has not as yet reflected definitly in the volume of transactions.

"While the outlook in this respect is better, further improvement is contingent upon the more explicit setting forth of administration aims in the legislation it will offer and the specific steps it will propose in the carrying forward its program when congress convenes.

"The President's assurance that present governmental lending operations are not to be permanent and that private enterprise will be supported have been favorably received.

"Discontinuance of production and price control as general policies is under contemplation by the new National Recovery administration.

"The question of relief remains the country's most perplexing problem. On the present scale of relief there is no prospect of balancing the federal budget, although there is opportunity for economies in present government operations."

SEES BIG ILLINOIS BURDEN.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois emergency relief commission, predicted yesterday that notwithstanding a higher employment index in the last few months, the family relief load in the state will reach a new all-time high in the coming winter.

Reynolds offered employment and relief statistics for the period from the middle of 1930 to date to show that favorable fluctuations in employment are not immediately accompanied by corresponding decreases in the relief load.

In face of a rise in the employment index from 68.7 in August, 1933, to 72.4 in August, 1934, he said, the family load in Illinois during that time rose from 222,242 to 282,508.

"At the present time," he said "there are approximately 900,000 employable unemployed in Illinois of whom not more than 350,000 are receiving relief. This indicates that the increases in employment are being drawn largely from the unemployment relief and that other unemployment previously not on relief have exhausted their resources and been forced to seek aid."

SUPPORT URGED BY STRATTON FOR STATE AID BONDS

William J. Stratton, Republican candidate for state treasurer, yesterday announced his support of the proposed 30 million dollar state relief bond issue and urged that voters approve the issue in the Nov. 6 election. Mr. Stratton's endorsement was contained in a communication sent from his home at Ingleside to the relief headquarters here.

In asking the voters to approve the bond issue, Mr. Stratton urged that efforts be made to reduce the cost of administering relief funds.

"I should like to see relief funds almost in their entirety go to the women, men, and children who, through no fault of their own, are compelled to accept relief," he said. "I am very much opposed to the relief funds supplied by taxpayers being paid out to political parasites or for the maintenance of overpaid relief administrators."

Stating that the bond issue will be a temporary respite for taxpayers and that eventually they will be compelled to pay the full amount with interest, he added: "I hope that some sensible method can be adopted whereby necessary relief can be financed fairly and justly as we go along."

JEWS SUE TO BAR CLAIM THEY SEEK TO RULE ALL MEN

Charge "World Plan" Is Forged Document.

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A lawsuit opens here tomorrow in which Jewish leaders hope to prove to the world the alleged falsity of mystic documents painting Israel as seeking to dominate all the races of the earth.

It is hoped to establish that these documents, known as the "Protocols of the Elders of Zion," depicting Jewry as seeking world hegemony, are forged and false.

The Swiss Nazi party, with Chancellor Adolf Hitler in the background as the driving force, is alleged to have deliberately plagiarized a famous French essay written to prove that Jewry had ambitions vaster than ever dreamed by either Napoleon the Great or Napoleon III., who proclaimed himself emperor of France.

These documents, it is alleged, have gained world-wide distribution, and in them the Nazis have twisted the "yellow peril," watchword of the former kaiser, into the "Jewish peril."

Congress Fights Rumors.

During the world Jewish conference at Geneva last August sinister rumors were circulated that Jewry sought to create a super-government. The reports were stigmatized as outrageous by Rabbi Stephen Wise of New York, who compared the rumors to the falsity of the notorious protocols of the elders of Zion.

The rumors could not be brought to trial, but the allegedly spurious protocols form the basis of the present lawsuit.

The Union of Jewish Communities in Switzerland and the Jewish Community of Berne lodged a civil complaint against the leaders of the Swiss Nazis and others. They demand confiscation of a pamphlet and especially of the "protocols" as being in violation of the Swiss law prohibiting the printing of trashy literature "calculated to excite vile instincts or to cause brutal offense."

The plaintifs claim the publications are plagiarisms of the celebrated "Dialog in Hades Between Machiavelli and Montesquieu," written in 1864 by the French lawyer, Maurice Joly, against the dictatorship of Napoleon III.

Only Name Changed.

The pretended secrets of the elders of Zion were first published in 1905 in the Russian language by one Nilus.

The Jewish leaders claim the differences in the texts of Joly's essays and the fiery Zionist "protocols" are only the slightest. They also assert that plagiarists substituted the Jewish elders for Machiavelli, who speaks in the name of Napoleon.

In his original essay, Joly, through the voice of Montesquieu, great French philosopher and contemporary of Jean Jacques Rousseau, defends an oppressed people against the despotism of Napoleon, who in the protested publications is transformed into the Jewish elders.

The striking points of the "protocols," like those of the Joly essay, are the necessity of having a muzzled press, a "hierarchy administration similar to the Roman empire," with the removal of all private initiative and personal liberties.

Speaks of Army.

"The greatest secret is to make use of popular prejudices and passions so as to create confusion and prevent accord among peoples of the same language interests," says the dialog.

Another Hades conversation, transformed into a Jewish edict, according to Jewish leaders, advocates a powerful army "which will grow strong through foreign wars."

The Jewish leaders deny absolutely the alleged dreams of world domination. They plan to bring witnesses to prove the documents are fraudulent and that no meeting of Jewish elders ever was held to devise a scheme of world hegemony.

Hitler Orders German Army to Pay Him Full Honors

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—Adolf Hitler, as supreme commander of the German army, today issued instructions concerning his reception on visits to garrison towns. The customary full military honors as head of the state will be accorded him when he pays an official state visit. When his visit is unofficial or private, troops are instructed not to take any official notice of it.

SCHOOLS REVISE LUNCH SYSTEM; PATRONAGE UP

The reorganization of the Chicago High school lunchroom system, ordered by the board of education last spring, brought an increase of 33 per cent in pupil patronage and permitted operation without a deficit during the first month, said F. O. Washam, manager of the new system, yesterday.

"We're especially proud that we're greatly increasing the pupil patronage," Washam said. "This added service enables us to cut costs to students.

"Last year the high school lunchrooms served 27.8 per cent of the total high school student body. This year, during October, we are serving 37 per cent. The actual numerical increase is greater than the percentage figures indicate, since high school enrollment gained several thousand this year."

During October last year the revenues to the school lunchrooms was $65,000, and this year it will be well over $70,000, Mr. Washam said. Menu prices have been kept the same despite the 20 per cent food cost increase, he explained, and larger food portions have been ordered throughout the system.

Centralization of purchasing is making possible the improved service already shown, Mr. Washam said.

NATIONAL GUARD KEPT ON DUTY AT LYNCHING SCENE

Marianna, Fla., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Sunday quiet prevailed here today as National Guardsmen remained on duty following a week-end of mob hysteria during which one Negro was lynched. Another Negro was threatened with violence and a white man who killed a deputy sherif was moved from jail to jail to prevent summary action against him.

State troops, rushed here at orders of Gov. Dave Sholtz when the first lynching was followed by an attempt to take a second Negro from jail, stood guard at the jail and courthouse.

Inquiries were under way into the lynching of Claude Neal, Negro, near Greenwood Friday night. Authorities said he confessed raping and slaying Miss Lola Cannidy.

GERMANY FREES SECOND BISHOP IN CHURCH WAR

Wurm of Wuerttemberg Ordered Released.

STUTTGART, Germany, Oct. 28.—(AP)—As a sequel to the release last week of Bishop Hans Meisser of Bavaria, an unconditional release was granted today to Bishop Theophil Wurm of Wuerttemberg.

Wurm's church councillors have been also quietly freed during the last few days.

Pastor Weber, who, when he recently received an order not to leave his home disappeared from Stuttgart for a secret hiding place, also has been released. Word was received from him today that he would return to Stuttgart.

Hope for Compromise Fades.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—"The fact that an important member of the church government has resigned does not mean that any compromise has been reached," said a statement read from the pulpits in churches of the free creed pastors throughout Germany today. The reference was to the resignation of Dr. August Jaeger, right hand man of Reichbishop Ludwig Mueller, from his "church political functions."

"The situation continues to be balanced on a knife's edge," continued the statement, pointing to the announcement that Dr. Jaeger is retaining the office of legal administrator.

"We do not know whether this means life or death, peace or continued struggle, freedom or a heavier serfdom."

Independence Edict Read.

MUNICH, Germany, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Under the apparent relaxation of Nazi control of the Protestant church, Sunday passed quietly here. The manifesto of the Berlin synod declaring independence from Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller's German Christian church was read from all Protestant pulpits.

There was no display of optimism. Pastors pointed out in their sermons that, while the recent release of Bishop Hans Meisser from virtual imprisonment was warmly welcomed, it must be followed by his reinstatement as bishop.

Can't Save U. S. by Trusting in Brains, Lutheran Asserts

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The American people are now in such a soup that garnishing it with alphabetical brain trust noodles will neither get them out of it nor longer tempt them to remain in it, according to the Rev. Dr. Walter A. Maier, a professor in Concordia seminary, St. Louis. Mr. Maier spoke yesterday before 5,000 Lutherans gathered at the Stevens hotel to observe Reformation Sunday.

Reformation Sunday was observed yesterday by nearly all Protestant and Lutheran churches as the 400th anniversary of Martin Luther's translation of the Bible.

Brains Leave Land Helpless.

Dr. Maier occupies a high position as a representative spokesman in the closely knit Evangelical Lutheran synod of Missouri, which embraces 100,000 Chicagoans and nearly 2,000,000 members throughout the country. He contended that more fundamental reforms are needed than those conceived by the New Deal's brain trust.

"We have taken our refuge in brains," the St. Louis theologian declared, "but the choicest intellects in the 300,000,000 pounds of American brains have left us helpless.

"We have placed our confidence in monetary adjustments and financial experiments; we have relied on artificial manipulation of the basic law of supply and demand. We have sought mainstays in arbitration, treaty, and international agreement; but only a fortnight ago the dean of all contemporary statesmen acknowledged the futility and failure of these international congresses.

"We have tried everything—except the Bible."

Effect of Neglecting Scriptures.

Dr. Maier then discussed the increasing neglect of the Bible and of its morality in American life, adding that the economic slump is no more than the symptom of the resultant spiritual famine. He assailed those colleges and universities "dedicated to God and Christian principles in their charters and endowed by Christian millions which have become hotbeds of atheism, nurseries of easy morals and free love." The St. Louis divine then pointed to what he termed the betrayal of the Bible by theological seminaries.

Dr. Maier turned sarcastically on those who would substitute palliatives for moral reformation or old fashioned righteousness.

"As well," said he, "attempt to cure a brain tumor with a haircut or treat a palpitating heart with a porous plaster. It is as impossible to legislate a nation back to righteousness and prosperity."

RABBI GOLDMAN IS HONORED BY CONGREGATION

The fifth anniversary of Rabbi Solomon Goldman's pastorate of Temple Anshe Emet was observed last night by the congregation in a testimonial dinner at the Palmer house. About 650 guests were present.

Rabbi Goldman in a response address declared that the Jew throughout the ages has made the ultimate perfection of human society the keynote of life. Prophets and sages have impressed on the Jew, the rabbi said, the perfectability of human society.

CLOSE ELECTION IS EXPECTED IN PENNSYLVANIA

G. O. P. Is Battling with Back to Wall.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Biennially, time out of mind, we have been accustomed to the spectacle of the rock ribbed Republicans of rock ribbed Republican Pennsylvania arising, striking a collective attitude and collectively flinging forth the boast of Roderick Dhu.

"Come one, come all, this rock shall fly
"From its firm base as soon as I."

And generally they have made good, even in the great upset of 1912 going no farther astray than to give their state's electoral vote to Theodore Roosevelt. Never since the civil war has Pennsylvania had a Democratic senator and only once a Democratic governor—away back in the nineties.

Democrats Usually Buried.

Biennially we have become accustomed to the spectacle of Democratic candidates in Pennsylvania buried beneath an avalanche of Republican votes. So few Democrats were left that the party became virtually extinct in the Keystone State.

But, shades of Cameron, Quay, and Penrose.

What do we behold today? The G. O. P. in its ancient stronghold fighting with its back to the wall and not at all sure it can keep old rock ribbed from rushing into the arms of a Roosevelt of a different hue from that of the revered Theodore. The New Deal and the Washington Santa Claus have won Republicans from their old allegience by the tens of thousands.

The 160,000 by which Hoover skinned through in Pennsylvania two years ago now looks as big to the G. O. P. managers as Coolidge's million plurality in 1924. They will congratulate themselves if they can reelect Senator David A. Reed on Nov. 6, by 100,000, yea 50,000.

Labor Is Backslider.

Labor, that heretofore in the nation's leading industrial state was faithful to the gospel of the protective tarif has backslid and got religion in the New Deal sect whose creed includes section 7A, the collective bargaining provision of NRA. which has galvanized the American Federation of Labor into new and undreamt of life. Then there are the 11 million unemployed, three-fifths of them on the dole, most of whom are reputed to have registered as Democrats either to assure their continuance on the relief rolls controled by a jealous Democratic God or to qualify them for relief whenever they may be compelled to ask for charity. In Philadelphia alone there are 165,000 families on relief—some 500,000 individuals out of a population of 2,000,000.

Pittsburgh, in all likelihood will go Democratic and it would surprise few of the political sharps if the New Dealers were to come down to the Philadelphia line on pretty even terms with the G. O. P., leaving the battle to be decided in the metropolis. Time was when Philadelphia was good for Republican majorities of several hundred thousand.

Times Have Changed.

But times have changed and Boss Bill Vare is gone, dethroned not long before his death, and none knows whether the new boss, Edwin R. Cox, a tiny man, erect as a ramrod and all iron though he is, can deliver the votes as Vare did. A poll conducted by the Democratic Philadelphia Record shows the Democrats outnumbering the Republicans 3 to 1 in South Philadelphia, where few Democrats lived—or at least voted—in Vare's heyday. The Democrat managers are claiming Philadelphia and Republicans would feel a lot better if they thought they could carry the city by from 50,000 to 100,000.

John B. Kelly, the Democratic boss, a tall, lithe young college athlete who knows all the tricks of both parties and slings a fancy line of campaign talk, is staging an exhibition of the practices of practical politics in the largest auditorium in the city next Monday night. On the platform before the assembled Democratic precinct workers there will be enacted all the polling place tricks whereby Kelly says Vare was enabled to roll up his tremendous Republican majorities and Kelly will instruct his workers how to circumvent the artful dodges.

G. O. P. Leads in Registration.

Republican confidence is bolstered up chiefly by the results of the registration which showed 2,624,386 Republicans and 1,401,005 Democrats in the state; 469,461 Republicans, and 261,955 Democrats in Philadelphia.

Impartial observers think that Senator Reed will pull through, though running behind the Republican candidate for governor, Attorney General A. Schnader. There is much gossip among the politicians of an alleged disposition on the part of the Democratic leaders to effect a trade whereby Democratic support would be swung to Schnader in exchange for Republican support for Joseph F. Guffey, the Democratic candidate for senator. The Democratic candidate for governor, who would be sacrificed by such a trade, is George H. Earle III., a millionaire, who resigned a Roosevelt appointment to the diplomatic service to make the race.

Guffey has been the Democratic boss of Pennsylvania since 1912 when, as a youthful Princetonian, he unseated the leadership of his famous Uncle Jim, who will be remembered as the fragile old man who reproached William Jennings Bryan for ingratitude when Bryan read him out of the party in the Denver convention. The charge of ingratitude was based on a stained glass window, the gift of Jim Guffey, in Bryan's house.

Gets Funds from Raskob.

After 1912 when his prediction that Woodrow Wilson would carry the state was not fulfilled, Joe Guffey ventured no more prophesies till 1928 when he impressed Raskob so convincingly of Al Smith's chances that Raskob invested several hundred thousand dollars of Democratic campaign funds in Pennsylvania to no avail.

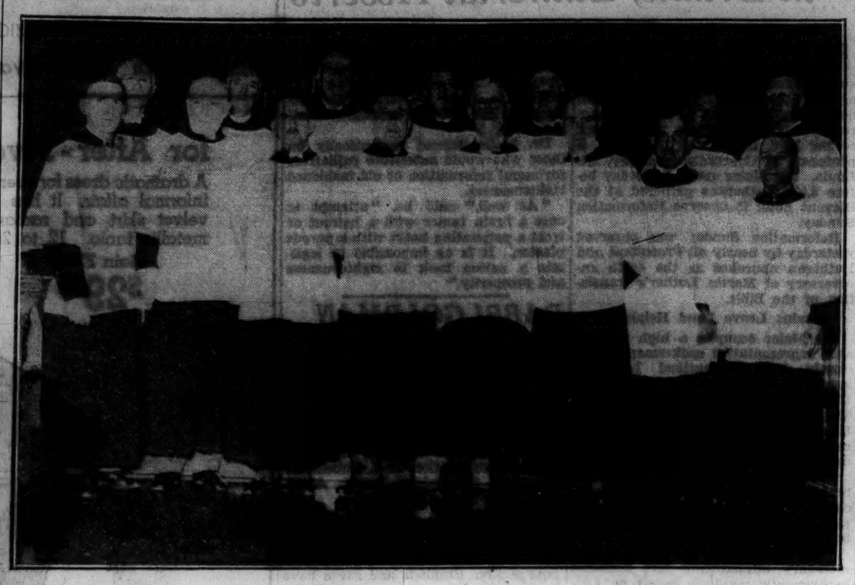
Now Guffey is again prophesying that what has not happened since the civil war is about to happen. Though congenially as conservative as his uncle Jim, Guffey yields not even to Jim Farley in blind acceptance on faith of the New Deal. As an FRBC [for Roosevelt before Chicago], he stands ace high at Washington.

Guffey is proclaiming the virtues and material benefits of the New Deal which have come to Pennsylvania and is leaving no stone unturned to get more while the getting is good. Though the Roosevelt administration has poured some 700 million dollars of government money into Pennsylvania, Guffey with White House assistance is now dangling some even juicier Pennsylvania bait before the eyes of the voters.

With the political acumen for which he is noted, Guffey gave an impressive stage setting to this latest bid for the support of the materially minded. He and Earle went to Washington and had a conference with the President.

When they emerged from the White House conference Guffey and Earle gave out a statement, prepared beforehand, in which was announced the President's instruction to the national resources board to make several surveys for the development of water power and steam electrification in Pennsylvania, projects that would require the expenditure of several hundred million dollars of government money.

VETERAN CHOIR SINGERS MEET AGAIN



Old time members of the choir in St. James' Episcopal church as they assembled yesterday for Alumni day, part of the church's centennial program. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Sang 51 Years Ago

Choir members who sang forty and fifty years ago in St. James' Episcopal church, Wabash avenue and Huron street, took their places again yesterday afternoon as an observance of alumni day, part of the church's centennial program.

Oldest in the group from point of continuous service was George Berg, who still sings in the choir. He has been a member for the last fifty-one years and more than a half century ago he rang the bell at St. James' which called the neighborhood to worship.

Other veterans and the dates on which they entered the choir were Andrew Newman, 1883; George Bainbridge, 1892; Charles L. Day, 1891; William C. Berry, 1887; John G. Barnett, 1894; Albert Cotsworth, 1895; Herbert A. Seymour, 1895, and Herman B. Klahre, 1907.

The works of Dudley Buck, noted composer and former organist at St. James', and Peter Christian Lutkin, late dean of music of Northwestern university, a former organist at the church, featured the choir program.

JURY MAY HEAR CABLES SENT TO INSULL ABROAD

Evidence in the form of four cablegrams to Samuel Insull and his son in Europe is expected to be introduced by the government in the Insull mail fraud case before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson this week, the fifth week of trial. The government will attempt to prove by the decoded messages that Insull was a "fugitive from justice" until his arrest in Turkish waters last spring.

One of the wires to be read to the jury, according to United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, was sent by Insull's former confidential secretary who is one of his sixteen co-defendants in the case, John F. O'Keefe. It read in part: "Sam Insull should not comply with any requests or demands to return."

Another message, addressed to the younger Insull, also a defendant, quoted lawyers' advice here that no extradition treaty existed with Greece, making extradition impossible, and advising the former utility magnate to go there to live. A third suggested that Insull see Sir Basil Zaharoff, European financier.

The trial will reach the half way point this week, according to prosecutors who say they expect to close the government's case in two or three days.

LEGION PATRIOTIC DRIVE PLANNED FOR NOVEMBER

The Illinois Legionnaire, official publication of the American Legion for this state, is to conduct an intensified Americanism campaign during November, according to an announcement yesterday. An advisory committee of civic and business leaders will aid in the educational drive.

A speech by Paul G. Armstrong, department commander, will be carried by sound newsreels to every part of the state. Newspapers, radio, and billboards will be used. A number of meetings are planned.

Reports of recent communistic activities, it is said, prompted the order for the campaign. Harlow Hellstrom, executive secretary of the Illinois Legion, will direct the drive.

TVA DRIVES ITS OWN BARGAINS WITH INDUSTRY

Old "Freezeout" Game Is Again Employed.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The Tennessee Valley authority, most ambitious of the New Deal's social and economic experiments to date, has demonstrated in three notable instances that it will brook no interference from private enterprise. It has shown that to accomplish its ends it will resort to the ancient "freeze out" practices which brought about the anti-trust laws.

ARTHUR MORGAN.

The latest of these was the purchase of two small plots of land at prices far in excess of the prevailing rates on the Little Tennessee river in North Carolina, where a private power company was buying up land to build itself a dam.

This week a petition signed by 7,500 of the voting population of 11,000 in the three counties affected will be presented to Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the TVA. The petition, also addressed to President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, bitterly protests against the government's action on the ground that the power company provides about one sixth of all the local revenues.

Forces Prices Down.

In another transaction the TVA forced private manufacturers to take prices of $1.74 to $1.88 for the 6,000,000 barrels of cement that will be required in the construction of dams, power houses and other facilities, by openly threatening to build a huge government plant.

The third transaction in which the TVA employed the tremendous resources of the government to drive a bargain on its own terms was the taking over of the Tennessee Public Service company of Knoxville at a price of $6,188,000, leaving only about $30 a share for five million dollars in preferred stock that had been selling at $60 to $70 a share and leaving nothing for two millions in common stock.

Aided By PWA Offer.

The TVA was aided and abetted in this transaction by the offer of a $2,600,000 loan and grant from the Public Works administration to the city of Knoxville, with which it could have constructed its own power distributing system and put the Tennessee Public Service company out of business.

In Graham, Macon and Swain counties of North Carolina the Nantahala Power and Light company, already having constructed three dams at a cost of thirty-five million dollars on the Little Tennessee river, had acquired 80 per cent of the land necessary for a fourth dam, the proposed Fontana project. A few weeks ago a man by the name of E. W. Cowling Jr. came into the territory and startled two citizens with offers of cash for their property. C. C. Lloyd received $150 for a parcel of 1,500 square feet for which he paid $50 and W. C. Welsh received $709.17 for 12.6 acres. Land was being sold in the same locality to the private power company for $45 an acre.

Not until the options taken by Mr. Cowling were recorded did anybody in the community know that he was an agent for the TVA.

Company Stuck with Land.

The Nantahala company is now stuck with the land it has purchased and cannot go ahead with its plans to build the dam because the TVA is a government enterprise and condemnation cannot be exercised on the small patches that stand in the way.

The Knoxville transaction, still pending in the courts, dates back to last November, when the citizens voted to float a bond issue of two million dollars and exchange them for a two million PWA loan, in addition to a free grant of $600,000 with which to build a municipal power plant. TVA officials thereupon began negotiations to purchase the properties of the Tennessee Public Service company, offering 5¼ millions. This was turned down because there was a bond issue of $7,780,000 outstanding.

In the ensuing negotiations, David E. Lilienthal, the power member of the TVA, coolly reminded the electric company that, due to the existence of the PWA loan for a municipal plant, it would not be necessary to buy at all; Knoxville could build its own distributing plant, get its power from TVA, and how would Tennessee Public Service feel about that?

PARTY WARFARE HIDES ISSUE OF FOUR YEAR TERM FOR ALDERMEN

Almost sidetracked in the strife between the parties over the winning of public offices at the election next week is the referendum on the four year term for aldermen.

Under the present arrangement members of the city council are elected for two year terms. During the last regular session of the legislature in 1933, however, the charter amendment to the constitution was changed to provide that in 1935 aldermen would be elected simultaneously with a mayor and would serve for four years.

Each change in the charter amendment, adopted in 1904, requires approval or disapproval of the city's electorate, hence the referendum on Nov. 6. The proposition needs a majority of the votes cast upon it for passage.

Some of the aldermen interviewed on the subject expressed a preference, "but not for publication," for the lengthened tenure. They said they would be more independent.

Another argument advanced for the longer term was that it would save the taxpayers $750,000 in election expenses.

The Citizens' association and other civic groups have expressed their opposition to the lengthened term.

Leaders of Jewish Fund Conference Are Elected

Plans for further purchase of land in Palestine to establish a national home for Jews were made yesterday at a meeting of the Jewish national fund conference at the Hotel Sherman. Three hundred members of various Zionist organizations attended. Officers elected for the Chicago area were: H. Steinberg, chairman; Rabbi I. H. Weisfeld and Charles Bierman, vice chairmen; H. D. Bubman, treasurer; N. Drosdoff, financial secretary; Judah Pilch, executive secretary, and A. E. Abramowitz, chairman of the administrative committee.

DEMOCRATS DRAG IN HEAVIEST GUNS TO HOLD CHICAGO

Extreme Exertion Reveals Chiefs' Nervousness.

Final salvos from the political artillery will resound in Chicago this week as each party strives to win last minute support for its state, county, judicial and legislative tickets. Only eight days remain before election on Nov. 6.

Loop theaters are now being engaged for the customary noon meetings which in the past have often brought the hottest preëlection blasts. Until these meetings begin, candidates will continue their ward appearances, the Democrats with such an array of officials as to foster the belief that they are considerably uneasy.

United States Senators Lewis and Dieterich and Gov. Henry Horner are to make several addresses before mass-meetings in different sections of the city today, tomorrow, and Wednesday.

Program of Big Lights.

Tonight they will speak on the south side, in the Trianon ballroom at 6201 Cottage Grove avenue. Tomorrow they will appear on the west side at Guyon's Paradise, 128 North Crawford avenue, and Wednesday night the trio will speak on the north side at the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue.

Republican schedules have not been completed, but they will probably be announced today.

The governor is expected to push the candidacies of Democrats who aspire to the legislature in an effort to retain control of the house at Springfield. Since Justus L. Johnson, Republican state chairman, predicted confidently that the Republicans would elect more than the 77 members necessary to choose a speaker, the governor has been in several downstate districts where there are contests drumming up votes for the two Democrats running in each.

Four Real Cook County Fights.

In the Franklin D. Roosevelt landslide of 1932, which also swept in the entire state Democratic ticket, 30 Democrats and 73 Republicans were elected to the house. This fall in Cook county 36 Democrats and 25 Republicans were nominated for 57 available seats. There are only four contests in the county, two of them in normally Republican districts—the 5th [Hyde Park] and the 7th, which comprises the country towns surrounding the Chicago city limits.

Downstate, however, the legislative races are much hotter, for there are contests in 23 of the 32 districts. Democrats nominated 56 candidates downstate and the Republicans 63, a total of 119 to fill 96 seats. It is rare when half the seats are in contest; this fall more than two-thirds are scenes of battles.

In the "set-up" districts—where only three persons were nominated—40 Democrats and 32 Republicans were assured of election. Since the house membership is 153, 81 seats are thus under contest.

Explanation of "Set-up."

The "set-up" is possible because three state representatives are chosen in each district.

Sitting members who will be returned by these pre-primary agreements to nominate only three persons include 33 Democrats and 31 Republicans. Fifty-one other sitting members are having battles for reëlection. A total of 115 of those at present in the house chose to run again, 38 having dropped out, met defeat in the primary, or died.

The governor may count on a sizable bloc of Cook county support from Democratic members who, in addition to holding the seats in the assembly, also have Democratic county or city jobs. Lucky jobs, Republicans contend, make the holders administration puppets.

Tabulations sent out by the Illinois News Bureau, a Republican organization, show that of 13 Democratic nominees for the senate, five hold local jobs. On the house side, of 36 Democratic candidates for representative, 24 have local jobs.

The bureau lists the following Democratic legislative nominees as payrollers [asterisks mark sitting members; parentheses inclose districts]:

SENATE.

*John M. Lee [13th], deputy bailif, Municipal court.

Candidates on Nov. 6 Ballot

Democratic.

John S. Clark has been in the city council for 17 years as alderman from the old 35th and present 30th wards. For the last seven years he has been chairman of the council's finance committee. He was one of the leaders in the council fight to show up the Faherty real estate experts who drew millions from the city treasury. For a number of years he has been Democratic committeeman of the 30th ward, but did not run for the committeemanship in 1933 when up for reelection as alderman.

Ald. Clark was born in Chicago in 1891. He attended grammar school, college, and law school. In 1912 he engaged in the real estate business, in which he is still active. He is married and lives at 215 South Cicero avenue.

Republican.

James C. Moreland is serving his second term in the city council as the representative of the 41st ward and also is in his second term as Republican committeeman of the ward. He was the Republican nominee in 1930 for congress in the Seventh district, but was defeated in the Democratic landslide. He was a delegate to the Republican national convention in 1932.

Ald. Moreland was born on a farm in Kentucky on Oct. 24, 1886. He attended short terms in a country school and later attended night schools. At the age of 12 he moved to Hopkinsville and worked as a printer's "devil," finally becoming editor of a country newspaper. He came to Chicago in 1908, and for the last 22 years has been in the building and real estate business. He is married and resides at 5909 North Mason avenue.

"HOW I SAVED $27.23 ON MY CAR INSURANCE"

"I SAVED $27.23 on my car insurance last year because I dealt direct with Liberty Mutual.

"You see, they sell only through full-time, salaried automobile insurance specialists. This greatly reduces sales costs.

"They also make big savings by selecting their policyholders. Reckless, dangerous drivers cannot buy insurance from Liberty. Responsible, careful-driving car-owners are entitled to buy insurance at a lower cost—and 115,000 of them did in 1933.

"Under Liberty's strictly mutual plan, these huge savings belong to its policyholders. The balance—after being added to surplus to strengthen the company—is returned to policyholders in the form of cash dividends.

"Every year for 22 years—Liberty policyholders have received cash dividends of 20% of premiums. These dividends have totalled over $40,000,000. They have meant an actual saving, because Liberty sells at the same standard initial rates as all reliable companies. That's how I saved $27.23 on my 1933 car insurance.

"And, I received protection from a company whose resources and surplus have increased every year—right through the depression.

"No company I know of settles claims more promptly or fairly. They keep their policyholders out of court and out of trouble. Liberty's 115,000 policyholders are Liberty's best salesmen because they renew their policies every year and recommend Liberty to their friends."

POET'S LETTERS MAY BE MURDER TRIAL FEATURE

Woodland, Cal., Oct. 28.—(AP)—A hint of fresh evidence in the shape of unpublished letters between slain Lamar Hollingshead, university poet, and pretty Mrs. Helen Louise Doke, came from defense counsel today as the murder trial of Judson C. Doke drew near.

Doke, former San Leandro city official, will go on trial Tuesday for the shooting of Hollingshead, asserted paramour of Mrs. Doke.

Arthur C. Houston Jr., chief defense counsel, answering a question of what attitude the defense would take toward the correspondence that has come to light since the killing of 23 year old Hollingshead, said:

"There are lots of letters that haven't been published."

The possibility that Doke's wife, who is 26, would be a witness in her husband's behalf remained in doubt. Houston said she had been subpenaed "but I don't know whether we will use her."

Meantime it was learned the attractive brunette recently visited with Doke in the county jail.

Irish Farmers Riot Over Taxes and Land Annuities

KANTURK, County Cork, Irish Free State, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Gunplay by detectives, who fired over the heads of the crowd, and exhortation by a priest were necessary to restore order today at a meeting of farmers carrying on a campaign against payment of taxes and land annuities. James Power, a youthful member of the Blue Shirt political group, was shot and seriously injured.

THE LEGION WANTS THE BONUS.

The American Legion by a vote of 5 to 1 in convention asks for the immediate cash payment of the bonus certificates in amount of approximately two billion dollars. The certificates, which have an increasing loan value from year to year, are due and payable in full in 1945, by which time, if the federal financing of the scheme could be carried through, the total of the government contract obligation to the veterans would be available. In other years when there has been a demand in the Legion for an immediate settlement the more considerate and prudent veterans have been able to keep the upper hand, but this year they lost it.

A government devoting itself to national recovery by reduction of federal expenditures, the balancing of the budget, and relief by reduced taxation could address itself to the veterans' demand with the statement that the payment of the bonus would destroy the chance of recovery. If conditions were different from what they are now such reasoning might continue to prevail. But what is the present government to say logically to the citizens who served in the army? They approach Washington by a door which the administration opened. They seek to enter along with the beneficiaries of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the Public Works Administration, the Civil Works Administration, the Citizens' Conservation Corps, the Federal Emergency Relief, the Home Owners' Loan association, the Federal Housing Administration, the Federal Housing Repair Administration, etc.

If the fallacy that billions of public funds can be distributed to prime the pump and stimulate the purchase and use of goods is not a fallacy but economically sound, what argument can be given the veterans that two billion dollars distributed to them will not serve the same purpose? The soundness of the argument against it has not been vitiated except by the government's own procedure in other directions. The arguments of the veterans can be answered, but the rebuttal is out of the hands of the various emergency administrators. Mr. Wallace may be able to tell a man who got $30 a month when a farmer was selling $2.50 wheat that the farmer deserves a subsidy and the ex-soldier does not, but the ex-soldier will not listen to this. Mr. Ickes may say that there is a sound economic reason for the Buchanan dam in Texas and none for the $1,000 the veteran might put in his pocket, but he in turn will not be listened to.

The veteran will run his eye down the list of subsidies, he will scrutinize the classes of citizens granted benefits, and he will say that a government devoting itself to such purposes cannot ignore him.

If Jim Farley is the head Santa Claus the veteran will demand a piece off the Christmas tree. It is a bad situation, but it is only a part of a whole. The veteran may say that the government took a profit of over two billion dollars by refusing to meet its gold obligations and by confiscating all the basic metal, by devaluing the dollar and taking the profits. He may also say that he has no confidence that a government administered as is the one at present can possibly take up the bonus certificates when they come due. He may say that by then the bill of costs will be too high, the crash will have come and the only way to get the money is to get it now when it is being paid out without regard for consequences. The administration has created this situation and now does not know how to deal with it.

TRANS-ATLANTIC AIR SERVICE.

Despite the editorial support that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE always has given projects for the improvement and modernization of transportation, the announcement that dirigible service between Germany and the United States may be inaugurated during 1935 by German interests inspires certain misgivings. The United States supplies Europe each year with its most lucrative contingent of tourists, the majority of whom bid farewell to American institutions at a New York dock. They commence to contribute to the coffers of foreign corporations before they leave our harbors.

The United States also has a substantial exchange of commodities with European nations. Yet foreign ships deliver the great bulk of our imports and return with the lion's share of our exports. Now it seems that our air travel possibilities also are to be exploited by foreign nations. "We'll come and get you and bring you back home," they say.

Dr. Eckener has made his announcement at the low ebb of aviation development in this country and probably is aware of the circumstances. Trans-Atlantic service has been the goal of years of thought and experiment of such men as Lindbergh and Sikorsky. They had developed the American clipper to fly between Miami and various points on the South American seaboard, to be superseded by the more powerful Brazilian clipper which has sufficient range for trans-Atlantic service. The Pan-American air mail contract was not canceled, but other aviation progress in America has been prostrated by the sledgehammer blows of Postmaster Farley, spoils politics making sport of public service.

Aviation progress is too rapid to brook the delays of unscrupulous politics. Our air supremacy is endangered. Regulation, if any, must be extremely broad. In fact, the only important question before the administration is whether service to foreign countries is to be given support or resigned to foreign agencies.

UPTON SINCLAIR, DEMOCRATIC STANDARD BEARER.

When Upton Sinclair, Socialist, won the Democratic nomination for governor in California he was joined in convention by Mr. McAdoo and George Creel, defeated candidate in the primaries. The convention accepted the Socialist nominee and his ideas. He later went east and was received at the White House. He was officially welcomed into the Democratic party by Mr. Farley, Call Me Jim, the manager of the national campaign for the administration.

All this was when it seemed that Mr. Sinclair was a popular hero on the west coast. Then came indications that all was not well with the New Deal, as revealed in the Literary Digest poll, and a wave of astonishment that a Socialist radical should be revealed as the standard bearer of the national Democratic party. Since then there has been an attempt to retract, furthered by Dr. Moley and Mr. Creel. The attempt fails. Mr. Sinclair is in the right pair of shoes. He and his schemes frighten people, rightfully and justly. They are, however, the schemes of the New Deal. Sinclair is the Democratic party in the present campaign. He is Dr. Tugwell, Mr. Wallace, Mr. Richberg, Mr. Morgenthau and the other administrators of President Roosevelt.

When Mr. Farley writes the California Democrats hoping they will elect the popular candidate and give President Roosevelt a collaborator in that state he expresses his understanding of the New Deal purposes and hopes. When Mr. Creel tries to retract and tells Sinclair he is unsound and un-American he merely expresses the fear that too much of the New Deal is being shown up in California in its true form and substance and that it will, as it should, bring the American people to their senses.

Farley thought Sinclair was a true New Deal Democrat, and an inquiring world will want to know wherein the Tammany leader is mistaken, if it be alleged that he is.

If Mr. Creel wants to read himself out of the Democratic party he will find it an easier job than reading Mr. Sinclair out. What, indeed, does Mr. Sinclair propose that is not in tune, in spiritual and economic accord with the major doctrines proclaimed in Washington? Mr. Creel says Mr. Sinclair proposes to do things prohibited by the constitution. Where did he as a Democrat resurrect this document? When did the New Deal begin to pay any attention to it? Will Mr. Creel name the particulars in which it has been consulted by the planners of the planned society? Does he dissent from the Democratic doctrine that the constitution has been outworn and cannot restrict the activities of a forward going government?

Mr. Sinclair is told that he is unsound and un-American. What is the Democratic idea of being un-American? Mr. Sinclair is told that he will bankrupt the state and destroy private industry. Is this Ogden Mills talking? Mr. Sinclair might conclude that he was listening to a Tory address to President Roosevelt.

If Mr. Farley is taken to task for assuming that Upton Sinclair, the Socialist, is a sound Democratic candidate whose election is to be desired by the party and the administration, he can put up a defense in behalf of himself which will make his critics in the party look silly. Mr. Farley may not be the country's greatest intellect, but he is familiar enough with the New Deal when he sees it.

If Mr. Sinclair is not the New Deal, then Dr. Tugwell is really Simeon Fess. Sinclair is not promising anything more for California within two years than Washington started out promising the country a year and a half ago. Immediate EPIC has its counterpart in a score of alphabetical combinations which the New Deal announced contained the immediate salvation of the country. Mr. Hopkins of the Emergency Relief has put the idle to work in factories. Mr. Roosevelt proposes subsistence farms. The administration intends to have the old age pensions. The government pays no attention to public expenses. It proceeds by subsidies and doles.

Sinclair is the New Deal. He is the Democratic party. He supports its proposals. He puts forward its schemes. Fortunately he also unmasks them. The people can see them for what they are. There is reason for fearing what Upton Sinclair would do to the state of California. There is the same reason for fearing what the present federal administration will do to the country.

Editorial of the Day

STATE PARKS.

[Indianapolis News.]

Indiana's Dunes State park draws thousands from Chicago every Sunday during the summer and leads other state parks in attendance records. When the trees begin to color and Lake Michigan is too cold for swimmers, Brown county state park takes the lead in paid admissions. On Sunday, Oct. 13, the Brown county park had its biggest day, with 16,294 visitors up to 4 p. m., and park attendants estimated that 2,000 more visitors entered the reservation after 4. Last week's attendance was 19,937, and of that number 12,879 paid their way in on Sunday. The drop of 3,500 was contrary to expectations of park guides, who expected 25,000 for Sunday if the day was fair. Turkey Run park is running second to Brown county, but its paid admissions last week, including Sunday, Oct. 21, reached only 3,914. For the previous week, including Sunday, 5,417 persons paid their way in. At 10 cents each the visitors to the Brown county park paid the state about $3,500 during the last two weeks. Attendance at all the state parks promises to break previous records this year. There are Sundays in summer when the number of Illinois cars entering the Turkey Run gates are in excess of Indiana cars. Illinois provides the bulk of the business for the Dunes park most of the year, and Illinois, Michigan, and northern Ohio visitors are swelling the attendance at the Pokagon park on Lake James. Clifty Falls is popular with Ohio and Kentucky citizens. During the course of a year it is probable that most of the visitors to state parks are from other states.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

FISH STORIES are a little late, but this one is good and is apparently absolutely true. It must be true because it came all the way from Munich, and think of what the cable tolls run up to. A small terrier was pursuing a water rat which, being a water rat, jumped into the water. The terrier, being a terrier, jumped after him, whereupon two pike went to the rescue of the water rat and, fiercely attacking the terrier, drove him ashore. The story doesn't say so, but one of the pike slapped the terrier in the eye and gave him a black eye. But no, if it was a Scotch terrier he would have a black eye anyhow, being black all over. Still, the story would be a little better if the correspondent had said that the pike pursued the terrier to the shore, and then, jumping out on the beach, chased him into the woods and up a tree. Finding they could not climb the tree, the pike gave shrill cries and soon a number of other fish appeared which flew right to the top of the tree and vigorously assaulted the dog until his master came and drove them away. Nobody could doubt that story, for every one knows that there are flying fish. But press correspondents have no imagination.

SONNET I.

When I have seen pale moonlit vapors glide
Across the midnight's astral countenance,
Nor once recede, but in a cloudy tide
Sweep from our eyes all heaven's proud expanse;
When I have watched the golden Autumn change
To dead-leafed Winter, when the voiceless trees
Think with me sadly on the gorgeous range
Of their late colors, vanished by degrees;
And when, upon the shelves of labored rhyme,
I chance on some forgotten poet's lay,
Dusty, unknown, a slave to wasteful Time,
Although unchallenged in another day,
Then no words can I summon to deny
The certain death that loveliness must die.

THE FIANCE of Miss McAdoo is spoken of in the newspapers as "a man without a country." That's an awful plight to be in. I can't imagine anything worse. "A man without a country." How horrible! Why, if a man hasn't got a country, how can he get on the relief rolls? Tsk! tsk! tsk!

A PATHETIC MESSAGE.

ON ISLAND IN MICHIGAN AVENUE, Oct. 28. —(Via Short Wave.)—Sir: Three persons, including your correspondent, are still marooned on a safety island in Michigan avenue. The party, which was unexpectedly formed during the recent change in traffic signals, lost its other member yesterday when a careening auto sidewiped the west side of the island. The vehicle dragged our companion away, and with him our only deck of cards, so that it is now impossible to pass the hours away playing bridge. This morning a club was formed and given the name of Michigan Avenue Pedestrian Exiles' Club and we look forward to early affiliation with the refugees on the other safety islands. Three apples and a banana which were filched from a passing fruit wagon have been our sole food. If an airplane will drop a can opener it will be possible to open a case of what appears to be tomato juice, but gosh! maybe it's hootch! A small tent would be of use also, as it begins to look like a long, cold winter ahead. Can you suggest any way of escape? FEATHER.

This heart-rending appeal for the poor castaways on one of the safety islands in Michigan avenue should not go unheeded. Kind-hearted motorists speeding merrily along the avenue should do something to help them. They were law-abiding, innocent pedestrians trying only to cross the street, but as traffic goes both ways they were trapped and there they remain. There are many such groups and something should be done for them at once. Prisoners have often escaped from grim dungeons by tunneling their way out with a spoon. Let motorists toss spoons to the castaways. Packages of cigarets would also be appreciated, as would hot dog sandwiches, sewing machines, and golf clubs. Let us all do what we can to rescue these and other unhappy people marooned on the safety islands in Michigan avenue. Let our slogan be:

"GET THE BOYS OFF THE MICHIGAN AVENUE SAFETY ISLANDS BEFORE CHRISTMAS!"

WHAT BECAME OF THAT DEPRESSION anyway? Here state officials in Pennsylvania claim that an estate recently probated should be properly valued at $450,000,000. When we Americans leave estates valued at $450,000,000 how could there ever have been the slightest suggestion of a depression? Or won't your estate be worth that much? I don't think mine will. No, looking it over casually, I find three one dollar bills, four nickels, a quarter, a plugged half dollar, two Canadian dimes, and a suspender button. Which, of course, is much less than $450,000,000. I've got a rain check to the Cubs ball park, also an unused street car transfer, but of course that doesn't change things much.

CAKE.

My neighbor in the city whisks a lovely cake,
Far nicer than the one I seldom try to make.
Sometimes I wish, most fervently, her cake would fall,
The icing grain and lump and not be fine at all,
And mine would be so fluffy, light, so marvelous,
The country round about would come with sweet tongued fuss.

But shame on me . . . the dough is bubbling . . .
I must knead

SCIATICA.

Of the miles of nerve fibers in the human body there are many that carry the sense of pain. In general, nerves are said to be motor or sensory. Motor nerves convey to muscles the impulses that cause them to contract, while sensory nerves tell us when to keep away from danger or anything that will cause pain. If we were not provided with pain nerves we would not have sense enough to withdraw the hand from a burning flame; if we were without motor nerves we would not have the power to do so. Pain fibers in nerves set up a sort of protective or warning barrier; they also cause no small amount of grief. Whenever our pain nerve fibers are injured, pressed upon, or become inflamed or diseased, we feel pain.

Pain may be overwhelming and utterly disabling. It is, however, not always safe to judge the seriousness of a condition by the severity of the pain. A gangrenous appendix may not exhibit nearly as much pain as a pinched finger. Most of us have learned that pain is a signal that calls for investigation. It refuses to be ignored.

One of the large nerve trunks of the body, the sciatic, is sometimes the seat of severe and at times almost continuous pain. Trouble in this area is called sciatica.

Many orthopedic surgeons believe that the majority of the cases of so-called sciatica are due to disease of the pelvic bones—for example, the sacroiliac joint. Whenever this line of union between two important supporting bones of the body is inflamed or injured pain and discomfort usually result. In such a situation a proper support with rest may remedy the condition.

Pain, which at first may be periodical, is the distinguishing feature of sciatica. Unless the proper remedy is found reasonably soon the pain increases in intensity and may become practically continuous. Movement intensifies the pain and the sufferer does everything in his power to protect the affected hip region by leaning the body toward the affected side. Sometimes the patient develops quite a characteristic gait, walking on the tips of the toes, and bending the knee.

Physicians have learned that accurate diagnosis in cases of sciatic pain requires a careful examination of the nerve and its many branches, and of the bones of the lower spine and pelvis. The X-ray is a great help. Furthermore, the condition must be carefully differentiated from tuberculosis of the hip joint and inflammatory disease of the hip bones, as these diseases may give rise to identical symptoms.

While the cause of the disease is being searched for the patient should be in bed and in such a posture as will give him the greatest relief. Rest is essential. Massage should not be used in the acute stage.

If a true neuritis is diagnosed the family, as well as the patient, must understand that inflamed or damaged nerves heal slowly. If an infection is responsible, such as may be found in the teeth, tonsils, sinuses, or colon, removal of the infection, followed by treatment, is indicated.

For general treatment physical therapy, sunlight, hot baths, and hot packs should be the chief reliance. More cases have been benefited by proper hot water treatment than by any other single method. Heat from the infra-red lamp may be fully as effective as hot water. In the main, the treatment is designed to stimulate circulation, to carry away the products of infection and hence inflammation, and to promote healing. Neglected cases of sciatica often result in crippling deformities and in muscular atrophy.

Many physicians have come to recognize a natural tendency to rheumatism, arthritis, or gout in certain individuals. These same persons are possible victims of sciatica.

ACID MOUTH.

S. D. writes: How can acid mouth be corrected?

REPLY.

By good mouth hygiene—having the teeth placed in good condition and keeping the tongue clean. Make certain there is no infection of the tonsils. Sometimes excessive smoking aggravates the condition.

HAIR TURNS DARKER.

J. D.: What causes the hair to turn from a light to a darker shade?

REPLY.

As one grows older the hair always becomes darker. Usually, later in life the pigment is absorbed and gray or white hair results.

PRISON PAROLE.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a son in Joliet prison who is shortly to come up for parole. Will I, or one of my family, have to appear for him, and where? Should I employ a lawyer, or isn't it necessary? Will letters from his former employers help his case any? M. M.

On indeterminate sentences [such as "1 to 10 years" or "10 years to life"] eligibility to parole comes only when the minimum sentence has been fully served. On definite sentences [such as "10 years"] imposed after June 8, 1928, a short-cut way of figuring "good time" on the longer terms is to divide the maximum by 2 and add 1 year and 3 months. Thus on a 6 year sentence eligibility to parole would come after 4 years and 3 months. On sentences of 4 years and less the term to be served is slightly shorter; thus on 2 years it is 1 year and about 9 months. On definite sentences imposed before June 8, 1928, there is an additional "progressive merit system allowance," ranging from 5 months and 15 days on a 2 year sentence to 3 years 7 months and 15 days on a 20 year sentence.

Further information can be secured by writing to the Supervisor of Paroles, Division of Pardons and Paroles, State House, Springfield, Ill.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—The British medical faculty is on the eve of announcing to the world some startling results of its researches in the field of serpent toxins, and the use of these in the treatment of malignant growths, the pain they engender, and the general control of human suffering by the use of the snake's secretions.

Experiments have been tried with considerable success, and Dr. Edward Mellanby, secretary to the Government Medical Research board, informed an audience of scientists that the British Empire Cancer Research workers are using snake poison in certain cases.

The injections are made under the skin. Only a small hypodermic needle is used, and the injection consists of only a few drops, of which it is alleged two-thirds are distilled water.

In this particular branch of serpent toxicology the French have simultaneously made an announcement. Dr. Hariz of the Pasteur Institute of Paris has forwarded to the British faculty a full report of his having cured a malignant ulcer by the employment of the poison of the Indian cobra.

Dr. Hariz declared the French Society of Medical History placed at his disposal certain ancient prescriptions of the Arab doctors of Moorish Spain. These prescriptions had reference chiefly to boils and other nonmalignant growths. But he found the seed of a treatment therein and informed his colleagues in London that he has a formula for controling, if not curing, cancer with cobra venom.

British doctors have received this report with courteous reserve, and are giving it careful study. Its arrival in London has, however, caused the local faculty for the first time to acknowledge that stocks of serpent venom are kept in the hospitals, and are given by experts to patients for a variety of ailments.

Two British doctors in particular have been working on these researches, Dr. Hamilton Fairley of Harley street, who spent years among the deadliest snakes of Australia, and Dr. FitzSimmons of Cape Town. The late Dr. Glen Liston also worked on cobra research for a score of years in Bombay.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

In spite of its name, the fly-catcher is nothing but a rank amateur at catching flies and other insects. Many other birds catch them much better and miss fewer attempts. Fly-catchers fail in many of their attempts to catch insects on the wing, whereas such birds as the swallow, the night hawk, the wood peewee, and the vireo seldom fail to "get their bug." The doughty kingbird is also a professional fly-catcher.

ABOUT BANKS.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Reports of the American Bankers' association convention in Washington quote Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, as telling the bankers that they must not be so fussy about keeping liquid.

Liquidity in banking means merely ability to pay depositors when the depositors ask for their money. If the bank cannot do this it is insolvent and must close.

Mr. Jones also is quoted as telling the bankers that rigidity of examinations would be eased up, and that only one examination per year might suffice instead of the several which have been the rule.

Are depositors satisfied with fewer and "more lenient" examinations? Will they be satisfied with less liquidity?

There are a large number of vacant bank buildings in Chicago testifying to the effect of lack of liquidity. At least some of these empty buildings may also conceivably testify to the effect of lenient examinations.

Remember this: The banker is lending depositors' money, not his own. If he wins it is O. K. If he loses it is too bad—for the depositor.

Also, the billions of dollars of RFC money handled by Mr. Jones is not Mr. Jones' money. It belongs to the good old forgotten man, John A. Taxpayer.

Is wild-cat banking to be the next step in "Recovery"? AMERICAN.

THE FUTURE OF BURNHAM PARK.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 25.—Regarding Burnham park the query occurs as to whether it may be possible to arrange for a lake shore tract, other than a bathing beach, subject to an admission fee at least on certain days. In the present World's Fair grounds are delightful spots with these advantages: Accessibility from downtown Chicago, efficient policing, freedom from trafic dangers, noise and odors, from sounds of sports, from romping or shouting, from annoying types of loiterers and petters, and from the elsewhere omnipresent canines. It is difficult to see how, except by means of fencing and fees, these same advantages could be assured. Certainly all of them together are not publicly available anywhere in Chicagoland at present except within the gates of the Fair.

Many Chicagoans and visitors agree that among Chicago's attractions Lake Michigan ranks first. To be able to get close to the lake and have a quiet time beside it is an experience of such uncommon value that many would be glad to pay for the privilege and thus provide for extra guards and caretakers needed to maintain the wanted conditions. Surely in the extent of Burnham park there would remain so much free space that objection would not be stressed against an admission charge in the case of an especially quiet section affording views of lake, sky and skyline. Such an area could be depended upon to add to the reputation of the city in the matter of good order. A NATIVE CHICAGOAN.

THE SWITCHBOARD PROFESSION.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—I wonder if there is a place, or I should say an employer, in Chicago who knows that switchboard operating in itself is a profession? Does he know that operators are born, not made? I know it sounds silly to most of you, but it is true, at least I believe it to be.

Around the last of July I was called in to be interviewed by a man in whose place of business I had chanced to leave my application. I was put to work a few minutes later. I was on "steady," so I was informed. Every day I went to work with my fingers crossed, and after my day off I dreaded going in the next morning for fear that in the meantime they had found they could dispense with my services. I couldn't believe I was awake upon going in and finding I was still needed, you see, after being without work for so long.

Then one day I was informed that Miss —— would take my place and I would be "relief" for only two days a week.

Now, I don't begrudge any one work, but it hurts like the dickens when you have to give way to a person who measures up to the standard of every one's idea of a switchboard operator, namely, a cord slinging, key jerking, yelling, uncivil person who should be kicked out.

I have nothing against this person except that she isn't an operator, and she has a position I would have if she weren't there. I wouldn't mind the latter if she were fitted. DISGUSTED.

THE NICKNAME IS ITALIAN.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—After reading your article on Oct. 24 I am at a loss to understand why "Crazy Boy" is the nickname of a man who is as honorable as Lieut. Francesco Agello of Desenzano, Italy. I don't think that any one who holds the world's record of 440.29 miles per hour should be called crazy. Of course, I don't know in which country that name originated, but, regardless of the fact, if I were editing a paper I would give him the honor he deserves, such as "courageous," "daring," "heroic," etc., the same as I would give any American who would have performed such a feat. [MISS] ANNE RAGO.

POWERS SPEED ARMS PROGRAM, SURVEY SHOWS

Military Expense Tops Pre-War Figures.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Feverish armament by world powers against threats of war edging over the horizon of strained political alignments in Europe and the far east has brought military expenditures far above pre-war levels. This is revealed in a survey made public today by the Foreign Policy association.

Graphic representation of the military preparations is given in a table comparing 1934 expenditures with the arms outlay in 1913, when unrestricted competition reached its peak. The table, which lists expenditure in millions of national currency, follows:

	——National currency—— [in millions.] 1913.	1934.	% increase.
Nation—
France	1,807	2,273	25.8
Italy	927	1,171	26.3
Great Britain	77	114	48.8
Russia	1,150	1,795	55.9
United States	244	711	190.9
Japan	191	935	388.0

Germany Shows Decrease.

Germany, still bound by the restrictions of the Versailles treaty, alone shows a decrease in military expenditures. Despite the limitations the expenditures are only 23.4 per cent less than the total of the great imperial army in 1913, according to the report.

The advent of Hitler, closely followed by Germany's withdrawal from the disarmament conference a year ago, spurred warlike maneuvers in Europe.

A lesser impetus, considered in the study as charged with impending strife, has been Jugo-Slavia's opposition to Italy's military measures. This is tangled with the patent rivalry of France and Italy to dominate central Europe.

In the far east Japan's intense military preparations in the entrance into Manchuria in 1931 has brought a forward stride in Russian outlay with the concentration of 500 airplanes and other armed forces along the eastern border of Siberia.

Air Power Concentrated.

Concentration of air power and war material in the current period of military activity is regarded as striking in the study.

The report states that accurate comparison of the world's leading air forces is not possible. Latest figures are given as: France, 3,000 planes of all types; Russia, between 2,800 and 3,000; United States, 2,468; Japan, 1,600; Italy, 1,500, and Great Britain, 1,400.

The report reviews the post-war military developments in each of the great powers. These are summarized as follows:

Germany—Under Nazi nationalism, the small standing treaty army has been intensively drilled to move at great speed against poorer trained mass armies and to deliver a crushing blow by efficient use of modern war material.

Enrolls Professional Troops.

France—While budgetary appropriations have been reduced since 1932 in response to the government's deflationary policy, an extraordinary credit of three billion francs was voted for military purposes in June. The government is enrolling long service professional troops, who will be trained along new mechanistic theories, for new frontier fortifications.

Japan—Since the Manchurian conflict, Japan's military and naval expenditures have more than doubled. The navy is to be built up to the maximum allowances of the Washington and London naval treaties by the end of 1936 and will be carried to the limit of full parity if such is allowed at the present conference.

Russia—The military budget has risen from 831 million rubles in 1927 to 1,573 million in 1933.

Italy Short on Funds.

Italy—Although financial stringency has hampered development, moral preparation has been carried further than in any other European country, with males from 8 to 33 ordered to engage in some form of military training by a Mussolini decree.

England—Under the budget balancing program military expenditures were held down. Since the advent of Hitler they have increased from 105 million pounds in 1932 to 114 million in 1934.

United States — Although military and naval expenditures were reduced in the former administration, expenditure estimates for 1935 foreshadow the largest national defense expenditure in the peace time history of the country.

Urge Duke of York Be Sent to Canada as King's Agent

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Sunday Referee said today it had disclosed "a strong movement to secure his majesty's permission to appoint the duke of Kent as next governor general of Canada." The paper said there was "steady pressure" in influential circles to send the duke, youngest son of King George and Queen Mary, and who is to be married next month to Princess Marina of Greece, to succeed the earl of Bessborough, Canada's present governor general.

Cardinal Hayes Observes Consecration Anniversary

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Cardinal Hayes today completed 20 years in the espiscopate. He observed the anniversary of going to the Convent of the Carmelite Sisters of New York City and offering mass in the chapel.

GIRL MODELS PICKET A SOCIETY FASHION SHOW IN N. Y. CAFE

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Feminine charm was swung as a weapon of the class struggle today when eight professional models picketed the snooty, intimate Mon Paris restaurant, where society girls and matrons were acting as models in a cocktail fashion show.

Couples in formal afternoon garb stepped out of limousines and taxicabs to be assaulted by a squad of dazzling blondes, brunettes, and redheads using every wile to instill the spirit of boycott.

Lapels were grabbed and honey words of persuasion poured into red-tipped ears. Men blushed and stammered, trying to evade the beauties politely. Their companions, in stunning furs, tapped impatient pumps in glacial hauteur. The appeal on behalf of the working girl fell entirely on deaf ears. When they could break away, the embarrassed society men escorted their ladies inside and the picketing mannequins shivered in the cold blasts until the next automobile drew up.

An irate manager finally telephoned the police, and three patrolmen hurried over and cleared the sidewalk. The working girls withdrew a few paces down the block.

JAP DEMAND FOR NAVAL EQUALITY BLOCKS ACCORD

3 Powers Struggle to Reach Pact.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Delegates of the world's three great sea powers girded today for a serious effort at trying to reconcile Japan's demands for naval equality with what America and Britain are willing to grant.

Delegates appeared determined to find out during the next few days whether there is any hope at all of reaching some sort of agreement on a basis for a treaty to supplant the London and Washington pacts.

Yanks Meet British Today.

The British and Americans are meeting tomorrow to consider obstacles presented by Japanese proposals for reduction or abolition of offensive ships.

At the same time the two delegations will discuss their own views, attempting to eliminate differences on technical questions in their plans.

So far the two delegations have stood together on one main point, which is a desire for continuance of the existing relative strength of the two navies as stipulated in the Washington and London treaties.

On technical questions, like the size of ships and guns, they differ.

Japanese to Use Persuasion.

The Japanese are preparing for extensive private discussions during the week with both British and Americans in an endeavor to push away flat objections to the principles of the Japanese proposals.

It was expected Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira, rather than Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, the official delegate, would do much of the delicate diplomatic casting about. It was learned Matsudaira wants to talk with Norman H. Davis, United States ambassador-at-large, and with Britain's prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, several times before further technical matters are taken up.

London-Brisbane Air Line Will Be Opened This Year

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The annual report of Imperial Airways, issued tonight, reveals that before the end of this year a new direct air service will be in operation from London to Brisbane, Australia. The government of Australia has accepted the tender submitted by the Quantas Empire Airways, an associated company of Imperial Airways, for an extension of the main London to Singapore route to Brisbane. The service will operate over an 11,600 mile route, reported to be the longest air service in the world.

JELINEK TO URGE RIGHT TURN ON THE RED LIGHT

Sees Trafic Change as Aid to Congestion.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Otto K. Jelinek, traffic engineer for the Chicago park district, after a study of Detroit's right turn after a stop on the red light, announced today that he will recommend this regulation for Chicago's boulevard system.

This maneuver of vehicles at intersections also is operating successfully in New York and in Los Angeles. Leslie Sorenson, traffic engineer for the city of Chicago, is opposed to the regulation for theoretical reasons. The national safety council and the American Institute of Trafic Engineers also opposes the regulation for theoretical reasons.

Opposed Fair Trafic Plan.

It is not the first time that O. K. Jelinek has been at odds with the big shots of his profession. When plans were being drawn in the winter of 1932-'33 for handling automobiles at A Century of Progress, a committee of engineers of wide reputation, polished of finger nails and suave of speech, decided in a series of luncheons upon an elaborate scheme that was a masterpiece on blue prints supported by colored diagrams and detailed graphs.

Otto, short and chubby, with a round face and a Bohemian accent, alone opposed the proposals.

When the 1933 Fair opened, the trafic plan of the big shots was in operation. For three days and nights motorists and pedestrians were in a tangle of congestion. The scheme was discarded for one designed by Jelinek. Relief was immediate, and for both years of the Exposition the movement of vehicles and pedestrians has been an outstanding achievement in the handling of large crowds with a minimum of delay and hazard.

The Chicagoan pursued accident records of the Detroit police department. They showed that the right turn on the red was not hitting pedestrians. Inspector Mitte told of its increase in the efficiency of the pavements. Los Angeles and New York have had the same experience both as to safety and convenience.

"Turn on Red Is Convenient."

Richard Harfst, general manager of the Automobile Club of Michigan, was interviewed.

"It's a lot of bunk that the turn on the red breeds disrespect for the red as a stop signal," he said. "The motoring public disrespects regulations that are an unnecessary nuisance. The turn on the red is a convenience."

A taxicab tour of the city demonstrated what the police and the motor club were talking about. At busy intersections where automobiles congregated while waiting for a green light to proceed straight ahead, the congestion was relieved by cars in the lane next to the curb easing around the corner into gaps in the moving cross-trafic.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

Experiments Succeed.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

October 28, 1934.

SINCE the fall of 1932 favorable results have been obtained on THE TRIBUNE auxiliary experimental farm near Wheaton, Ill., in the production of market lambs and wool, both selling at a premium price. After three years of producing lambs by crossing ewes of a graded up western flock with Lincoln rams, the farm manager changed his plan and crossed the ewes with pure bred Southdown rams.

Introducing the Southdown blood into the flock has produced lambs of desirable weight and finish which have topped the market. On Nov. 22, 1933, for example, fat lambs from the Wheaton farm sold for $7.75 a hundred, which was the highest price paid for lambs on the Chicago market that day.

By last fall—at the end of the first year's breeding program in which Southdown rams were used—the flock had been built up to a total of 174 ewes. Last spring 176 lambs were produced and saved. On the farm today there are 90 ewe lambs and 86 wethers. In November and December 50 to 60 of the finest of this year's ewe lambs will be selected and kept for breeding purposes. The balance of the ewe lambs and the wethers will be marketed. The ewe lambs kept on the farm will be turned in with the breeding flock next fall.

The breeding flock is now made up of 140 ewes, two, three and four years old, and 50 yearling ewes, making a total of 190. Since Oct. 4 four rams have been running in the flock.

Last spring the clip of wool taken from the backs of 174 ewes and three rams weighed a total of 1,356 pounds, or an average of between 7½ to 8 pounds a head. The best fleeces were scoured, carded, spun and woven into blankets and the balance of the wool was sold.

John Rawlings, in charge of the auxiliary farm flock, says that the weight of the fleeces was held down last spring because the winter was too mild to be conducive to the natural development of a heavy fleece to protect the animal. Then, too, he points out that there was little warm weather last spring previous to shearing and as a result the fleeces contained less grease and were lighter.

"Southdown blood in our flock has given us lambs that are smaller, more compact and a better mutton type of animal," said Mr. Rawlings. "We are getting a lighter fleece but finer wool. Both the lamb and the wool sell at a higher price per pound than we were paid for lambs or wool before we began using the Southdown rams."

TRYING TO LINK DEAD MAN WITH LINDBERGH CASE

Flemington, N. J., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's attorney and investigator are making an effort to link Isador Fisch, furrier and friend of Hauptmann, who died in Germany about a year ago, to the kidnaping and murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

Hauptmann's denial of the crime with which he is charged, and his assertion that the ransom money found in his possession came from Fisch, have convinced James M. Fawcett, the prisoner's attorney, that the best possible defense for Hauptmann will be to show that Fisch was connected with the kidnaping and extortion of ransom.

George H. Foster of the Foster & Roberts International Detective bureau of New York, who has been retained by the defense to investigate the case, is making a comparison of photographs found in an album owned by Fisch, with photographs of every person who might have had some knowledge of the movements of the Lindbergh family at the time of the kidnaping.

This check, it was said, was only one of a series of such things being undertaken in the efforts to implicate Hauptmann's dead friend in the crime and make his story of receiving the ransom bills tenable.

The tedium of Hauptmann's prison day was broken this afternoon by a visit from his 11 month old son, which was not prearranged. When his wife called on him at 2 p. m., according to Sherif John H. Curtiss, the prisoner expressed surprise that she had not brought Mannfried, their child, with her.

She told him, according to the sherif, that she had left the baby out in the car. Hauptmann, teary eyed, pleaded with her to bring him in, and she turned to make the plea to Sherif Curtiss.

"First I told them no," the sherif said. "They were both crying, so I let her bring the baby in. After all, blood's thicker than water."

U. S. MEMBERSHIP DRIVE LAUNCHED BY BOY SCOUTS

Boy Scouts of the Chicago area, in coöperation with other Scouts in all sections of America, are launching a membership drive this month in preparation for the celebration of the 25th anniversary of scouting, Perry A. Lint, Scout executive in Chicago, announced yesterday.

The local goal is for a total of 18,000 Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts and Cubs by Dec. 31, as compared with the all-time high enrollment of 17,522 in 1933. Each troop, ship or pack reaching its individual quota will be represented by a candle on a great birthday cake which will be a feature of the silver anniversary party on Feb. 8.

Mr. Lint expressed confidence that the Chicago goal would be reached. The national organization now has a membership of 941,464, an increase of 97,823 over last year.

HUMPHREYS PUT UNDER SPECIAL GUARD AT JAIL

Murray Humphreys, successor to Al Capone as gang leader, and like Capone sentenced to the federal penitentiary for income tax evasion, was kept under special guard in the coutny jail yesterday, preparatory to his being removed on Friday to Leavenworth. Warden David Moneypenny said he believed no attempt would be made to kill Humphreys and that the gangster would not try to escape, but he took no chances.

Clarence Converse, ace investigator of the intelligence bureau of the internal revenue department, who arrested Humphreys last Friday, had said, "Humphreys was put in such a spot that he had to surrender," but yesterday Converse denied that he had meant Humphreys was in danger of assassination by other gangsters. Humphreys told on no one but himself, pleading guilty to the nonpayment of taxes, and was sentenced to 18 months in prison by Judge Charles E. Woodward, and so far as Converse knew, there was no reason why Humphreys should fear death.

But the gangster was kept in a basement receiving room cell at the jail under a twenty-four hour watch. Until he leaves he will be under constant observation, Warden Moneypenny said.

Find Body of Jeweler in Hotel; Poison Nearby

Herman Haft, 52 years old, 3728 Roosevelt road, operator of a jewelry store at 3827 West Roosevelt road, was found dead of poisoning yesterday in the Marshall hotel, 1232 North La Salle street, where he registered Saturday night. Michael Young, the clerk, showed police a bottle that had contained poison, which he found near the bed.

SEVEN MORE OF STREAM TRAINS WILL RUN SOON

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Seven more streamlined, high speed passenger trains, similar to that which established railroad history Thursday by completing a 57 hour transcontinental dash, soon will be cruising the rails as a result of $2,270,000 in public works allotments.

The allocations were to five major railroad companies and are part of the 200 million dollars which PWA has loaned to railways for improvements of all types.

The Union Pacific's streamlined train, as well as the Burlington's Zephyr, which also has hung up new records, both were financed by PWA. A $900,000 loan to the Baltimore and Ohio will be used largely for sixteen specially designed coaches and one Diesel engine.

The remainder has been set aside to rebuild a steam engine to develop exceptionally high speed. This engine is ready for mechanical tests and soon will be covered with a streamlined jacket to cut down wind resistance.

Another loan of $350,000 to the Gulf, Mobile and Northern Railroad company will also set a new streamlined train on the rails.

Other lines which will use PWA funds for like purposes are the New Haven, $300,000; the Boston and Maine, $220,000; and the Illinois Central, $500,000.

Arrest Saloon Owners on Sunday Closing Law

Ernest J. Cook, 48 years old, 6212 South Troy street, and Joseph Yack, 57 years old, 3259 Madison street, owners of a saloon at 203 North Clark street, were arrested at 2:15 a. m. yesterday by Central police for violation of the 2 a. m. Sunday closing law. Philip Walsh, 46 years old, 1441 East 67th street, and Joseph Caputo, 46 years old, of Bellwood, the bartenders, and Harold Anderson, 31 years years old, and his brother, Fremont, 28 years old, customers, whose addresses were not learned, were arrested with the proprietors.

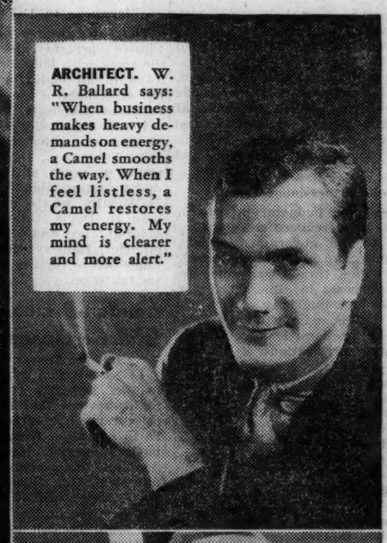
GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL !

TOBACCO MEN ALL KNOW:

"Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

● Science has confirmed the "energizing effect" of Camel cigarettes. And actual experiences of real people bear out this scientific discovery—that you get a delightful "lift" with a Camel. As Bill Miller, famous all-around athlete and 4 times National Single Sculls champion, explains it: "Many people have commented on how quickly my energy seems to come back after a hard race. The secret is, I think, that it is my custom to smoke a Camel after a race. With me, as with other smokers, Camels quickly refresh me and revive my energy. And Camels never upset my nerves."



ARCHITECT. W. R. Ballard says: "When business makes heavy demands on energy, a Camel smooths the way. When I feel listless, a Camel restores my energy. My mind is clearer and more alert."

YOUNG SOCIETY MATRON: "Camels are a grand-tasting cigarette," says Mrs. Allston Boyer. "They are so mild and rich. And it's marvelous how smoking a Camel revives my energy."

Hunter Trials at Millburn Thrill Throng

Mrs. Linn, Armour, Douglas Win Team Event.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

A great English sportsman has said that a perfect huntsman is as hard to find as a good prime minister. If he refers to a clear head, quick apprehension, and undaunted courage, he should know the members of the Mill Creek hunt, who held their annual hunter trials yesterday at Millburn.

Mounted on some of the finest horseflesh in these parts, they put on an exhibition of skill flavored with thrills that brought shouts and handclapping from the large gallery of spectators who bordered the course on the junior Thomas C. Dennehy's farm, where the trials were held. A temperature only a few points above freezing added to the zest of the meet for all of the participants, while the onlookers wore fur coats, galoshes, and heavy blankets.

Similar to the jumping classes in a horse show, the trials were run off with a morning event in which the huntsmen were judged singly, and with an afternoon event in which they were judged in teams of three. Maj. Harry Chamberlain and Brock Fuller of Milwaukee, standing on an abandoned hayrack midway of the field that proved an excellent vantage point, marked the riders for performance, conformation, and time as they moved over the twelve jumps.

Laurance Armour Wins Cup in Singles.

In the singles Laurance Armour, particularly handsome in his "pink" coat, captured the silver cup from Mrs. Howard Linn, who won it last year riding Winway, the same mount she had yesterday. Second place went to Mrs. Samuel J. Walker and third to James Simpson Jr.

Mr. Armour was again a winner in the team events in the afternoon. Riding with Donald B. Douglas and Mrs. Linn, attractive in a black habit with a canary yellow vest and a heavy mesh veil that held her high hat in place, he took another first place. This same team captured the first prize last year. Second in this event was a team that included Mrs. S. Prentice Porter, Col. Noble Brandon Judah, and Miss Eleanor Wheeler. The team that placed third was led by John E. Hughes, who returned from a hunting trip in the moose country of Canada for yesterday's trials.

A prize awarded yesterday for the first time was a silver cup donated by Mrs. Samuel J. Walker and Mrs. Kimball Salisbury and given for individual performance. It was a coincidence that the judges' decision awarded it to Mrs. Walker.

Three Riders Recover Quickly After Falls.

If there had been blue ribbons for courage yesterday they would certainly have gone to Mrs. William H. Mitchell, who was in charge of the hunter trials this year; William B. McIlvaine, and Tom Phelan, who is chairman for the Mill Creek hunt. Each one of them suffered a fall from a horse, but was up and around again before the day was over. "I guess I'm too tough to hurt," was Mrs. Mitchell's comment after she had recovered from a severe shaking up that caused considerable consternation among all of the spectators. Mr. McIlvaine's accident occurred in the afternoon at the first chicken coop jump. Mr. Phelan came on the field with the hounds which were used in a drag hunt around the course.

Not only did the members of the hunt and their friends enjoy the trials yesterday, but also the farmers to whom the huntsmen are indebted for the courtesy of crossing their lands. At noon all of them, millionaires [if there still are some] and farmers, bankers and gardeners, rubbed elbows at a barbecue lunch under the big khaki tent at the side of the course.

Appreciated almost as much as the pork and beans, the beef stew, and mince and apple pie were the big log fire and the smaller charcoal fire.

One Deb Participates, Another is Spectator.

Two debutantes of the season on the field yesterday as participant and spectator were Miss Gwendolyn Bowen, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., rode in the trials, and Miss Deborah Butler. Miss Bowen received enthusiastic approval of her performance on a mount named Senator. Another young contender was Miss Betty Mead, smart in a tan riding habit.

Easily spotted on the sidelines was Mrs. Louise DeKoven Phelps, who wore a white fur coat with a matching beret. Mrs. Phelps watched the trials with Howard Linn, who was wrapped in a raccoon coat. Mrs. Charles F. Glore, bundled in a heavy robe, chose the top of a sedan as the best place from which to watch the meet, while Miss Suzette Morton, smart in a tan caracul coat with a matching off the face hat, sat in an open sport car.

Still others among the spectators, most of whom stayed close to automobiles with heaters, were Mrs. Hanbury Williams, sister of Prince Cantacuzene, who rode in the trials, and the Louis Bredens of Detroit, also guests of Prince Cantacuzene; Mrs. Laird Bell with her daughter, Frances; Mrs. Lloyd Laflin, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Bennett, Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, and Miss Edith Behr, chic in red corduroy.

A DISPLAY in a bank window, on one of the business streets illustrates the evils of gambling. There is a roulette wheel, and standing about with worried expressions on their cardboard faces are a group of figures. Near by is a happy, wise depositor who, because of his conservatism and good judgment, is enabled to send the kiddies to college. The moral of the display is, alas, unheeded, for at the noon hour a large group of stock boys and clerks from the nearby stores and offices gather at the bank window to bet nickels on the turn of the wheel.

SCOUT NO. 666 reports that his stenographer was sleepy on a recent morning. She explained that she had been up nearly all night, as her sister and brother-in-law had come to town. They had visited various night life spots and got home at 5 a. m. The evening cost her brother-in-law about $85, she said.

"Business must be good with him," commented her employer.

"O," said she brightly, "that was his corn-hog check."

QUEENA MARIO, Metropolitan singer, has written a mystery novel called "Murder in the Opera," out this month, which she said she typed in a month. Leading characters are not based on any members of the company, she said, although some of the minor characters are said to be identifiable.

"The tenor is as handsome as Martinelli," Miss Mario told a friend. "I told him so. I said I had described the hero as the greatest living tenor, and Martinelli said, 'Darling, use my name!'"

THE other day this department called attention to the display of Baker Brownell's "Earth Is Enough," in a gardening exhibit in a seed store window. Martha Mann bulletins that a student in Prof. Brownell's contemporary thought class at Northwestern downtown campus last summer saw a similar display and decided to share the joke with the author of the book. She informed him that among the seed catalogs, trowels, and bulbs she had seen a copy of his "The Good Earth."

Art and Music Draw Society's Interest Today

Drama League to Have Its First Autumn Luncheon.

BY JUDITH CASS.

AFTER a week-end offering everything from Halloween parties to hunter trials, the proverbial blue Monday provides an array of events of more than usual interest. There are the opening of the World's Fair exhibit of Clarence Buckingham Mitchell's stunning photographic studies, the pre-view tea of Violet Oakley's Geneva portraits, the Spalding concert tonight for the benefit of the Illinois League of Women Voters, the first autumn luncheon of the Drama League with Mrs. Carveth Wells talking to "ladies only," and a rummage sale for those who want to find or rid themselves of a white elephant.

When Clarence Mitchell first showed his international prize winning photographs last winter at the Drake hotel it was an assured fact that he would bring them back for a second exhibit. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell arrived from their home in Santa Barbara Saturday and spent most of yesterday hanging the 100 studies in the Illinois Host House at the World's Fair, where the showing is to be held.

Mitchells Restrict Social Activities.

The Mitchells are at the Drake and they are passing up practically all invitations of their relatives and friends, for they want to devote themselves almost entirely to the exhibit today and tomorrow. Upon the close of the exhibition tomorrow night they will leave for New York, where Mr. Mitchell will attend to some business affairs.

Among the several distinguished friends of the Mitchells who will help to receive at the host house today and tomorrow there will be no one more interested in Mr. Mitchell's success than Miss Kate Buckingham, for Mr. Mitchell is her godchild. Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes will be another hostess and so will Mrs. James Ward Thorne, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, and Mrs. John J. Mitchell and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, both of whom are Clarence Mitchell's sisters-in-law, and Mrs. John I. Shaw, who is Mrs. Clarence Mitchell's sister.

Musical at Fair by Mrs. Joseph Joyce.

The hostess committee at the Illinois Host House, which has among its members Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Mrs. Herbert L. Stern, and Mrs. Ednyfed H. Williams, has arranged for Mrs. Joseph Joyce of Kenilworth to present a musical from 4 to 6 this afternoon.

Many of those who go to the Fair this afternoon to the Mitchell exhibit will stop at the pre-view of Violet Oakley's celebrated portraits that she has done at three different sessions of the assembly of the league of nations in Geneva. For many months the League of Nations association and art connoisseurs here have been trying to persuade Miss Oakley to bring the collection to the city, so there is general interest in the exhibition.

At the pre-view tea this afternoon—the exhibit is to continue for two weeks—Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. William Gold Hibbard, and Mrs. George de Tarnowsky will preside at the tables. Miss Oakley is the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. de Tarnowsky.

Dinner Parties to Precede Recital.

Orchestra hall is practically sold out for the violin recital Albert Spalding, native Chicagoan by virtue of the fact that he was born while his parents were visiting here, is giving at 8:30 tonight to benefit the important civic program of the Illinois League of Women Voters. There will be numerous dinner parties preceding the concert with hosts and hostesses taking their guests on to occupy boxes.

The Wentworth MacKenzies are to have a strictly family box party. As president of the Illinois league Mrs. Frank D. Hixon will occupy one of the center boxes with a party of friends, and near her will be the John Alden Carpenters, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Ger-

Angna Enters' Miming Passes to New Phase

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The curious art of Angna Enters, the self-styled "dance mime" who has an ecstatic following among the Sunday afternoon recital-goers, passed into a new phase in the program which she gave yesterday in the Blackstone theater. A year's browsing in Greece under a Guggenheim Foundation fellowship has inspired her to the creation of a "Pagan Greek" cycle of rhythmic impressions—eleven episodes in all, three of which were submitted to yesterday's audience.

First she mimed the Pyramus and Thisbe tale as a mild little one woman charade; then she appeared as Aphrodite, full clothed, with a few sly gestures suggesting the principal interest of that goddess, and last, in a purple cloak she paraded gloomily as Cassandra of the unbelieved prophecies and tragic destiny. It was my impression that classic mythology and archæology are not a satisfactory field for Miss Enters' unique gift as an entertainer. She is too bizarre in her tastes to be a Hellenist, and also she has a dash of Fannie Brice in her temperament which does not harmonize with the traditions of the ancient Greek drama.

It is said that Miss Enters adopted her odd first name, on mystic advice, because it can be read backward or forward with identical results. There is an everyday name, however, which carries the same magic spell—Anna.

A decidedly high grade exhibition of the art of marionettes may be observed on the vaudeville section of the Palace theater's bill this week. It bears the title of the Salici Varieties; it comes from Italy, ancient home of puppeteers, and in the skill with which its dolls are manipulated it rivals the Podrecca puppet show which toured this country last year to loud acclaim.

Te Salici troupe is a family affair, now in its sixth generation. It gives a program which is not as musically ambitious as that of the Podrecca organization, and its equipment of dolls is not as large. Its specialties, however, are just as diverting and convey an equal illusion of reality. Somehow, perhaps because they are frankly in the vaudeville manner, I found them more enjoyable than the pretentious Podreccas.

The Circuit theater, a new organization which aims at professional competence in its acting, will stage "The Whiteheaded Boy," a comedy from the repertory of the Abbey theater of Dublin, in the Goodman theater on Friday, Nov. 16. The cast will include Tyrone Power Jr., son of the late tragedian; William Yule, a veteran of thirty-six years' experience; Elsie Esmond, who has acted in productions on Broadway and the Pacific coast; Madeleine Fales, formerly a member of Eva Le Gallienne's repertory company; Stephanie Somerville, Jean Benedict, Sara Gibney, and Charles O'Neal. Luther Greene will be the stage director.

This group's schedule also includes "The Taming of the Shrew," "The Rivals," "Macbeth," "John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln," and Philip Barry's "The Youngest."

Turban with Height Is Hat of the Season, Lilly Dache Asserts

The turban "with height" will be the hat of the fashionably dressed woman this season, Lilly Daché, internationally famous hat designer, predicted yesterday on her arrival here on the Century.

"It should not be called a high turban," she explained, "but a turban with height. There is a great difference. It will be made of taffeta, faille, satin and ribbon. The use of ribbon for hats is decidedly new."

This is the first return to popularity for the turban in more than five years, and it is due, she feels, to the return of fur collars. She does not believe, however, that the present penchant for Russian effects, both in hats and coats, will be lasting.

Miss Daché, who is said to be the outstanding hat designer in America, has offices in New York, but returns to her native France four times a year. Accompanied by her husband, Jean Després, she is staying at the Blackstone hotel. She plans to go to Cleveland tomorrow, returning here Wednesday before proceeding to the west coast.

Sport Fan's Costume

From a Chicago shop—Two piece spectator sports outfit of thin, fuzzy knitted weave. The russet red and beige checked skirt is contrasted with a beige toned blouse top and the neck scarf is of the same material as the skirt.

Fuzzy Wool Dresses Go Slim and Win Hearts of Shoppers

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Warm wool dresses with all the dash and proper distinction of the season are ready for duty under street coats or for more practical purposes of spectator sports wear, out in the wide windswept spaces.

These dresses used to terrorize even slim shoppers because they bulked themselves out of all fashion, but the new numbers completely win your heart. The fuzzy wools have gone slim, really, just a film of cozy, furry looking stuff made into supersports models. The two piece affairs are a knockout. Most of the blouse tops are now buttoned at the back and have long, slim sleeves and a triangle scarf around the neck.

All tones of gray are going strong with stone and oxford stealing the shows. Skirts are simple. They hug you snugly about the hips and the latest arrivals are fitted with talon fasteners. One zip over the hip and your skirt is skilfully anchored to stay through your most active hours. That very short, trying length of jacket or blouse has disappeared. These new things are made with longer lines that are much more flattering as well as slim-ing. Buttons and pockets and scarf add the color contrast.

A lot of pockets are made of the same material as the contrasting patterned or colored skirt. Buttons continue their dizzy diameters, the wider the better.

We photographed one of these double duty dresses, a thin knitted wool effect in two pieces with a deep three cornered bib collar. The straight, slim skirt is of russet red and beige fuzzy checks. The slipover beige top is buttoned half way down with dark brown buttons. The chest pocket has a simulated brown monogram. The bib scarf matches the skirt; but this outfit can be contrasted with all other bold colored neck scarfs in your collection. This outfit is from a newly unpacked showing in a Chicago shop.

12,000 Hear McCormack in Silver Jubilee

Weaves Tales with Songs, Ancient and Modern.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Going somewhat farther west than is his custom while in Chicago, John McCormack sang before an audience of some 12,000 persons at the Chicago Stadium yesterday afternoon. It was his silver jubilee concert in Chicago, and it was presented under the auspices of the Council of Catholic Women.

Twelve thousand persons make a big assemblage, and the Stadium is a big hall. But neither the number of persons nor the size of the enclosure make any difference to Mr. McCormack's poised, imperturbable art, nor to the charm with which he projects his songs. No one on earth works harder in the selection of a program than he, and no one sends it out to his audience more deftly or with more of the grace and finish of great art.

Here were songs of the ancients and the moderns, Irish folk songs, ballads, a typical McCormack program differing only in detail from his other programs. Whatever the individual numbers, one thing is always true. John McCormack is never the weaver of tales through song.

Back in the loop district there was another benefit concert, and this, too, had its notable artistic values. The Protestant Women's protectorate and Father Ralph Rohr's camp for boys were to divide the net proceeds of a concert at the Studebaker theater given by Georgia Kober and Theodora Sturkow Rydern, duo-pianists, and Marie Morrissey, contralto.

It was well worth hearing. Miss Kober and Mrs. Ryder are pianists of brilliant endowments and acquirements, and they have developed a first class ensemble as well. Their team play is excellent, exact, expressive, and conveying the idea that each knows what the other is doing all the time. Miss Morrissey, too long absent from the concert stage, is both a singer with a lovely voice and an artist with high ideals. The words and the notes of a phrase are both interlocked and blended, as she sings them, and they come to the ear with extraordinary beauty.

If Lawrence Tibbett continues as he is going, he will have as much as John McCormack to do with making the English language a popular tongue for singing. He put up a highly convincing argument at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon.

Here was a great singer and great artist using all the powers of a magnificent baritone voice to sing not only German lieder but Italian arias in English, losing not a shade of musical expressiveness in the process, gaining by making them better understood, except to the perfect polyglots, than they would be in a full season of concert going.

And when he had displayed all his vast vocal and musical resources on serious songs, he paused a few moments for what can be honestly described as a bit of American folk lore. Guion's "All Day on the Prairie," with a whistled refrain, was one, the "American Lullaby," with its gaily impertinent gesture at all other lullabies, was another. The audience loved them, and the audience was entirely correct, as correct as for its approval of another modern American piece portraying American nerves pulled into tension in some effective music, Charles Ridgway's "Trafic," with its startling "Wheels" song on a high G.

Hold First of Seven School Emergency Conferences Today

Plans for seven conferences to be conducted with educational authorities in different sections of the country during the next three months were announced yesterday by the National Education association at the Stevens hotel.

The meetings will be held under the auspices of the joint commission on the emergency in education of the association. Various plans to "pull education out of the depression" will be presented by local state, county, and city school officials.

Conferences will begin at Minneapolis, Minn., today, and after others have been held in Cheyenne, Wyo.; Ogden, Utah; Portland, Ore., and Oakland, Cal., the first series will be concluded in Austin, Tex., on Nov. 17.

Herbert S. West, Rochester, N. Y., and William G. Carr, Washington, D. C., both representing the association, will attend all the meetings.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Maj. Ralph Stornack, of apparent position and wealth, is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Brierley, who is serving a twenty year sentence for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a table knife. Chief witness against Colin was Maj. Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Rhoda met Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his warder. He plots Colin's escape by taking Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Nobody looks closely at prisoners, he explains, and warders are frequently changed. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. They spend a brief honeymoon in Wales.

INSTALMENT VII.

ONLY MEMORIES.

The magic of the honeymoon had gone and they had become two married lovers in the shadow of separation. She got up and they walked back to the inn.

"Colin, I'm wondering what I shall say when I get back. I can't tell them that I've married—you. Because of Jack."

"Yes. I hadn't thought of that."

"Do you think I need go home? Have you enough money for me to go to London and train for some job?"

He thought it over.

"I have about four hundred. I'll write you a check for the lot and I'll date it before my trial. And I'm afraid you must pay a hundred back to Jack—we've been living on his money."

"I won't forget," she said. "I shall always think of Jack. Like you, I feel I'd do anything in the world for him."

"I don't think the London idea is up to much, darling," he added. "And I don't think your people would stand for it. You couldn't really cover your traces—and your mother would turn up and make things rather hot wherever you happened to be staying. It isn't only a matter of training, I'm afraid. You've got to get the job after that."

They had reached the inn. It was no longer a fairy castle. Instead, it had become just—an inn.

"As it's our last night, we'd better do the polite to the proprietor," said Colin. They went into his little office, which had a window opening on to the bar! Rhoda told him how comfortable they had been and Colin ordered a bottle of champagne and three glasses. Through the din of the wireless in the bar they drank each other's health and exchanged compliments.

The landlord was telling an anecdote of some other visitors and his voice boomed in the sudden silence as the wireless stopped. Then the wireless began.

"At the special request of the police we are waiving a recently made rule. So before I read the news, here is an S. O. S. . . . Missing from her home since Tuesday last—Rhoda Cornboise, aged twenty-two. Auburn hair, gray eyes, fair complexion, medium height. When she left home, this young lady was wearing a dark green dinner frock, evening cloak, no hat, light shoes, stockings matching her dress. She is believed to be suffering from a lapse of memory and it is feared that harm may have befallen her. Will any person or persons recognizing the description communicate with Cornboise Hall, near Gallowden, or with any police station."

Over the landlord's head the two exchanged glances—and nodded. Each had seen at once that here was the solution of one of their difficulties.

They started very early from the inn next morning and were on the outskirts of Oldham by ten o'clock. They spoke but very little to each other, for the power of speech had gone with their last good-by at the inn. They were like people on a railway platform, waiting for the train to start that must take one of them away.

A mile outside the town Colin stopped and got out while Rhoda changed back into the dinner frock, the cloak, the stockings, the shoes in which she had fled from Cornboise hall.

"I'd better put you out at the first quiet street in the town," he said mechanically. He had already said it half a dozen times.

"Yes, please—that would be better!" she said, making the same retort.

The self-starter whirred and a moment later the car was moving. It was as if the guard had blown his whistle and waved his flag.

He turned up one side street, then funked it and drove on into another. He must not shirk it a second time.

He slowed. Even before he had quite stopped, she had sprung out of the car.

"Cheerie, Colin!" she called in a high, shrill voice, and slammed the door.

"Cheerie, Rhoda!"

It was the maddest good-by in the history of love.

He did not trust himself to look back at her. He let in the clutch with a jerk and the car lurched forward.

A couple of minutes later he was running into the garage.

"How did the car behave, sir?"

"Fine, thanks! How much do I owe you?"

"Let's see. We owe you four pounds on your deposit."

Colin had not heard—was bewildered when the man handed him four pounds and asked for the return of the receipt. As one in a dream he mounted the motorcycle and rode full speed to Carmoddle Villas, Mardlehurst.

It was not until he was putting the cycle away in the shed that he took full grip of himself.

"I must stop thinking about Rhoda. I must think about Jack. If I let Jack down I'm the biggest cur unhung."

The little self homily enabled him to concentrate his thoughts and strengthened his nerve.

By the time he had put on Caermaen's uniform he was alert and able to take critical note of his appearance in the glass and get the details absolutely right.

He studied the keys so as to make no mistake, consulted his watch, and at the right time set out for the prison.

The discipline of a prison works like clockwork. He had but to reverse his former movements. He carried it all out even to the pleasantry to the officer at the gates.

"What cheer, George! I'm back and I'm broke."

A second later he knew that he had blundered, for this time "George" saw him full face.

"Here, who are you calling 'George'? You're one of the new ones, ain't you? I haven't got your name."

A tight corner. He dared not give one of the new warder's names. He only knew two—and the man might know at once that he was lying. Equally, if he gave an imaginary name, there might be subsequent enquiries.

The only thing for it was to bluff.

"If you're not George to me, I'm not 'Alf' to you—and all is over between us," he said and walked on. There might be a fuss about it afterward, but Jack could probably clear it up—or at least create enough confusion to conceal the actual truth.

Through the iron door at the end of the courtyard—back to his own corridor. A warder stood on duty at the cross of the corridors, waiting to be relieved.

"Well, mate, you're three minutes early—but I'm not grumbling."

"Didn't know whether I'd got it right. It's my first day here," answered Colin.

"You've got it right enough for me any old how. S'long!"

Colin walked down the corridor and stumbled outside Cell Eighty-seven, which was the agreed signal. He waited five minutes, then strode up and opened the cell door.

As Jack had done a week ago, he whipped off the uniform, flinging it on to the bed, and while Jack Caermaen was buttoning the tunic, Colin was lacing up the warder's boots.

"Everything O. K.," he whispered. "Rhoda will tell you everything. She knows as well as I do that you're the best pal a man ever had."

There was just time for a silent handshake before Caermaen stepped back into the corridor.

The door shut with the clang of iron on iron. Colin was back in his cell—with a memory now that must nourish his mind for twenty years.

Airing Complex When Dating Is Boring Conduct

Duty of Escort Is to Be Entertaining.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Well, boys, if it isn't one thing 'tis another! If a girl has to spend an evening bolstering up an inferiority sufferer, it's a dull evening for her. If she has to spend the evening as audience to an ego-exhibitionist, that goes against the grain, too! Midway, there must be the perfect evening for the girl.

The criticism does not come from us, but from one of your own contemporaries.

"Why so much fuss about us women, our inferiority complexes and the art of attracting men?" she inquires.

Half of the men, she opines, aren't worth the effort, either because of an I. C. or an S. C. Of the two, the S. C. [superiority complex] is fraught with the most painful suffering for the girl, she claims.

"I refer to the young men," she explains, "who do not think that they are God's gift to women, but are sure of it. I'm not talking of the normal, average boy, but of those high and mighty ones who are intelligent and know it, are well talented and brag about it, capable and never forget the fact.

"Did you ever have to spend an evening, evenings I mean, ministering to the already inflated ego these gentlemen possess? It's dull as dishwater."

"Barb" knows all about it being better to be self-assured and self-possessed than to be without such equipment. But, she argues, if the young men really have the stuff, do they need to spend the entire evening giving a personal sales talk? They probably wouldn't be occupying the best seat in the living room if they weren't recognized as unusual. "I know what they can do, what they have, what the future holds for them in a big way," says Barb, "but I could just lay me down and cry after a whole evening of it. I'm getting somewhere myself, by the way, but I don't feel it necessary to inflict that on company."

And that's that, boys. Maybe you'd better flatter the girl as a judge herself on your superiority. It's one of the acts she likes to play. Discovering you, herself, as one of God's gifts. While you're being good natured about it, let her inject a few words about herself now and then.

The fourth Chicago Tribune School of Cookery will be held the first, second, and third weeks in November. Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, famous home economics expert, in co-operation with Miss Mary Meade, Tribune Cooking Editor, will conduct the sessions. The schedule is as follows:

South Side—Trianon ballroom—Nov. 6, 7, 8, and 9.

West Side—Guyon's Paradise ballroom—Nov. 13, 14, 15, and 16.

North Side—Aragon ballroom—Nov. 20, 21, 22, and 23.

All schools will open at 12:30 o'clock.

BY MARY MEADE.

Are you thinking that, after bobbing for apples, jumping for doughnuts, and racing at pretzel biting, the folks really won't need much lunch?

Then please have another think. Just reflect upon the preparations necessary for a masquerade party. The running around after this and that, the adjustment and readjusting to look quite other than like oneself is a task, especially when one does it but once a year. And remember, too, that all the rewards of food must be worked for, ducked for, or jumped for. So surely you mustn't send guests home hungry.

The Halloween buffet or refreshment table offers grand opportunities for developing decorations from ordinary garden truck. Centerpieces of queer shaped gourds are handsome for all fall entertaining. Flank them with stubby candles in carrot candlesticks, with nut cups formed of a popcorn ball mixture, and with apples in a dish fashioned from a hollowed-out cabbage shell. Such is a hilarious setting for a Halloween supper table. Jack, the pumpkin, will grin or frown from some strategic point in the dining room.

Let the supper consist of

Jack-o'-Lantern Gelatin Molds
Black Cat Sandwiches Cheese Biscuits
Pumpkin Wafers
Prune Juice with Orange Slice Floaters
Stuffed Apricots with Chocolate Faces

The jack-o'-lantern gelatin molds are most easily prepared in glass custard cups. Prepare orange flavored gelatin and pour enough into each cup to fill to the depth of ½ inch. Chill. When congealed, arrange on the surface of the gelatin a face, making the eyes, nose, and mouth of currants and raisins. Press a small peach half firmly over this and pour the remaining gelatin, which has almost congealed, into the mold. Chill until firm. Turn out upside down and the jack-o'-lantern face smiles up with its background of golden peach. Serve with whipped cream.

Each black cat sandwich has as its basis a slice of Boston brown bread [you can purchase this in cans]. Its eyes are balls of cream cheese tinted light green, its nose is white cream cheese, and slivers of blanched almonds give fine side whiskers and a tastiness to the sandwich.

The pumpkin wafers start out as ordinary sugar cookies. The change comes when the cookies are rolled and cut out with a round cookie cutter. Stick a bit of dough for a stem on the cookie, sprinkle with yellow sugar, and bake. Or bake them unsugared and give them pumpkin tracings, in yellow frosting, when cool.

STUFFED APRICOTS.

1 pound dried apricots
¾ pound marshmallows
1 cup sugar
½ cup water

Wash the apricots, place in a colander, and steam them over hot water for 20 minutes. Place the sugar and water in a saucepan and boil until the sirup will spin a thread. Then dip the apricots in the sirup, and place on a board to drain for several minutes. Place a marshmallow between two apricot halves and pinch lightly together. When cool give them faces, using melted chocolate and a fine brush.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The secretary of commerce, Daniel C. Roper, entertained at luncheon today in compliment to Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, who is making a short visit here. Among other guests of the secretary were the German ambassador, Dr. Hans Luther, who entertained at luncheon yesterday for Dr. Eckener; Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, and Clark Howell of Atlanta.

Mrs. William Howard Taft, widow of the chief justice and former President, has returned to her home on Wyoming avenue after spending the summer in her summer home at Murray Bay, Canada. Mrs. Taft stopped en route here to visit in the summer home of John Hays Hammond at Gloucester, Mass., and to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Henry F. Lippitt of Providence, R. I.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

ANSWERING A STRATEGIST.

A good friend and neighbor of mine who comes in regularly and looks over the Conquering Contract articles as they are prepared before they reach your newspaper made the following complaint after reading those written up to now: "I have been playing the Sims no trump and its responses with extremely gratifying results for a considerable time; with any of my regular partners we seldom get into the wrong bid, we miss hardly any games that can be made, we never incur a serious penalty. Your articles on slam bidding resulting from no trump opening bids have furnished me with fresh evidence that the Sims system has no equal for soundness and precision in its bidding of big hands. The big premiums now earned by grand slams are made to order for your bidding methods. I ought to be perfectly satisfied. Nevertheless, I have a complaint to make, and this is it: My opponents are so respectful of my no trump bidding that they hardly ever enter the bidding; penalties resulting from their overcalling a no trump are now almost unknown. I miss them because I enjoy penalties. I would like to introduce the element of surprise by using their fear of my no trump bids to scare them out of their own big hands once in awhile. In other words, I would like to bid weak or downright psychic no trumps at times when I think they have the hand on us. How can I do so without wrecking our regular no trump bidding or interfering with our big hands? How can I ethically and fairly have an understanding with my partner which is not a secret convention, which is not in any way unfair or tricky, but which will nevertheless allow me to make an occasional psychic in no trumps without inevitably putting my partner on the spot in case he has a big hand?"

The Leeway Principle Can Be Enlarged.

Of course, in this life one cannot have one's cake and eat it. To gain an advantage ethically in one place one must be prepared to make a sacrifice in another, and I cannot offer a panacea which will perfectly accomplish my friend's purposes or safeguard him when he psyches and his partner's hand is too big for him to make a minimum response. Nevertheless, great freedom can be obtained in bidding occasional weak or psychic no trumps if you use the response of three no trumps [not having passed, naturally] as your sole slam try, and make it the duty of the opening bidder thereupon to rebid his hand [four no trump or four in a suit] if able to confirm his opening bid. Responder can then bid the slam on receiving such confirmation. The bigger the responding hand, the greater his fear that the opener may have bid a psychic. This procedure would safeguard the very big hands; but it may also get to you to three hopeless no trumps on hands which, without the psychic opening bid you would either be playing safely for the partial score or which you would be defending against a declaration—probably doomed to defeat—by your opponents. I do not advise opening no trump psychics. On the other hand, I do not like to cramp players with "don't" or "nevers." I hate to diminish anybody's enjoyment of the game by holding them to too stereotyped a bidding policy or by spoiling the fun that fine players get from doing the unexpected. Therefore, I replied to my neighbor's complaint with the suggestion given above. If any of my readers feel as he did, they are welcome to adopt the remedy I prescribed for him, remembering, also, that he is a sensitive and imaginative bidder, an excellent card player and judicious in his choice of partners with whom to bid "unsystematically." If the temptation is irresistible, keep the doses small and do not become addicted to overindulgence in brilliancy. That has been the ruin of many once highly promising players.

Frontier Nursing Backers to Hear of Mothers Saved

The accomplishment of a second thousand births without a single death among mountineer mothers in isolated regions of Kentucky will be the news which Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, founder of the Frontier Nursing service, will bring on Wednesday to the Chicago committee of the service at its annual meeting in the Drake hotel.

"We thought we had done very well indeed when in 1932, according to insurance company figures, we achieved the first 1,000 deliveries among our mothers without a death, had to our credit a third fewer still births than occur usually in the general population of the United States, and a third fewer infant deaths within one month after birth than occur in the general white population of Kentucky," Mrs. Breckinridge said yesterday. "But this second 1,000 deliveries without a maternal death is the best yet."

The story of courageous midwives who ride horseback into almost inaccessible mountain country will be told by Mrs. Breckinridge Wednesday, illustrated by pictures. Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, chairman of the Chicago committee, will preside, and Chicago society girls who have served as couriers in Kentucky, assisting the nurses, will usher.

Art and Music Draw Society's Interest Today

Drama League to Have Its First Autumn Luncheon.

Instead of flowers and cigarets, Miss Peggy Hixon and a dozen debutantes and post-debs will sell copies of the league's publication, the Illinois Voter, in the lobby during the intermissions. The October issue of the Voter contains some valuable preelection information.

Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, Mrs. Harold Pynchon, Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger, Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Benjamin F. Affleck, Mrs. Charles Davis, Mrs. Helen Walton, Mrs. William E. Vogelback, and Mrs. Edward T. Leight are a few of those who have taken tables for the Drama league luncheon at 1 o'clock this noon at the Blackstone.

Mrs. Wells to Speak on Women in Russia.

Mrs. Wells is giving her lecture "for ladies only" on the status of women in Russia, and it almost goes without saying that it will be an intelligent and interesting discourse, for she has spent five years in Russia. Among the league's other guests this noon will be Miss Angna Enters and Miss Fannie Brice.

The rummage sale which is to open today and continue through tomorrow and Wednesday is sponsored by the North Side and Kenwood centers of the Infant Welfare society and is to be held at 180 North Michigan avenue. Several dozen members of the two centers and some of the juniors of the north side branch are to be the saleslades for the three days. Mrs. Robert W. Hyman is president of the north side branch and Mrs. Jack A. Benjamin of the south side branch.

British day is to be celebrated today at the Art institute with special attention called to the works of British artists in the World's Fair exhibit and exercises at 11 o'clock in Fullerton hall. The British consul general, Lewis Bernays, and Frederick Victor Poole, artist, will be two of the speakers at this program.

Helen Wilkins Engaged to Stuart S. Houston.

There was no more excited young couple in the stand at Stagg field Saturday afternoon when Chicago played Missouri than Helen Wilkins and Stuart Sherman Houston. Immediately following the game at a cocktail party at the home of Miss Wilkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Wilkins, at 5201 University avenue, announcement was made of Miss Wilkins' engagement to Mr. Houston, who is a son of Mrs. Grace Houston of 1400 Lake Shore drive.

Among the guests at the cocktail party were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herbert Warren III., who were celebrating their first wedding anniversary. When Janet Johns became Mrs. Warren a year ago, Miss Wilkins attended her as maid of honor. In further celebration of the anniversary and Miss Wilkins and Mr. Houston's betrothal, the two young couples spent Saturday night and yesterday at a house party at the Warrens' summer home at Lakeside, Mich.

Miss Wilkins is a graduate of the University of Chicago, where she was a member of Mortar Board. Since finishing school she was worked energetically as a member of the Kenwood Social Service club. She is a member of the Trude family, since her mother was Cecilia Trude and her maternal grandmother is Mrs. Alfred S. Trude, who still lives in her lovely old home on the south side. Mr. Houston is a Dartmouth graduate. The wedding will take place early next year.

Kenwood Social Service to Plan Dollar Drive.

When the Kenwood Social Service club meets this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert S. Cummins plans will be discussed for a dollar drive to take the place of the usual theater benefit on which the club has depended for much of the financial support it gives the Infant Welfare society. The change is more radical than appears on the surface, for the Kenwood club has had a theater party annually for eighteen years. Named on the dollar drive committee are Mrs. Carl W. Defebaugh, chairman; Mrs. Kenath T. Sponsel, Mrs. Cummins, Mrs. Kenneth McLelland, Mrs. Raymond Lukins, Mrs. Arthur Dole, and Mrs. M. F. Sturdy.

Mrs. Henry Luce, daughter of Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, returned to New York yesterday after a brief visit here. Mrs. Luce came out to help her mother settle in a new apartment in the Drake Towers and to see her old school friends.

Mrs. E. Matthews North and her daughter, Miss Natalie Smith, have given up their apartment in New York and have returned to Chicago. They are for the present at the Whitehall. Miss Smith plans to continue the business course she began last winter in New York.

A new arrival in the River Forest household of the Chester R. Davises is a young woman named Jean Kathleen. She put in her appearance last Friday at the Wesley Memorial hospital. The Davises have two young sons, Chester Jr. and Richard.

Unique Vicks Formula Is Now Aiding Millions In Preventing Many Colds

Vicks Va-tro-nol, the unique aid in preventing colds, is now helping millions of adults and children to enjoy greater freedom from colds.

Va-tro-nol is especially designed for nose and throat, where most colds start. Va-tro-nol should be used at that first sneeze or nasal irritation—just a few drops up each nostril. Its timely use helps to prevent many colds—and to throw off colds in the early stages.

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh)—Va-tro-nol penetrates deep into the nasal passages—reduces swollen membranes—clears away clogging mucus—brings comforting relief.

Va-tro-nol is powerful yet absolutely safe—for both children and adults. It has been clinically tested by physicians—and proved in everyday home use by millions.

(Note: The remarkable success of Vicks Drops—for nose and throat—has brought scores of imitations. The trademark Va-tro-nol is your protection in getting this exclusive Vicks formula. Always ask for Vicks Va-tro-nol. Now in two generous sizes—30c and 50c.)

Va-tro-nol and its companion product, Vicks Vapo Rub (the modern external treatment for colds) form the basis of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds—fully explained in each Vicks package.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

It really helps to make housework easy and pleasant if you are attractively dressed for it. The pretty dress shown today wraps around the figure and is easily adjusted to wear as a dress, or as a smock over one's dress. It opens out flat, which makes ironing especially simple. A printed percale, yellow, dotted in brown, and trimmed with plain brown, makes up smartly.

The pattern, No. 3437, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure.

"Don't Touch" Admonitions Curb Child's Development

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We know, if we think about it for a minute, that the baby gains his knowledge of the world about him through his senses—and we know that they number five.

But when the baby begins to walk and is old enough to circulate about the house, the one sense of them all which suddenly seems to us to work overtime is his sense of touch.

We find ourselves saying dozens of times a day, "Don't touch." The reason for this is that the sense of touch is the one that finally completes for the young child the knowledge of this new world which comes to him through his other senses—those of sight, smell, taste, and hearing.

For the last few weeks the little children who have just passed babyhood must have been on the "rampage"—for the tenor of many letters has been, "My little girl wants to touch everything——my pots and pans and groceries and sewing and books. She's driving me almost crazy. How can I teach her not to touch things?"

The answer is "You can't"—or at least I hope you can't. Or, perhaps it would be better to say you shouldn't. Why? Because your child should touch things—that's what his hands are for. Your business, then, is not to starve his sense of touch but to satisfy it—intelligently and within reason. If you do so, your troubles in that direction will cease almost entirely, because the child with a satisfied sense of touch does not act in the way described by these disturbed mothers.

Actual detailed advice is given in our leaflet, "Don't Touch," which will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DATELESS LILA MAKES DINGY TEETH SPARKLING WHITE

Now happiest girl in town

LILA JUST TOLD ME SHE HAS NEVER GONE OUT WITH THE SAME MAN MORE THAN ONCE.
HER DINGY YELLOW TEETH WOULD SCARE A BLIND MAN AWAY. WHAT THEY NEED IS KOLYNOS!
THEY'RE RIGHT. MY TEETH ARE HORRIBLE-LOOKING. I'LL START USING KOLYNOS TODAY.
THREE DAYS LATER
SWEETHEART, I WANT TO SEE YOU AND YOUR DAZZLING SMILE EVERY DAY OF MY LIFE. WHAT SPARKLING WHITE TEETH YOU HAVE!

Results Will Amaze You

Now thanks to a great scientific discovery you can quickly make dull, dingy teeth lustrous, sparkling, shades whiter. All you need do is start using antiseptic KOLYNOS—a half-inch on a dry brush morning and night. You'll be surprised at the way this wonderful dental cream cleans and brightens teeth.

KOLYNOS acts differently. It contains finest cleansing and polishing agents plus an important ingredient dentists say is necessary to remove the "bacteria plaque" that makes teeth so dingy and offensive looking.

This extra-cleansing KOLYNOS gives teeth is impossible to obtain by ordinary brushing methods. That is why KOLYNOS will clean and whiten your teeth so much better and faster than anything else you can use. Try it. You'll say it's wonderful.

Beauty Salons Offer Special Pre-Date Care

De Luxe Shops Touch Up Grooming Details.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I wonder if Mrs. Nero really had anything on Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Smith of today when it came to luxurious beautifying quarters? I wondered this the other day after emerging from a de luxe establishment, air-conditioned, light flooded, equipped with sound proof booths, telephones handy for forgotten orders to Hulda back home, to say nothing of the luxurious jars, bottles, and cosmetic display generally. I know of other salons quite as luxurious, quite as restful, quite as efficiently equipped.

In the one mentioned, from which I emerged in a Roman holiday trend of inquiry, there is a service which must answer a long-felt want of many women. For a certain sum each month clients can run into the salon after a day of shopping, before the cocktail hour, before the luncheon date, and get touched up so that no stray ends, nor smudgy nail polish, nor washed out makeup will mar the festive date. This is a service, I'll wager, that will be taken up shortly by more salons.

Some other shops give what they call a cocktail service, a late-in-the-afternoon service with a charge set for the refreshing work done. You do not get a complete hairdress, nor a complete manicure or facial, just a quick going over to tidy up and smarten where it is most needed.

One 5th avenue salon, with a floor dedicated to perfumes, was decorated by a famous stage-setting genius. There is a perfume bar to which you draw yourself up on high stools and watch the concoctions mixed before your eyes, according to your own or suggested tastes.

It's all gay and smart in such beauty temples, and the best part is that the service is not always as luxuriously priced as the surroundings might indicate. True, in some shops you do have to pay more for a facial, trim, or manicure than you would in your neighborhood salon, but not consistently more when the expenses which the de luxe places must incur are considered.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Nothing deals a deadlier blow to the sense of well being than the discomfort that follows the bath for some women. How're you going to be a knockout of poise and personality when soap and water make your skin inelegantly itchy?

Wails about this are beginning to come in pretty thickly right now. There are water softeners and bland soaps that will help considerably, but if the excessive dryness and even chapping persists you need something more in the way of coddling.

A cream to be used in conjunction with the bath is one of the pets of thousands of smart New York women, but isn't very well known here. It's radically different from most skin soothers used in after-the-bath ailments in that it is applied before bathing. The elbows, knees, and legs are usually the spots where roughness occurs; the cream, which is rich in texture and delicately scented, should be applied liberally there. But there's no law against using it all over your body.

Then you hop into the warm tub or under the shower and enjoy your bath as you usually do. After brisk drying you'll be charmed with the results. Your skin will be beautifully soft, with no more of the horrid itch or redness and roughness formerly produced by your scrubbing.

And if there's a child in your home who has similar bath difficulties this same cream, used in the same manner, isn't to be overlooked.

It's in a couple of shops in Chicago.

Good Morning!

Wholesale agony!

That phrase describes this latest adaptation of Michael Arlen's once best seller, "The Green Hat." Garbo, you'll recollect, starred in one screen version of the novel. Katharine Cornell appeared in the stage play.

In "Outcast Lady" everybody suffers. The story characters suffer. The players, excepting Miss Bennett and Mr. Williams, who, I think, enjoyed themselves—suffering!—suffer. [Never did I expect to see those two fine actors, Herbert Marshall and Henry Stephenson, so utterly out of harmony with their rôles]. The audience suffers. And if the director DIDN'T—he ought to.

The heroine's a lady whom Fate is all again
And whose buf-fets do plunge her
In mis-er-y and sin;
Her brother is a drunk-ard,
Her fiancé's nice dad
Whom she had thought most friendly,
Gets vurry, vurry mad
When she bursts in and tells him,
"I plan to wed your son!"
He right-back-at's her curtly:
"Lady, it can't be done!
Your brother is a drunk-ard,
Your father was one, too,
My grandchildren, I fear, would Lap ale, did son wed you. . . .!"
She plunges into night life,
Becomes another's bride
And on their wedding night her
Spouse com-mits su-i-cide. . . .
Folks think it's on account of Poor Iris' hectic past;
It's not. But she keeps silence,
Folks pass her by, agast!
From throe to throe she staggers,
Like 'Liza crossing t' ice.
The ending, I assure you, is Anything but nice. . . .

This picture is not for children, and, to my way of thinking, ranks pretty low as adult entertainment.

See you tomorrow.

"NATURAL IODINE"
Then Watch Good Solid Flesh Appear Even If Skinny for Years!

Startling results are now being had by thousands of thin, rundown, "Naturally Skinny" folks everywhere with Kelp-A-Malt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea. 15 to 20 added lbs. in few short weeks not uncommon, while strength and energy return in a way that amazes all.

Kelp-A-Malt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea, rich in NATURAL IODINE, first of all regulates the internal glands which promote assimilation—the process by which the body converts digested food into firm, solid flesh, new strength and energy. Then, its 12 other natural minerals help produce digestive juices which alone can digest fats and starches, the weight making elements in food. Try Kelp-A-Malt today and notice the difference—how much better you feel. You will be delighted with your gains of good solid flesh even the first week. Mme. Thea Marsi, Famous Viennese Modiste, Who Is at Carson's All This Week

Mme. Marsi Will Mould Individual Hats to the Head

Have you dreamed of a truly individual hat? One that is clever enough to conform strictly to this season's fashion requirements and still be in some way different from any other hat, just as you are a little bit different from every other person? One that is distinctive without being bizarre, one that is up-to-the-minute yet destined to be important in fashion for a good time to come—one that really expresses your personality?

Well, your dream can now become a fact—in the shape (and a very intriguing shape it will be, we assure you) of a hat designed to your type and moulded to your head by Madame Marsi—internationally known Viennese Modiste, who is to be in Carson's French Shop for a week, beginning today.

This year's hat styles offer enticing opportunities for "being yourself" with fashion permitting so much leeway. The new high hats may broaden at the top in bold cossack fashion, or may taper to a peak as they do in the Tyrol—or may gather into a topknot like a Zulu's head-dress.

Madame Marsi will know which of the many available fashions best suits your type—or she may blend two or three to achieve the best effect. It's a real adventure to have Madame make you a hat—as she snips and moulds and gives a deft twist here and there. And then the finished hat—what a thrill to feel that it belongs to you alone, design and all.

We suggest that you make your appointment early. Call State 2000, Local 258. Prices range from $5 to $10 for the making. Materials are extra, priced according to kind—and there's a wide choice of the newest and most favored kinds. They are available for your selection in the French Shop, Fifth Floor.

Going the Rounds
By Carson Sandals

CARSON'S sandals really see the night life of Chicago. They dance until dawn with the most glamorous evening gowns.

The "Empire" sandal in black or white crepe trimmed with satin, waltzes around to the tune of Ted Weems' incomparable music.

THE "Urban" sandal in black or white satin with silver threads is as sophisticated as its name suggests. It is chosen for a dancing partner by the most fashionable evening frocks.

The "Silver Forest" sandal in silver kid dances 'til dawn to the sweet strumming of Johnny Hamp and his Kentucky Serenaders.

THE "Marine" sandal in satin with silver or gold kid dances week-end nights on Chicago's own beautiful lake front. It's the darling of the young college crowd.

THAT'S where they spend their time, but every single one started out from Carson's Third Floor Shoe Sections. Let us tint your shoes (at a small additional cost) to match your newest dance frock. Priced according to kind, $7.50 to $10.75.

Carson Goodies For a Hallowe'en Sweet Tooth

Candies, Novelties, Nuts—All Specially Priced

The eve of ghosts and witches, black cats and mysterious spirits, is almost here. Probably you are going to have a party and you're wondering what goodies to serve.

I've found a grand assortment of good things to eat in the candy shop on Carson's first floor. Delightful novelties (a silly cat with a bushy tail—perfect for a prize) from as little as 25c up to $1.75. Mixed salted nuts, freshly roasted, for your festive table. Pecans, almonds, filberts, brazils, and cashews at only 48c a pound.

Then there are the candies, and I could hardly resist them. Delicious caramels in the flavors you like best at 50c a pound. Assorted chocolates—you've never seen so many kinds—cream caramels, honey nougats, nut goodies, butter cream pumpkins and chocolate novelties. And here's the best part of all—you get 2 pounds for only 95c.

I expect by this time you're on your way down to Carson's. Well, you won't be disappointed, I know. The selections are so large every sweet tooth will be satisfied. Your goodies will be the highlight of your Hallowe'en party.

"The Wilson Method of Body Beauty" At Carson's Salon

The Wilson Method of Body Beauty is a chief topic of conversation in fashionable circles today, because more and more smart women are realizing that it takes a well proportioned figure to do justice to a smart costume.

It isn't just talk, either, because they're suiting the action to the word, and flocking to Carson's new Slenderette Shop to try the Wilson Method of Body Beauty.

If you wish to know more about it, ask Carson's Slenderette Shop on the Ninth Floor.

In Tune with Tunics, Formal or Dinner Dress

This lovely and at the same time practical dress chooses to follow the simple tunic style. Its sheathlike lines give the figure an exaggerated slender effect. Wear it without the tunic on formal occasions and with its smart top for informal gatherings. Particularly effective in shiny black celanese satin combined with the gold-flecked white crepe top. A perfect two-in-one costume.

The pattern, No. 5911, in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 bust measure. In the second floor Pattern Section.

Carson Pirie Scott & Co. announce that henceforth the Book Shop for Boys and Girls on the First Floor shall be known as "The Hobby Horse Book Shop."

* * * *

Many Chicago children have interesting hobbies, and Carson's book shop is the kind of shop which helps children with their hobbies. Helps them find hobbies, if they haven't any, or helps them to know more about the hobbies they have.

* * * *

Carson's invites the school children in and about Chicago to enter into a contest to design the most bookish and amusing Hobby Horse to be used as a Trade Mark for The Hobby Horse Book Shop.

* * * *

Here are the rules for this contest:

1. The distinguishing feature of the design must be a Hobby Horse.
2. Any student in a public or private Grammar school or High school of Chicago or vicinity is eligible.
3. The design may be done in colors or black and white.
4. The designs submitted in this contest will not be returned and may be used by Carson Pirie Scott & Co. in their publicity.
5. All designs must be submitted not later than five o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, November 10.
6. The decision of the judges is final.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Hail to Illinois! This football season's a success regardless of the outcome of Saturday's battle in Memorial stadium at Champaign when Army comes marching from West Point for its final contest with a Western conference university.

Illinois doesn't care one whoop that at the northern outpost of the Big Ten Minnesota's mighty men are on a rampage. Nor does Illinois worry just now about impending conference games which follow Army. For last Saturday Illinois whipped Michigan. And two weeks ago Illinois defeated Ohio State.

The scores: Illinois, 14; Ohio State, 13. Illinois, 7; Michigan, 6.

Each victory was achieved by one point and there lies the complete fulfilment of Illini hopes. Coach Bob Zuppke wouldn't trade either of these one point victories for a score like that which Minnesota registered against Iowa. For in 1933 Illinois was deprived of a share in the conference championship by two one point defeats. Those defeats—you've guessed the answer—were by Michigan and Ohio State.

Ward Misses Kick.

At that, Illinois players must have experienced a few seconds of distress while Willis Ward prepared for the try for the point following his touchdown run. Ward's missed kick also must have recalled that chill afternoon last fall at Champaign when Illinois failed to kick the point and lost to the conference champion in a battle many believed the Illini could have won.

While we're talking about points after touchdown, consider Iowa State, which was beaten by Nebraska in a Big Six conference battle Saturday, 7 to 6. This morning the Cyclones, who walloped Iowa a week ago and spread the rumor of Iowa's weakness which Minnesota found true, would undoubtedly trade a couple of touchdowns made against Iowa for the kick which would have tied Nebraska. That missed kick Saturday by Fred Poole may eventually mean that Nebraska will win the Big Six title and Iowa State will become an also-ran.

Irish Need a Kicker.

This kicking for the extra point might be called to Notre Dame's attention now that the Irish are preparing for invasion of Pittsburgh's stadium, hoping to check the Panthers before they win three games in a row from them.

A missed kick cost Notre Dame a tie with Texas in the opener. Including all games, Irish kickers have been successful in only two of nine attempts.

You kick 'em or you don't kick 'em, and half of the kick is confidence. The other half involves blocking, an accurate pass from center, and speedy, accurate holding for the kicker. Pittsburgh probably is the most rugged eleven on Notre Dame's schedule [as Irish opponents now are rated] and Coach Elmer Layden might even find occasion for a kicker who can get three points by placement from the field.

Chicago Keeps Going.

A missed kick for the point after touchdown looked mighty important on the Midway Saturday afternoon. While Missouri also scored an error on its kick, the 6 to 6 tie almost became one of those so-called moral triumphs. But the Maroons finally settled the contest with two more touchdowns and won, 19 to 6.

Chicago has done fairly well with its kicking for points, but so has Purdue, which invades Stagg field Saturday. Purdue's victory over Carnegie Tech, added to its conference triumph over Wisconsin, probably means that Chicago will have trouble.

At least Chicago will find out the value of its defense. Neither Michigan nor Indiana pushed Chicago on defense, but catching and holding Duane Purvis and Jim Carter is another matter. In the meantime Purdue may have worries—namely: Jay Berwanger and Ned Bartlett.

Wildcats Hit New Low.

Northwestern missed a kick for a point after its touchdown Saturday at Dyche stadium. But Ohio State in the second half removed all doubt that Duvall's error meant anything. The Buckeyes won, 28 to 6.

In this game Northwestern's offense hit a new low when only 39 yards were gained from scrimmage and no passes were completed. Ohio State also kept up its fumble record, which now totals 27 miscues in four games.

This is the big week-end in Minneapolis. Fifty thousand Swedes, and others, already have purchased tickets and are waiting eagerly for Minnesota to tear the jerseys of Michigan's men. For many years Michigan has held the sign on Minnesota, just as Notre Dame always manages to beat North-

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

A Chicago Bear football team that seemingly possessed all-conquering power aroused itself periodically at Wrigley field yesterday to crush the Green Bay Packers, 27 to 14, in a National Professional league game before 18,000.

The result is hardly a medium of comparison in this game which saw the Bears, seeking their third consecutive championship, remain in a tie for the league lead with seven successive victories. Scoring against the Packers appeared to be just a matter of buckling down and going to work, as the Bears smashed and passed to three touchdowns and set the stage for two field goals by Jack Manders.

Packers Score on Passes.

Green Bay, twice beaten by the Bears earlier in the season and regarded as a greatly improved team in the last two weeks, got its two touchdowns on forward passes, one of seven yards by Monnett to Rose, and the other for 13 yards, from Herber to Dilweg. During these drives the Bears appeared indifferent. Immediately after each Green Bay score a great white wave of Bears swept down the field and countered with points, once with Manders' first field goal from the Packers' 10 yard line in the second quarter and again with a touchdown in the fourth period.

Both of these retaliating maneuvers were unbroken marches which started with the Bears receiving the kickoff and hustling to market. The power that converged mostly against the right side of the Green Bay line where Bill Hewitt, Link Lyman and Zuck Carlson were tearing open wide holes, piled up 311 yards in fifty-three attempts from rushing. Another 79 yards was added in passes giving the Bears 390 yards net gain against 162 for the Packers, who got 129 yards of their total on eight completed passes.

Fifteen First Downs to Eight.

The Bears made fifteen first downs and all but one was the result of running plays. Five of Green Bay's eight first downs came on passes.

Green Bay relied chiefly on Herber's passing and opened the game with three unsuccessful attempts as soon as Feathers punted back after the kickoff. Late in the first period an exchange of punts terminated with Herber's 20 yard kick out of bounds on Green Bay's 48 yard line. Beattie Feathers, the star of the game, made 31 yards off tackle on the first play and on the second Ronzani passed 17 yards into the end zone to Feathers, who made a leaping catch, taking the ball over his shoulder for the touchdown. Manders place kicked the extra point.

Fumble Aids Packers.

Midway in the second period Hinkle relieved Herber of Green Bay's punting duties and one of his boots moved the Bears back to their 10 yard line. Nagurski fumbled on second down and Evans recovered for Green Bay on the Bears' 12 yard line. On second down, Monnett passed 9 yards to Rose, a substitute end, in the end zone for a touchdown and kicked the extra point, tying the score.

It was time for the Bears to go to work. And they did. Feathers returned the kick off 23 yards to the 30 yard line. Nagurski made 11 and then 10 yards in successive plunges. Feathers turned right end for 29 yards and in two more plunges Nagurski got 7 yards, putting the ball on Green Bay's 10 yard line. Manders came in and place kicked to give the Bears a 10 to 7 lead, by which they led at the half.

Bears Score on Pass.

The Bears kicked off to Green Bay at the start of the second half but soon got the ball on a punt which Molesworth returned 29 yards to the Packers' 39 yard line. Nagurski made nine yards in two smashes and on third down, with a yard to go, Brumbaugh lateral passed to Ronzani, then hiked down the side line and took Ronzani's forward pass for 25 yards and the Bears' second touchdown. Manders again kicked the extra point and the Bears led, 17 to 7.

This concluded the scoring for the third period, although a team of Bear substitutes reached the Packers' two

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Huey P. Long and his train-weary Louisianans returned here today from Nashville, Tenn., where the Louisiana State university Tigers beat the Vanderbilt Commodores yesterday, 29 to 0.

The sleepy eyed students and football fans talked glowingly of the victory and pictured the L. S. U. Tigers as a potential "Rose Bowl" team. In Nashville the students shouted to Huey and asked him to take them to California with the Tigers for that game. The senator smiled.

The travelers came in on the five special trains that carried them out of here Friday. They went away cheering and happy, but they came back today with all the cheering on the side of the several hundred persons who met the trains at the Baton Rouge station.

Sit Up for Two Nights.

For two nights the travelers, consisting of cadets, co-eds, and fans, had sat up in day coaches, had marched in Nashville, and sat through the football game and lived off of sandwiches, coffee, and soft drinks. Mentally they felt good over the trip and the Tiger victory, but physically they were out for the count.

Huey, the Kingfish, stepped off the train, waved and grinned at the station crowd, spurned an automobile, and went swinging up the street to his hotel while his attendants struggled along behind with his luggage. He returned to his rooms to get some sleep for he, too, had sat up the two nights.

For a day Huey was the Kingfish of Nashville, where it was estimated 80,000 persons turned out on the streets to see him parade his band and cadets from the station to Memorial square, where he gave the public a concert.

Kingfish Is Weary.

But when the day, Saturday, was done, so was the Kingfish. He went into his tourist car, threw a seat back, and took naps until early morning. Outside of Memphis, however, he got up and announced that the band would detrain at Vicksburg and serenade the town. That brought activity on the fourteen cars.

Just outside of Vicksburg the senator complained of flies being in the car and for 20 minutes he conducted war on the insects with State Senators Hugo Dore, Jimmy Noe, and Harvey Peltier acting as scouts. They spotted the flies and Senator Long lambasted the insects with a folded newspaper.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—A field goal and a forward pass by Steve Hokuf, former Nebraska star, gave the Boston Redskins a 9 to 0 triumph over the Chicago Cardinals before a crowd of 10,000 this afternoon.

Hokuf, who has played various positions as a pro, but definitly is a quarter back this season, was the key man in the Boston attack which netted all nine points in the second period.

The Boston team was quick to capitalize on the breaks. Hokuf kicked the field goal from placement following the interception of a forward pass. The touchdown was scored on a pass from Hokuf to Pug Rentner after a Chicago punt had hit a Cardinal as Boston signaled for a fair catch.

Boston Threatens Early.

The Redskins held the advantage all the way. Taking the opening kickoff, Boston made two first downs, the second on a 20 yard run by Cliff Battles to the Chicago 20 yard line. Three rushes gained only five yards and Hokuf tried for a placement from the 23 yard line, but the kick was wide.

In the second period Doug Wycoff intercepted a Cardinal pass from Griffith and ran it back 43 yards to the Chicago 12 yard stripe.

Pass Is Intercepted.

The first line play gained nothing. Battles then plunged for five yards and Wycoff made two more. Hokuf then went back to the 15 yard line

Clark Goes 82 Yards for Score as Lions Crush Reds, 38 to 0

Portsmouth, O., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Detroit Lions swept to their seventh consecutive victory in the National league by beating the Cincinnati Reds, 38 to 0, today.

Earl [Dutch] Clark, from Colorado college, was the chief performer as the Lions pushed Cincinnati deeper into the cellar and kept intact their record of being undefeated and unscored upon this season. The victory kept the Lions in a tie with the Chicago Bears for first place.

Clark scored two touchdowns, dropkicked a field goal and converted two extra points by dropkicks. He thrilled spectators with an 82 yard dash for one touchdown.

Scoring in every period, the Lions gained power on the offensive as they went along. Caddel threw a 55 yard pass to Ebding to pave the way for one of Detroit's touchdowns.

It was homecoming day for Detroit as the Lions formerly were the Portsmouth Spartans. Six thousand fans turned out to greet them. Chuck Bernard, former Michigan center, was not with the team. He is in a Detroit hospital. Lineups:

GIANTS, 17; EAGLES, 0

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The New York pro football Giants won their 11th consecutive game at the Polo grounds today, standing off the challenge of the Philadelphia Eagles, 17 to 0, before a chilled crowd of 5,000.

The invaders presented a concrete line for the first period, during which the Giant ball carriers were unable to gain. The Eagles monopolized the quarter with smashing plunges that were good for four first downs.

The Giants started their intermediary line, but the regulars were substituted in the second period. The New Yorkers immediately clicked.

The Eagles started a goalward march from midfield in the second quarter. The march was abruptly terminated when Swede Hanson, Eagles' star back, fumbled. The ball was recovered by Ike Frankian, Giant end, on the Giants' 13 yard line. An offside penalty against the Eagles, followed by a pass from Strong to Frankian, brought a Giant touchdown. Frankian place kicked for the extra point.

Strong kicked a placement from 12 yards in the fourth to send the Giants into a 10 to 0 lead. In the closing minutes of play Willis Smith, reserve quarter back, went around right end 24 yards to a touchdown. Strong kicked for the extra point. Lineup:

DODGERS, 21; PIRATES, 3

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today broke a three game losing streak by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates in a National Professional league football game, 21 to 3.

While 8,000 fans shivered in cold winds that swept Ebbets field, the Dodgers tallied in the first period on a 75 yard dash by Jack Grossman and counted twice in the final quarter on passes.

The Pirates scored their three points late in the first period on a 40 yard place kick by Nick Niccolai.

BY FRENCH LANE.

"The Illinois racing season is rushing along toward a close at Sportsman's Park Wednesday afternoon. Real sentiment is injected into the end of every turf year.

Some folks are deserving of much sympathy. Others are not entitled to a second thought. They soon will be on their way elsewhere. They can take care of themselves.

Our sympathy goes out to:

First:

E. H. McMahon, the most enthusiastic young breeder and owner of thoroughbreds in Illinois. He owns the Evergreen stock farm near Bloomington, whose horses have not been able to win a race all season. I hope he gets well on his Evergreen Doll, a scheduled starter in the first race this afternoon.

Second:

John J. O'Byrne, one of the most capable trainers in America, who all season has been down to a one horse stable, comprised of Chrysostom, which wins only in th mud. There have been too few muddy days this year in Chicago for Mr. O'Byrne to lay up any money.

Poor Brother-in-Law.

Third:

My brother-in-law from out in Colorado, who, through your correspondent as betting agent, has been playing the two-six combination in the daily double for many weeks. The two-six daily double combination hasn't clicked since Hickory Jim was a 2 year old.

Fourth:

Joe Allen, the Cincinnati plunger, who has won numerous big daily doubles this year, then on the next afternoon tossed away all his winnings on a seven horse show parlay, including all the favorites. He's looking around for a ticket to California or Florida. I hope he finds one.

Fifth:

Ex-Jocky Bill Fronk, whose weight crept up on him and drove him out of the saddle at the age of 23. All season long he's been trying to tell owners that he can train horses and make them win. So far he hasn't been able to find an owner who will listen to him.

Sixth:

Jocky Delmar Cox, a young kid from East St. Louis, who got into bad hands and who perhaps never will ride again because an unscrupulous trainer put him on a horse the other day and asked him at every stride to prod the animal with the sharpened end of a large safety pin. Cox was trying to make the horse believe he was riding him with an electric battery. The stewards caught up with the trick and suspended Trainer J. C. James and Jocky Cox.

Let's turn right about face and list some of the race track people who are not in need of our sympathy or soothing words from anybody else:

Nellie Flag Pays Bills.

First:

Warren Wright, whose homebred filly, Nellie Flag, has won $57,200 this year and defrayed expenses of one of the most prominent racing stables in the country.

Second:

Edward J. O'Hare, president of the National Jocky club, operating Sportsman's Park, the only track in Chicago to show a profit this year.

Third:

Christopher J. Fitz Gerald, the steward representing the Illinois racing commission. He's one of the few racing officials we've had around Illinois in many seasons who shows a desire to work. He has been from one end of the track to the other between almost every race run in Chicago this season. He has known what has been going on all the time. If he had not known all about it some of the owners, trainers or jockies congregated in our great racing center might have stolen the courthouse and the new county building.

A Smart Man.

Fourth:

Plunger Bill Yanke of California, who won't listen to tips or rumors. He plays his own handicap figures. He stood 'em off at Washington Park, Hawthorne and Lincoln Fields, and reaped profits at Arlington Park and Sportsman's Park, so the reports go.

Fifth:

Bill Schmidt, the undertaker-turfman, who was fortunate enough to have all the bad horses he owner claimed from him this season. He will take the claiming money into the thoroughbred market and attempt to build up a powerful stable with fresh horses.

Sixth:

Johnny Leyland, veteran jocky, who is racing on toward the riding championship at Sportsman's Park. He climbs into the saddle on most of the incorrigible steeds left to race here and makes them win.

High up on the roof of the grandstand in the press box there's a lot of us waiting for the 100 to 1 shot which Smokestack Pete from the First ward says will ramble home before the season ends.

Sagilio, Day Begin Final Drills Today

Frank Sagilio and Davey Day, local junior welterweight challengers, will enter the final stages of training today for their return bout at ten rounds at Chicago Stadium Friday. Both took a layoff yesterday preparatory to putting the fininshing touches to their physical condition.

As the fight draws near interest increases. In their first meeting, which ended in a ten round draw at Mills stadium July 30, Sagilio was picked by the majority of experts to knock out Day. It was pointed out that the Cicero fighter was too strong and punched too hard for Day. His record upheld this contention. Frank had not been beaten in eighteen professional appearances.

Here's Sagilio's Record.

This does not seem impressive when compared with Day's pro career, which numbers thirty-four victories in thirty-eight starts, two of which were draws. But in this case it wasn't quantity of opponents; it was quality. Consider Sagilio's accomplishments since he made his Stadium debut by defeating Danny Neenan in six rounds to chalk up his eleventh straight victory Nov. 17, 1933.

He knocked out Frank Keevil, Harry Booker, Young Terry, Midget Mike O'Dowd, and Joey Kaufman in outstanding fashion to make it sixteen in a row. Then he attempted to make too low a weight against Tommy Corbett at Mills stadium June 1 and at the end of eight rounds the battle was called a draw.

This probably was a fight Sagilio needed, for it placed him in the proper mental and physical state to put up what may be recorded as one of the best scraps presented in Chicago against Pete Nebo at Sparta stadium June 28. After getting off to a bad start Sagilio knocked out Nebo in the eighth round. It was a feat Barney Ross, Tony Canzoneri, and Kid Chocolate were unable to accomplish a few weeks earlier. The victory established Frank as a leading contender for Ross' junior welterweight crown.

Day Rallies in Last Rounds.

And when Sagilio and Day met July 30 the experts "almost were right." The Cicero battler hurt Day whenever he landed and floored him in the second round. Davey survived the round and barely escaped being knocked out thereafter. Few believed that the west sider could finish the scheduled distance. He not only finished the route but came close to knocking out Sagilio in the eighth, ninth, and tenth rounds and earned a draw.

Some say carelessness by Sagilio caused by overconfidence was responsible for his embarrassing finish. They hold that Frank realizes the strength of his opponent now and the predicament in which he found himself in their previous battle will not be repeated.

Calvert council, Knights of Columbus, will sponsor its first show Friday at La Salle, Ill., when an amateur team from Gary, Ind., will clash with a squad representing La Salle.

Please Don't Kill Golden Eagles; They're Protected

BY BOB BECKER.

Charles F. Thompson, acting director of conservation for the state of Illinois, writes us that it is time to sound a warning about the game code regulations concerning protected birds in this state. He refers specifically to the killing of a seven foot golden eagle in Chicago a few days ago. This bird is protected by the state game code and, therefore, the killing of this eagle was an unlawful act.

Mr. Thompson's letter follows:

"In THE TRIBUNE of Oct. 22 an article appeared in regard to the shooting of a seven foot golden eagle, by one Frank Jaeger, and on the back page of THE TRIBUNE was a photograph of the bird and the man who killed it.

"The Izaak Walton league has taken the matter up with me, calling the attention of the department to the fact that this was an unlawful act. They do not ask for the prosecution of the young man for killing the bird, they do think some publicity should be given to the fact that eagles are protected birds, and not predators, and that there are species of hawks and owls that are not predators. I know that you have that information, and if you would call attention to it at your earliest convenience, I am sure that it would be valuable information to put before the public.

"The song bird societies take great interest in the protection of these birds. . . . The same protected birds are quite useful in cleaning up vermin, in the way of mice and small snakes, and things of that character. In other words, they help to balance nature, and it is not necessary that birds of the restricted list should be killed. I hope that you will find an opportunity to put this thought before the public. I am sure it will be appreciated by the Izaak Walton league and all song bird societies."

Mr. Thompson is not only technically correct about the state law protecting golden eagles and certain beneficial birds of prey, but he also is correct in stating that many birds on the protected list are real allies of the farmer because they kill vermin. For example, there was real satisfaction on THE TRIBUNE auxiliary farm early this spring when a monkey faced owl was seen in the hay loft. This funny looking bird, rarely seen during daylight hours, is one of the finest rat and mouse killing machines to be found. A pair of barn owls in a farmer's barn hunting every night for rats and mice accounts for hundreds of these grain-eating rodents in a season.

As pointed out in this department on numerous occasions, the state game code makes it unlawful for any one to shoot nongame birds except a limited group not on the protected list. All of these species are in the printed game code. The penalty for those killing meadowlarks, robins, golden eagles, those beautiful white egrets, which have been on the Fox river this year, and other protected birds is a fine of not less than $10 or more than $50, or a jail sentence.

Two Boxing Shows Listed for Tonight

Boxing shows will be presented tonight at Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, and Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Jimmy Christy, 1933 Catholic Youth organization featherweight champion, will make his first start at 10 rounds against Everett [Young] Rightmire in the windup bout at the Midway. Lenny Cohen, Golden Gloves flyweight runnerup in 1932 and 1933, will clash with Frank Mirabel, last year's Golden Gloves novice champion, in the eight round feature bout at Marigold.

Christy has made rapid progress since deserting the amateur ranks Feb. 16, when he won a four round decision over Al De Rose at Chicago Stadium. The meeting with the more experienced Rightmire will be his fourteenth as a pro. He won twelve and lost one. In his latest bout Jimmy whipped Dave Barry of Springfield, Ill., at White City, Oct. 15. It was this accomplishment which earned him the shot with Rightmire.

Rightmire Beaten Only Twice.

Rightmire has engaged in 85 bouts in three years' professional competition. He has been beaten only twice and has fought five draws.

One of the best battles on the card may develop when Jack Gibbons, St. Paul, Minn., and Jack Charvez, Kansas City, Mo., meet in a five rounder at the middleweight poundage. Other supporting matches:

Joey Esposito vs. Harry Booker [6], 138.
Tod Kelly vs. Eddie Jackson [5], 131.
Steve Roberts vs. Jack Zack [4], 170.

Meet for Third Time.

Cohen and Mirabel will meet for the third time at Marigold. Mirabel won the first and lost the second, Oct. 2, 1933. He defeated Fred Gravelle in six rounds Sept. 24 and Cohen whipped Johnny Gaudes at Milwaukee Oct. 22.

Sherald Kennard and Bob La Monte, two of the most aggressive welterweights in this part of the country, will meet for six rounds in the semifinal. Four round contests will bring together Milt Aaron and Lou Naseef, Hank Brodie and Roy Kurtales, and Joe Roman and Jackie Dallas. Al Woznica will wrestle Ralph Garibaldi.—F. M.

45 Qualify for C. Y. O. Tourney Quarter-Finals

Forty-five class A fighters from the west and south sections have qualified in the sectional preliminaries for the quarter-final bouts of the fourth annual Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament. The quarter-finals are scheduled to take place Nov. 6-7-8 at the C. Y. O. center gym, 31 East Congress street.

Two more sections, the north section and the Joliet section, are still to determine representatives. The north section bouts will open tomorrow and continue Wednesday night at Loyola university gym, while the Joliet district will hold its trials Nov. 9 and 12 at Catholic High school gymnasium. The winners will join representatives from the west and south sections in the quarter-final rounds. Approximately 100 class A boys will be paired for the quarter-final matches at the C. Y. O. center.

112 pounds—Harry Shelton, St. Gabriel's; Chester Kowtowski, Immaculate Conception.
118 pounds—Harold Hickey, St. James; Jimmy Diamico, St. Michael's.
126 pounds—Frank Bokowski, St. John the Baptist; Eddie Millen, St. Patrick's.
135 pounds—Allan McConnell, St. Christina's; Joe Stock, St. Pancratius.
147 pounds—Al Urlich, St. Barbara's; Ed Pring, St. Patrick's.
160 pounds—Paul Maina, St. Bernard's; Julius Szabo, St. Patrick's.
175 pounds—John Luego, Al Saints; Jim Featherstone, Ascension, Harvey.
Heavyweight—John Lamby, Our Lady of Hungary; Ed Blunt, St. James.

MALLOY WINS YACHT TROPHY FOR THIRD TIME

Tom Malloy of the Chicago Model Yacht club yesterday won the Iron Mug, the club's championship trophy, for the third successive year with his boat Kenyan. Fred Lippold, a naval architect, placed second with Maen; Ray Palmer's Stag III. was third, and Orville Sonntag's craft finished fourth.

Ray Palmer captured the Carson Pirie Scott trophy, with Malloy and his boat finishing second, one point behind the leader. Lippold was third, another point behind Malloy.

Thirteen six meter models raced in the regatta yesterday, held at 51st street and the lake. Yesterday's races, 156 of which were sailed during the day, completed the 1934 season.

George Wrestles Savoldi Tonight in Coliseum Ring

Heft and speed will mark the first wrestling show in two years at the Coliseum tonight when the elimination of heavyweights begins to find a suitable opponent for champion Jim Londos in a title contest later in the winter. Joe Savoldi, former Notre Dame full back, meets Ed Don George, ex-Michigan football and mat star, in the main event.

George in the last three months has wrestled a pair of draws with Londos. George and Jim McMillen went 30 minutes to a draw at the recent Londos-Lewis encounter at Wrigley field.

In the semi-final tonight McMillen meets Cliff Olsen, Minnnesota Swede. It will be a 30 minute one fall match.

Harry [Baby] Jacobs, California schoolboy athlete who weighs 312 pounds, will face Whitey Hewitt, 230 pounder, in another 30 minute match. Jacobs has marked up a remarkable record in the west with twenty-five victories out of twenty-five matches. In his wrestling career of six months not a fall has been charged against him.

Dr. Pat Mulligan of California makes his first appearance in the middle west. The doctor claims the light heavyweight championship of the world. He will tackle George Tragos, Greek heavyweight.

BY OFFSIDE.

The Armour soccer team yesterday advanced to the second round of play in competition for the National cup, defeating Sloboda, 3 to 0. Orr scored for the winners in the first period, and Coughbrough, former Maccabee star, kicked in two more goals in the second half.

Olympia and Harvey, also playing in the preliminary round for the National cup, battled to 0 to 0 in a game halted by darkness after eleven minutes of an extra period had been played.

The Wieboldt Wonderbolts smothered Ravenswood, 10 to 0, in a Major league contest. Scotty Neilson, Wonderbolt star, had a field day, driving in six goals during the rout.

ARMY AS STRONG AS LAST SEASON, ILLINOIS IS TOLD

Illini in Good Shape After Michigan Game.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Weenie Wilson, assistant Illinois coach who scouted Army against Yale, reported today that the Cadets were at least as strong as and perhaps stronger than last year.

Army's victory over Yale, the scout warned, was more one sided than the score indicated as both the Yale touchdowns were made against the Cadets' second team. Upon Wilson's report that Jack Buckler, half back, was as dangerous a threat as last year, Coach Bob Zuppke told Steve Steib, fast varsity reserve back, to impersonate the Army star with the freshmen in the drill for the intersectional game here on Saturday.

Illini in Good Condition.

The Illini came out of the Michigan game in good physical condition. Gene Dykstra, end, who had to be assisted from the game, was suffering merely from having the wind knocked out of him and was not seriously injured as early reports indicated.

Coach Zuppke was pleased with the first appearance of Howie Carson, sophomore full back, who will probably support Johnny Theodore in the position. Bart Cummings, end, may also be a contender for a wing position. Bruder, best freshman guard last year, will be given intensive drill as a line possibility.

The double victories of Army and Illinois are expected to attract a crowd of at least 50,000. Army will entrain Thursday and arrive in Urbana Friday forenoon, taking up quarters at the Urbana Country club.

MICHIGAN FACES HARD TASK.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 28. — [Special.] — Michigan coaches will be up against one of the toughest jobs in the country during the next five days —that of trying to get the team ready to stop Minnesota. Whether they will be able to do the job is uncertain, though a study of the two teams' records suggests they won't.

The Wolverines gave everything they had in their battle against Illinois yesterday, but it wasn't enough. They came out of it with no serious injury. It is apparent now that whatever is to be accomplished must be done against teams that have less to offer than Minnesota. The Michigan offense is very weak, but practice these next few days is likely to be directed toward stopping the Gophers.

There is little reason to believe Renner will get into the Minnesota game.

IRISH PREPARE FOR PITT.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Notre Dame will begin preparations tomorrow for taking its football show on the road after a successful home stand in which the Irish won three of four games. This record surpassed expectations of supporters. No one, however, expects the Irish to win from Pitt next Saturday. Experts who have seen both teams play figure the Panthers to be a two to one favorite.

Jack Robinson, a center, will be missing when Layden calls his squad out for practice tomorrow. Robinson left after Saturday's game to visit his mother who has been seriously ill in New York. He will be back Tuesday.

Notre Dame will not be in the best of physical condition for the first of its three eastern invasions. No serious injuries were reported after the Wisconsin game, but the bumps and bruises were more severe than those received in other contests.

HOME RUN BEATS SCHOOLBOY ROWE IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Schoolboy Rowe, ace pitcher for Detroit of the American league, lost here today when George Stumpf of New Orleans, hit a home run in an exhibition game with the Dixie All-Stars.

Rowe was scheduled to pitch five innings, during which he yielded only three hits and no runs, when Lon Warneke, Chicago Cub pitcher, did not appear. Rowe started the sixth and the home run followed.

The All-Stars added two more runs later off Rowe's successor to the mound. Zeke Bonura, Chicago White Sox slugger, who took part in the game, was presented with a trophy by New Orleans merchants.

Chicago Beach Bridge Club Wins State Title

Scoring 7,500 more than their fellow finalists in the last 48 boards of the Illinois State Contract Bridge championship in the La Salle hotel, the Chicago Beach Bridge club's team last night won the state championship. The team, composed of M. H. Besser, Arthur Glath, Ralph Kempner and Charles Rilling, beat the Evanston Bridge club's team in the finals.

yard line. Hinkle kicked out and Molesworth brought the ball back 24 yards to the Packers' 19 yard line. Grange and Manders, plus a two yard pass, Grange to Corbett, gained only five yards and Manders dropped back to place kick. He took too much time getting set and the ball was set back to the 19 yard line on a penalty. Manders, however, kicked the ball true from a difficult angle and the Bears led, 20 to 7.

Herber Throws to Dilweg .

The Packers' vaunted passing attack asserted itself after the ensuing kickoff and in eight plays Green Bay had come back from its five yard line for a touchdown. This series included a five yard Bear penalty for offset and four passes. Dilweg, veteran Green Bay end, got behind the Bear secondary to take one of the passes for 38 yards and a first down on the Bears' 29 yard line. Herber passed to Hinkle for 11 yards, and after two plunges had netted five more yards he passed to Dilweg for the second Green Bay touchdown. Dilweg made possible the score by balancing himself over the end line and taking the ball as he fell.

Feathers Cuts Loose.

The Bears, of course, bounced right back again. Six smashes by Corbett, Feathers and Nagurski moved the ball 23 yards to the Packers' 46 yard line. Feathers floated wide to the right on third down to pass, but as he explained later, he was afraid of losing the ball with the Packer defense backed up to cover all receivers. He started a zigzag run down the field all alone and passed eight Packers on a 46 yard run to the goal line.

That jaunt brought Feathers' total yards to 155 for the day and enabled him to retain his place as the leading ground gainer in the National league.

BUDWEISERS WIN CLASSIC BOWLING LEAGUE SERIES

The Budweisers swept their series last night in the Classic Bowling league, beating one of the leaders, the Vrba Motors, at the Idle Hour Recreation. They are now in fourth place and only four games behind the pace-setting Monarch Beers, who took two games from the La Salle Windsors. The Pabsts dropped two to the Baby Ruths, who are now tied for second with the Vrbas and Pabsts. The Edelweiss, along with the Budweisers, took three from their opponents, the Cardinals.

High individual honors went to Red Farnan, who shot 670. Next best was Charlie Wass, who bowled 657, which included a 255 game, which was high for the night.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR Wake: In October, 1893, as the Columbian Exposition [World's Fair] was ending, concessionaires and others who were profiting by the perfect weather and paying crowds were loud in demands that the Fair be kept open in November. The board of directors listened to their plea, but turned down the request.

On Nov. 1 that year we had an early touch of winter with a gale from the north. The writer on that day walked across the grounds to the Manufacturers' building to wreck an exhibit he had built in April, and turned up his overcoat collar to help avoid the biting flakes of snow driven horizontally against his face. Thus the directors were proved justified in their action which earlier had aroused a protest. Lonsdale Green.

I wonder how many readers recall when a man was classed as a moron who wore trousers unlined, although ladies of the period wore pads to amplify their calves, transformers on their breasts, pantalettes ruffled to their ankles, enormously large bustles, and affected a forward bending walk which caused circus clowns to sing:

The Grecian Bend, as I now show,
Is all the rage, as you well know.
Throw out your chest, your body extend,
If you wish to be perfect in the Grecian Bend. A. H. Wagoner.

In 1896 DeWolf Hopper appeared at the Columbia theater on Monroe street near Dearborn in Sousa's opera, "El Capitan." On the last Saturday night of the engagement Sousa's band came over from the Auditorium, where it had given a concert, and appeared in the last scene of the opera. It played the march "El Capitan," with the full company joining in. The Monroe movie house now occupies the site of the old Columbia theater.

Yes, I knew an artist east in Cairo,
Yet the sphinx would never tell

Viva la France, the boy from gay Paree,
That pleaded "N'aimez que moi!"
But to him I bid an au revoir
On a champagne spree at Bergere Folie.
Si, si, an Italian love from Napoli
Mid midnight rides and spaghetti;
Already to his Santa Lucia I bid "Bonna Notte."
A chap from London won for a while
My interest by his Derby style;
Yet, no need for tweeds or English teas,
And so bye-byed his merrie "Cheerio!"

No dashing bull for mine;
But Malaga to me will always live western, barring a tie. Last year Minnesota got its scoreless tie with Michigan. This year the Gophers hope for a bigger victory than the 48 to 12 licking they gave Iowa.

Holy Cross, Duke Skid.

Holy Cross and Duke, highly regarded in the east and south, respectively, hit the toboggan Saturday. Colgate, defeated a week ago by Ohio State, 10 to 7, trimmed the Crusaders, 20 to 7, and used lateral passes to do it. Tennessee measured Duke for a shroud, 14 to 6. Tennessee lost to Alabama a week ago and in that game had its tying touchdown called back because of a penalty. Alabama defeated Georgia Saturday, 26 to 6.

Army defeated its first major opponent, Yale, and the score was 20 to 12. Navy remained undefeated by whipping luckless Pennsylvania, 17 to 0. And Cornell, gradually sinking, lost to Princeton, 45 to 0. Harvard became Dartmouth's first important victim. The green won, 19 to 0.

Washington Wins Again.

Washington got by California safely, 13 to 7. Washington State, neighboring rival for the Pacific coast title, walked over Oregon State, 31 to 0.

For the first time this fall, football failed to provide a first class major upset. Even Southern Methodists' victory over Fordham was expected by many. However, here are some highlights: [1] Louisiana State university defeated Vanderbilt, 29 to 0, for the first victory over the Commodores in history; [2] Southern California lost its third game of the season to Stanford, 16 to 0, and [3] Minnesota's mighty men piled up 595 yards from scrimmage against Iowa: Michigan, Indiana, Chicago, and Wisconsin please note.

De La Salle Is Defeated by Mount Carmel

Full Back Pietraszewski yesterday led Mount Carmel to a 21 to 0 victory over De La Salle in a Catholic league game played at Soldiers' field before a crowd of 25,000. The contest was for the benefit of the Ladies of Loretto fund.

Mount Carmel scored in the second period when the big full back cracked over the one yard line. Pietraszewski went around left end for 18 yards and another touchdown in the fourth period. Lynn concluded the scoring when he dashed 20 yards around left end shortly before the final gun. Pietraszewski also had a hand in this advance, having returned a De La Salle punt 20 yards to the point from which Lynn started his run.

Lineup:

MT. CARMEL [21].		DE LA SALLE [0].
Ziemba	L.E.	L. Smith
Kiely	L.T.	Hollondoner
R. Smith	L.G.	Lynch
Friedman	C.	Kentgen

Pietraszewski	F.B.	E. Smith

ST. PHILIP, 6; ST. MICHAEL, 6.

St. Philip and St. Michael battled to a 6 to 6 deadlock yesterday at St. Philip field. St. Philip took the lead in the first quarter when T. Kenneally caught a long pass and ran 22 yards for the touchdown.

With less than two minutes of the fourth period remaining St. Michael tied the score when Mangerich passed 25 yards to Hippchen, who struggled ten more yards to cross the goal line. The lineup:

ST. PHILIP [6].		ST. MICHAEL [6].
Klocker	L.E.	Hippchen
McGowan	L.T.	Klinger
Drazdauskus	L.G.	Spellman

Touchdowns—T. Kenneally, Hippchen.

ST. RITA TIES LOYOLA.

Loyola could not hold an early lead against St. Rita yesterday at Loyola field, and the two teams wound up their contest at 7 to 7. Loyola counted when Einswiler caught a short pass from Warner and stepped into the end zone. Warner made good on the extra point.

In the third period St. Rita worked the ball down to the Loyola 1 yard line, from where Etten hit over tackle for the touchdown. Mackey came out of the line to kick the point to tie the score. St. Rita had an excellent scoring opportunity in the second quarter, having a first down on the Loyola 9 yard line. Four efforts were unavailing, however, and Loyola took the ball on downs. Lineup:

ST. RITA [7].		LOYOLA [7].
Badke	L. E.	Einswiler
Seskowski	L.T.	Hyland
Coverick	L. G.	Gibbons
Shields	C.	O'Brien

Etten	L. H.	F. Malloy
Kelly	R. H.	E. Malloy
Pyrz	F. B.	O'Brien

LEO, 6; ST. GEORGE, 6:

St. George of Evanston, which last week held Mount Carmel to a tie, yesterday tied Leo, 6 to 6, at Evanston. Saultis scored for Leo in the second period, plunging over from the 6 yard line.

Brouder scored for St. George after catching a lateral pass and dashing 24 yards. St. George reached the 7 yard line shortly after, but couldn't get across. Lineup:

LEO [6].		ST. GEORGE [6].
Brennan	L.E.	Owens
Gallagher	L.T.	Roemer
Casey	L.G.	Fishback
Hoy	C.	Collins
Feeneman	R.G.	Laufenschlager

Bowen	R.H.	Brouder
Hinckley	F.B.	Huppert

Touchdowns—Saultis, Brouder.

FENWICK WINS, 27 TO 6.

Fenwick's football team yesterday went into a tie with St. Mel in the west section, beating Weber, 27 to 6, at Mills stadium. Weber's touchdown, the only score yet made against Fenwick, came early in the game. Mareiniha caught a Fenwick fumble before it touched the ground and sped 45 yards across the goal line.

The winners soon came back, and Moran, Norris, Leahy, and O'Brien scored touchdowns. Norris accounted for his with a run of 70 yards, while Leahy raced 50 yards into the end zone. Lineup:

FENWICK [27].		WEBER [6].
Conley	L.E.	Dada
Kramer	L.T.	Mikolayczak
Maloney	L.G.	Mareiniha
Kelley	C.	Waylowicz
Reardon	R.G.	Karankuwicz
Murphy	R.T.	Maros
O'Brien	R.E.	Maryanowski

Touchdowns—Moran, Norris [for Moran], Leahy [for McDaniels], O'Brien, Mareiniha. Point after touchdown—Moran. Safety—Maloney.

POLICE CALLED AS HORSESHOE TOURNEY ENDS

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 28.—(AP)—A threatened riot climaxed the world's championship horseshoe pitching tournament today when the promised $1,600 in prize money was not forthcoming. Ted Allen, Alhambra, Cal., successfully defended his title by winning his 23 round robin matches.

Two police patrol cars dashed to the field, where the week long tournament had been held, in answer to a call from a spectator.

John Gordon, a horseshoe manufacturing representative and promoter of the tournament, informed the players the gate receipts and entrance fees amounted to only $319, as against almost $400 in expenses. He offered to distribute the $319 among winners on a percentage basis, but they declined, demanding the $1,600.

The police suggested the case was one for the civil courts. A committee was named to look into the legal possibilities of collecting the money, and the crowd dispersed.

Kid Azteca Wins 10 Round Decision Over La Salle

and, with Wycoff holding, kicked a field goal.

Later the Cardinals started an advance which ended when Battles intercepted a Griffith pass on the Boston 20 yard line and ran it back 16 yards. Battles then quick kicked to the Chicago seven yard line. The Cardinals punted and Wright signaled for a fair catch, but Tipton, the Chicago end, was hit by the ball on the 31 yard line. The penalty which resulted gave Boston the ball on the Chicago 16 yard line.

A pass, Hokuf to Tosi, failed. Then Boston was set back 15 yards for holding. Thereupon Hokuf dropped back to pass, and so well did the decoys operate that Rentner was left alone in the end zone and had no trouble taking the throw. Hokuf place kicked the point, but there was holding on the play and the following attempt was blocked, leaving the score at 9 to 0.

Redskins Become Cautious.

Thereafter the Redskins took no more chances. The Cardinals threw everything into the attack, with Griffith running and passing the ball in spectacular fashion, but the Redskins were able to tighten their defense when their goal line was threatened. In addition to Griffith, Mike Mikulak was outsanding, especially in his work at backing up the line. The Cardinals showed the effects of their bruising game a week ago and played with depleted forces.

HAWKS' FORWARD LINE PRACTICES FAST MANEUVERS

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The Blackhawks hocky team went through an hour and a half of practice today at the University of Illinois rink. Fast maneuvers executed by the forward lines brought frequent outbursts of applause from over a thousand spectators.

The news that Paul Thompson, high scorer of last season's Stanley cup winners, had settled his contract differences and would arrive at the training headquarters some time Monday might have had something to do with the manner in which all of the forwards went at their work today. All realize that with the start of the third week of training Manager Loughlin must soon make a decision on what players will be retained for the coming season.

Because Doc Romnes, who played center on last season's high scoring line between Thompson and March, has failed to arrive at terms, Manager Loughlin plans on trying Norman Locking in Romnes' place. Locking led the International league in scoring last season.

Milford Bowlers Take Sweepstakes with 3,171

The Milfords, five man team of the North End Traveling league, won the second of a series of sweepstake events bowled at Samuelson's, Crawford avenue and Irving Park boulevard, last night. The Milfords piled up a 3,171 count. It was the Milfords' second victory in the series. In second place were the Miller High Lifes with 3,142. Michelobs had 3,055; Budweisers, 2,989, and Samuelsons, 2,968. Art Butler had high series for the Milfords with 682.

MISSOURI GAME SHOWS MAROON RESERVES WEAK

Chicago Faces Hard Test Against Purdue.

Properly chastened by the spirited fight Missouri gave them Saturday, the Maroon football players will get grim again today in anticipation of the invasion of the Midway by Purdue Saturday.

Both teams are undefeated in the Big Ten conference.

The Missouri game brought out several weaknesses in the Maroons. One is the matter of reserve strength. The reserve team which Coach Shaughnessy started could not hold out against the Tiger attack, and was particularly vulnerable against the weak side reverses, in which Purdue specializes. Another is a new found talent for fumbling. Six Chicago fumbles were recovered by Missouri, one of them for the only touchdown scored against the Maroons since last season's Illinois game.

The coming game promises to be a spectacular offensive battle. Both teams have relatively inexperienced lines. Both have two exceptional backs, Purdue with Purvis and Carter, Chicago with Berwanger and Bartlett. The game will be the 39th between the two schools—the 40th if the unofficial S. A. T. C. game of 1918 is counted. Historically, the Maroons have a big advantage, but Purdue has won the last six games.

WILDCATS PONDER FUTURE.

Northwestern's Wildcats, tired and battered after three successive defeats, will take time off from practice today to survey the wreckage of the past and contemplate the hazards of the future.

Despite the disappointing showing against the Buckeyes, the players are not downcast. They feel they gave everything they had in what proved to be a vain attempt to stem the superior manpower that Ohio hurled against them.

The team will start preparations tomorrow for Saturday's encounter with Wisconsin, which also has met with repeated setbacks this season. It will be several days before the Wildcats recover from the bruising effects of the Ohio State game.

Al Lind, center, received a hard blow on the left leg which will keep him inactive for several days; Carl Devry, guard, has a charlie horse, and George Wilson, end, has an injured shoulder. They, along with Don Geyer, full back, and Eino Hayskar, half back, are expected to be ready for the Badgers.

How's your ALKALINE RESERVE?

DO YOU know why that "morning-after" is so hard to relieve? Because overindulgence leads to an accumulation of acids in the blood which cause headache, nervousness.

You need relief for the condition as a whole. Bromo-Seltzer brings it to you, because it is a balanced preparation of five medicinal ingredients—each with a special benefit.

It quickly relieves your headache. • It furnishes alkaline salts to the blood to aid in overcoming and removing the harmful acids from the blood. • It increases your alkaline reserve which is so necessary for freshness and well-being. • It gently soothes you. • It relieves nausea or gas on the stomach.

FORMER GARY R. O. T. C. CHIEF KILLED BY TAXI

Capt. Harold Baumeister Struck in Suburb.

Capt. Harold Baumeister, 42 years old, 4556 Jackson street, Gary, former reserve officers' training corps commandant of the Gary High school, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by a taxicab driven by Ben Sweeney, 43 years old, 426 Washington street, Gary, at 5th avenue and Madison street in Gary. At the request of Deputy Coroner J. R. Doty the taxi driver was held by Gary police on a charge of manslaughter.

Four deaths yesterday raised the toll of automobile fatalities in Cook county to 1,013 for the year. The victims:

James McGinty, 40 years old, died in the Alexian Brothers hospital from injuries suffered in the morning when he was struck at Elston and Crawford avenues by the car of Frank Neubauer, 40 years old, 2326 Sunnyside avenue.

Mrs. Louise Fischer, 79 years old, [illegible] North Damen avenue, died in the Martha Washington hospital. She was injured Wednesday at Damen avenue and Byron street by the automobile of John Depowski, 21 years old, 1852 West 15th street.

Gus Lukaszewicz, 25 years old, 2732 North Melvina avenue, was fatally injured when his motorcycle collided with an automobile at Potomac and La Vergne avenues. Joseph Brezina, 29 years old, 5738 Giddings street, driver of the car, and his four passengers were not injured. Lukaszewicz died at St. Anne's hospital.

Louis Boscardi, 42 years old, 127th street and Lake Calumet, died in the Roseland Community hospital of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile on Saturday at 111th street and South Park avenue. Charles Zillis, 22 years old, 11204 Vernon avenue, driver of the car, was held.

FRED LEE, ONCE LABOR AND PARK EXECUTIVE, DIES

Fred W. Lee, former commissioner and president of the old Albany park district, died yesterday in his home, 4819 North Kildare avenue. He was 59 years old.

Mr. Lee was department superintendent of the J. P. Smith Shoe company for thirty-four years, and for many years was identified with the labor movement. He was a former president of the Chicago Shoe Factory Superintendents' and Foremen's association, and he served on the national executive board of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union. In 1936 he was a candidate for congress from the 7th district.

He is survived by two sons, Walter and Henry E. Lee. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., Wednesday in the chapel at 3224 Montrose avenue, with burial at Acacia Park cemetery.

Man Who Planned to Sail to Mars in Airship Dies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—Hermann Ganswindt, who claimed to be the inventor of the first dirigible, for which he took out a patent 51 years ago, died today in Berlin. He was 78 years old. He was one of the greatest rivals of Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin. Although he received several public grants, he did not secure sufficient funds to develop his airship, with which he had planned "to sail to Mars." Ganswindt is survived by 21 children.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: "Daddy" Scrambles the Yeggs

JOHN PHELAN, 75, LONG IN JUVENILE COURT, IS DEAD

John Phelan, 75 years old, a retired Chicago policeman and bailiff of the Juvenile court, died yesterday in the home of a daughter at 511 North Lathrop avenue, River Forest.

Mr. Phelan came to Chicago 65 years ago and settled in St. Columkille's parish near Grand and Ashland avenues. He was associated with the late Judge Timothy D. Hurley in the early years of the Juvenile court and after the judge's death in 1926 was appointed bailiff to Judge Mary Bartelme. During his court service he became known for the interest he took in children brought into court. He retired two years ago.

Surviving him are two daughters, Miss Mae R. Phelan and Mrs. S. E. James, with whom he lived. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in the family residence, followed at 10 a. m. by rites in St. Luke's Catholic church in River Forest. Burial is to be in Calvary cemetery.

GEORGE H. WHITE, EX-PROSECUTOR, LECTURER, DIES

Attorney George H. White, city prosecutor from 1907 to 1912 and former Chicago Law school lecturer, died in the Presbyterian hospital yesterday after an illness of several months. He was 82 years old.

Mr. White, who lived at 5000 East End avenue, was head of the legal department of the Beatrice Creamery company, 1526 South State street. He was born in Easton, N. Y., and received a degree from Northwestern university in 1875. In 1898, after practicing in various cities of the central west, he settled in Chicago and remained here.

Surviving Mr. White are his widow Mrs. Minnie V. White, and two children, Vernon and Mrs. Gladys C. Stuhr. Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 4227 Cottage Grove avenue. Burial will be in Harvard, Ill.

MRS. HINNMAN, CLUB LEADER, IS DEAD IN LINCOLN

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Alice Hamlin Hinnman, 67, prominent in Lincoln cultural activities and nationally prominent in women's organizations, died here today of peritonitis. She had been operated on for appendicitis.

Mrs. Hinnman was a daughter of the Rev. Cyrus Hamlin, American Congregational missionary, who founded Roberts college in Constantinople, Turkey, where she was born. Mrs. Hinnman was formerly professor of psychology, and her husband is chairman of the department of philosophy and psychology at the University of Nebraska. Funeral services will be held Tuesday.

MAJ. GEN. BUTLER ATTACKS WARS BEFORE VETERANS

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler, former commandant of the United States marine corps, today told a gathering of war veterans that wars are international "rackets" and the source of the world's economic ills.

Butler attacked "that group of people that carelessly sacrifices the lives of those dumb, honest soldier boys to satisfy their own greed in starting wars."

The former marines chief urged the veterans to unite in a fight to "outlaw war."

"Munition makers and other greedy manufacturers in the world war used 4,000,000 soldiers to collect $4,500,000,000 owed by the allies," Butler said.

"They went to the White House and intimidated President Wilson by saying they could not meet their pay rolls if America did not help the allies to defeat Germany."

Butler declared: "I swear that I never will place another gun across my shoulder to go to another country to fight, and the only way we can stop wars is by allowing only those who are able to fight themselves to vote on the question."

COUPLE FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN BENSENVILLE

John Kanchowsky, 45 years old, salesman for an insurance company, and his wife Katherine, 35 years old, were found shot to death yesterday on their small chicken farm at George and John streets, Bensenville.

According to Chief of Police Herman L. Wagner of Bensenville and Deputy Sherif Arthur Bennett of Du Page county, Kanchowsky apparently shot his wife some time Saturday night and then killed himself early yesterday.

Lights burning in the Kanchowsky home yesterday morning attracted the attention of neighbors who summoned Chief Wagner. He broke in the front door, and found Mrs. Kanchowsky lying across a bed, shot twice through the body. A new automatic pistol lay under her elbow. Kanchowsky's body, with a bullet in the right temple, was on the floor beside the bed. There was no evidence of a struggle.

Chief Wagner said he plans to question H. Kitaeff, a roomer at the Kanchowsky home, when the latter returns from a week-end in Chicago. Kitaeff left Saturday morning.

MRS. A. L. MANNING, LONG A RESIDENT OF CHICAGO, DEAD

Mrs. Anna Laura Manning, gold star mother and for many years a resident of Chicago, died early today in her home at 4244 North Troy street after a long illness. She was 74 years old.

Although she was born in Maryland, Mrs. Manning raised a large family in Chicago. One son, Raymond, died in service during the world war. Recently she had grieved over the deaths of another son, Joseph, and of her grandson, Clement Manning Jr.

Survivors include Clement Manning, reporter for THE TRIBUNE; two other sons, Edgar and Gilbert, and two daughters, Anna and Elizabeth. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Charles F. Fuller, Public Accountant, Dies Suddenly

Charles F. Fuller, 50 years old, 567 Hill terrace, Winnetka, a certified public accountant, died yesterday of heart disease in St. Luke's hospital a few minutes after being stricken in a taxicab at Colmbus drive and Roosevelt road while on his way to the Fair. His wife, Mrs. Ethel Yates Fuller, was with him. Mr. Fuller was a partner in the firm of P. L. Crawford & Co., 203 North Wabash avenue. A son, Richard, of Evanston, also survives. Mrs. Fuller said her husband had suffered from a heart ailment for some time.

Dies at 110; Had 100 Great and Great-Great Grandsons

CORUNNA, Spain, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A woman 110 years old, Manuela Vigo Pequeno, died today in the nearby town of Corcubion. She was married at the age of 16 and had 18 grandchildren and 100 great-grandsons and great-great-grandsons.

"FORWARD with ROOSEVELT AND RECOVERY"

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Lawrence Tibbett, the most robustious of radio baritones, tossed out a few brickbats and bouquets yesterday. His heaviest hurling was directed at "musical snobs who do more to hurt American music than all the so called cheap popular music." His sincerest tribute went to W. C. Handy, composer of the jazz classic, "St. Louis Blues," which Tibbett announced he would sing here on Tuesday evening on his sponsored program over NBC.

"'St. Louis Blues' is one of the most significant popular works of our time," the Metropolitan Opera favorite declared. "Out of this work was born the American manner in popular music. George Gershwin owes a lot to this number as do most of our popular composers. This sort of music is our genuine folk music despite the objection of our musical snobs. And I honestly feel that the popular music composed by Americans is incomparably the best popular music in the world today."

Tibbett also had a word of tribute for John Alden Carpenter. Chicago composer, whose "Shake Your Brown Feet Honey" he also is to sing tomorrow.

Commenting on radio artists and programs, Tibbett expressed the opinion that Helen Jepson, Paul White man's soprano, is due for considerable success with the Metropolitan Opera with which she makes her debut this winter. He also confessed that his own favorite radio entertainer is Ed Wynn, though his youngsters adore Penner, a fact he cannot understand.

Like Will Rogers, what Tibbett knows he learns from the newspapers. And that goes even for operatic assignments. The Metropolitan chiefs give the call for any given opera only about a week in advance, Tibbett declared, and he can usually find out earlier what he will sing next by reading the newspapers.

And he gets a chuckle out of the sponsorship of Metropolitan Opera broadcasts this season by that "Your best friends won't tell you" gargle concern. It recalls an incident in connection with his filming of "The Cuban Love Song." Perhaps you remember the sequence where Tibbett puts away a lot of peanuts and then goes directly into a song. Well peanuts are not conducive to putting the voice into the best condition. So every time that sequence was shot Tibbett took time out to flush his throat with a gulp of the St. Louis gargle just because a bottle chanced to be handy. A representative of the company happened on the lot one day and noticed it. He was so tickled that he sent the baritone a couple of cases!

A group of seasoned radio actors has been chosen to portray the Gumps, when they go on the air Nov. 5 over CBS. Andy will be played by Wilmer Walter, Min by Agnes Moorhead, Chester by 13 year old Lester Lay, Uncle Bim by George Graham, Tilda by Edith Spencer. . . . There's a new baby, a boy, in the household of Hyman Brown, who is writing the Gump script.

L. H. Knodell, 76, Retired Postal Employe, Is Dead

L. H. Knodell, 3150 Lake Park avenue, for fifty years a resident of Chicago, died yesterday of heart disease in the Wesley Memorial hospital. He was 76 years old. Mr. Knodell retired fifteen years ago from the postal service. He was president of the Lake Park Improvement association and a member of the executive committee of the Central Shore Voters' league. He is survived by his widow and two sons, Alvin and Arthur. Tentative arrangements have been made for services tomorrow at 6110 Cottage Grove avenue.

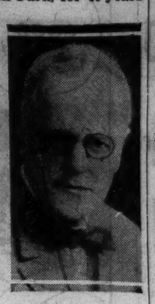
SAMUEL PARKS, ATTORNEY AND S. A. R., IS DEAD

Samuel Shaw Parks, 810 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, for 46 years a corporation and insurance lawyer in Chicago, died yesterday of heart disease in the Westlake hospital, Melrose Park. He was 71 years old.



SAMUEL S. PARKS.

Mr. Parks was born in Palmer, Mass., a descendant of Sir Robert Parks, who settled in Boston in 1630. On his mother's side, Mr. Parks traced ancestry to twenty Mayflower passengers.

In 1886 he came to Chicago after graduation from Amherst college. Here he was graduated from the Union College of Law and the law school of Northwestern university. In 1888 he married Miss Grace Runyan, daughter of the late Eben F. Runyan, the Chicago lawyer.

Mr. Parks was a Mason, a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, the Sons of the American Revolution, and the Press and Midland clubs. He was also known as a lecturer on Indian art and other historical subjects.

He is survived by a son, Clarence Runyan Parks of Glen Ellyn, and two daughters, Mrs. David Fraser Hemenway of Muskegon, Mich., and Mrs. George Wright Bonson of Oak Park. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Pilgrim Congregational church in Oak Park, with interment at Woodlawn Memorial cemetery.

GIRL WHO AIDED FIRE VICTIMS OF 1871 DIES AT 80

Mrs. Ellen Stapleton Minor, 80 years old, 6153 South Washtenaw avenue, died in the Englewood hospital yesterday of injuries suffered on Sept. 22 when she fell in her home.

Mrs. Minor's father, Thomas O'Neil, settled here in 1833, the year Chicago was incorporated as a village. Mrs. Minor was born in a house near Canal and Van Buren streets. During the fire of 1871, as a girl of 17, she assisted her father in caring for the injured carried to her home.

Besides four children, Thomas Stapleton, Miss Nelle Stapleton, Sidney Minor, and Mrs. Esther French, she is survived by nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Funeral services will be held on Wednesday in the family home.

STOCKS APPEAR TO BE STANDING ON THEIR OWN

Seem Less Affected by Political Talk.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—Having blown alternately hot and cold with the changing political winds out of Washington for these many months of New Deal experimentation, the stock market is beginning to show some signs at last of falling back on its investment lines and to positions dictated by old time business considerations. It no longer changes front with every political rumor that blows.

Traders are turning their attention more and more to corporation earnings reports and prospects, plans and possibilities of business expansion in this direction or that, changes in capitalization and personnel—oldline market factors. "Washington advices" are gradually losing their erstwhile magic.

Reception of Speech.

A striking example in point was afforded last week when President Roosevelt's much anticipated speech to the bankers in convention at Washington failed to raise a ripple on the market's course for all its prominence in speculative thought and in spite of its conciliatory tone and the implications of conservatism read into it. A price rally which got under way on Wednesday afternoon preceding the delivery of the speech that night and carried into the next day, was credited entirely to the decision of the Supreme court of the District of Columbia upsetting the railway pension act.

Some brokers thought that the decline which set in Thursday afternoon and carried into yesterday's abbreviated session might have been due in some measure to disappointment over the President's failure to define his administration's future monetary policy or relieve popular doubts on some of the other problems confronting him at the moment, but majority opinion in the street is that the event passed without the slightest effect on speculative activity either way. Informed comment, indeed, continues to insist that the impression made on the market community by the speech was rather more favorable than otherwise.

Rail Shares Gain.

The Wednesday afternoon-Thursday morning rally was based, brokers said, on a belief that the pension decision might pave the way toward relieving the railroads of some of the intolerable burdens under which they have been struggling for so long and obligations which loom up so menacingly ahead of them. The buying started in the railroad carrier group and gains in some of the favorite speculative issues ran as high as $4 and $5 a share. The decline on the other hand had its inception in a rush to take profits on some of the big gains ran up in the first burst of enthusiasm over the new "break" given the railroads of the country.

Then came the disappointing earnings reports of General Motors corporation and Bethlehem Steel, coupled with the report of Consolidated Gas and the disclosure that the Baldwin Locomotive company was in such a bad way that it could not pay interest on the bonds of its sinking funds.

Prices Move Lower.

The result was a sustained selling movement which carried the combined averages down to a level where at the close of Saturday's abbreviated trading session they were approximately two points below their figure of a week ago. All groups shared alike in the setback but here and there individual issues outran their divisions for one special bearish reason or another. National Biscuit was under selling pressure for most of the week, for instance, on its unfavorable earnings figures and the Baldwin disclosure cost the preferred stock of that company something like $20 a share in three or four sessions.

English Banks Thrive Due to Lack of Laws

Superiority of the English banking system over that of the United States lies not in methods but in the almost complete lack of burocratic meddling and hampering laws, the Guaranty Trust company of New York declares in its current monthly bulletin.

"The wisdom of English banking legislation lies mainly in its scarcity," the bank asserts. "It is the tradition of sound management, combined with a minimum of unnecessary government interference and restriction, that explains the strength of the system."

Admitting England has handled its banking business more effectively during depression than has the United States, the Guaranty Trust places a portion of the blame for America's procedure upon its laws.

English Banks Not Sounder.

English banks are not sounder than United States institutions, but their method of organization makes possible saner and more satisfactory operation, the review asserts.

"Aside from a few general provisions of the English law, there is no regulation nor supervision of English banks," the review says. "There is no minimum capital requirement and no examination is made by the government. Neither are any condition reports concerning any phase of the banks' affairs required by the Bank of England or the government. There are no requirements for minimum reserves, where reserves shall be kept, nor types of assets in which the banks may invest. They operate with a free hand."

The survey then tells how English banks have been able to retard the depression through use of common sense in "working out" loans which may have encountered difficulties.

Loan Extensions Granted.

Extensions have been granted in many cases, often running into years, and thus sudden dumping of collateral on the market with resultant price declines has been eliminated. Here, the review says, our system aggravates a depression. Supervising departments and bank examiners put more and more loans in the doubtful column, and liquidation soon is like a rolling snowball, growing larger and larger as its momentum increases.

The bank assails uneconomic methods which resulted in the opening of more banks than this country could accommodate, but suggests for ideal operation the United States adopt some of the English theories.

"No American banker would advocate the same broad freedom in this country," it says. "The ideal policy lies somewhere between the two extremes. Probably every banker would recommend the federal reserve system be placed entirely beyond the influence of politics.

Need Sound Money System.

"For a sound money system and to provide the credit requirements of the country this course is fundamental. The experience of the Bank of England and other central banks proves the wisdom of it.

"If and when reform banking legislation is drawn, recognized reputable bankers should have a voice in the principles laid down because they are better qualified than our law making bodies, which have not been engaged in business to a considerable extent.

"Some of our ablest and most honorable citizens are bankers, notwithstanding existing prejudices. Unless they and the members of congress join in a spirit of coöperation and sincerity to formulate a sound monetary and banking program, thereby restoring confidence in our money, a return to good business conditions seems difficult, if not impossible."

Brighton Park State Bank to Pay 10 Pct. Dividend

A 10 per cent dividend, amounting to $37,000, has been authorized by State Auditor Barrett for payment to depositors of the Brighton Park State bank. William L. O'Connell, receiver for the bank, states that this is the first payment to depositors since the bank closed on Oct. 2, 1931. In addition to this payment, on which checks will be sent out during the week, O'Connell says $7,426 has been paid preferred creditors and $187,104 has been paid on bills payable. The 10 per cent disbursement is being made out of funds acquired in the ordinary course of liquidation.

INFLATION HELD BY KEMMERER TO BE ON WAY

Time of Arrival Is Still Uncertain.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Declaring that the "dynamite" of inflation has already been laid and that there remains only the lighting of the fuse, Prof. Edwin Walter Kemmerer of Princeton university, nationally known economist, today warned delegates to the annual convention of the Investment Bankers Association of America not to be misled by the time lag between the fact of inflation and public recognition of the fact.

He definitly predicted inflation, declaring that the only unknown element was the exact time when it would arrive.

Prof. Kemmerer spoke at length upon the possibility of a "twenty-five cent dollar" and pointed out that during a period of inflation such as he forecast the best things to hold are good common stocks, real estate and speculative bonds.

Meeting Is Packed.

Prof. Kemmerer spoke at a forum preceding the opening of general sessions of the convention tomorrow. Despite the fact that it was a preliminary meeting practically all of the 600 delegates to the convention packed the hall in the Greenbrier hotel to listen to the remarks of this noted exponent of "sound money" and former financial advisor to a number of European nations.

The investment bankers whose business is the underwriting and sale of bonds, were profoundly impressed by his talk.

During a period of inflation, the speaker pointed out, the holder of high grade bonds, including government bonds, suffers by being forced to accept money of reduced purchasing power both in interest and principal. The stockholder, he continued, would benefit because he gets not only his own share but part of the bondholders' as well.

He frequently drew analogies between the present period of "incipient" inflation in the United Stats and the period directly after the war in Germany when the basis of inflation had been laid but public recognition of that fact had not yet been awakened.

"Dynamite" of Inflation.

The "dynamite" of inflation, he pointed out, lay in the 40 per cent debasement of the dollar already accomplished and the concomitant broadening of the metallic base of currency and credit, together with the Thomas inflation amendment which gave the President vast powers to bring about additional inflation without further act of congress.

Such a set of conditions conducive to inflation, he argued, probably could not have been set up in such countries as Belgium, France, Holland or Germany, because in those countries parliamentary bodies would refuse to surrender to the heads of the government so much power to use at their discretion.

In his judgment, Prof. Kemmerer said, the prospects in the United States for the immediate future were for continued low profits, due largely to radical governmental policies, higher interest rates, and rapidly rising prices. When the real effects of inflation would come he did not attempt to predict.

"Both prices and interest rates will tend strongly upward," he said. "From this it follows that the cautious investor, instead of lending money now through the purchase of bonds, should use his money for the purchase of durable commodities, real estate and corporate equities.

Preferable to Bonds.

"Carefully chosen common stocks now, as an investment category, are preferable to bonds, and well distributed second and third grade bonds are preferable to first grade bonds.

"The securities of those corporations that are the least liable to government regulation and price control and least liable to consumer strikes and to the labor troubles that are increasingly common in times of rising cost of living and lagging wages, should in general be chosen in preference to the securities of railroad corporations, public utilities and the producers of other so-called necessities of life."

Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange is scheduled to make an address tomorrow on the securities exchange act of 1934. This act and the investment bankers code will be the chief topics for consideration at the opening sessions.

New members elected to the I. B. A. today include the City National Bank and Trust company, and Fuller, Crutenden & Co., both of Chicago.

VISITORS' FINAL RUSH TO SEE WORLD'S FAIR BOOMS CHICAGO TRADE

Chicago retail trade was buoyant last week as a last minute rush to view A Century of Progress brought thousands of out of town visitors to the city, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Turnover was slightly less than the previous week but well ahead of the same 1933 period.

Wholesalers experienced a slight easing in demand, as the result of a slackened interest in rural areas. Lighter crop shipments and heavy commodity buying of earlier weeks abetted the disappointing trend.

Building supply interests reported better volume, while steel output here rose a point to 29 per cent of capacity, largely from orders of implement builders and automobile manufacturers. Factory employment and forces of a few retail establishments are slightly higher, the trade body says.

General Electric Official to Address Trade Group

H. Freeman Barnes, Cleveland, O., sales promotion manager of the General Electric company, will address the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Palmer house Wednesday noon. He will exhort his listeners to "Ask 'Em to Buy."

SHELL UNION OIL QUARTER PROFIT PUT AT $1,488,704

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Net profit of the Shell Union Oil corporation and subsidiary companies for the quarter ended on Sept. 30 was $1,488,704 after expenses, depletion, depreciation, intangible development expenditures, and abandonments, interest, provision for federal income tax, and other charges. This is equivalent, after dividend requirements on the preferred stock, to 7 cents a share on 13,070,025 common shares. For the preceding quarter the company showed a net loss of $897,592 and for the third quarter of 1933 a net profit of $4,536,630, or 31 cents a common share.

The Shell Pipe Line corporation, which is controled by Shell Union, reported a net profit of $1,591,027 after expenses, depreciation, retirements, interest, provision for federal income tax and other charges. This compared with a profit after interest, depreciation and other deductions, but before federal taxes, of $2,587,886 in the preceding quarter and a net profit of $2,689,699 in the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1933.

GAS FIRMS GAIN 277,000 CUSTOMERS IN EIGHT MONTHS

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Companies distributing manufactured and natural gas gained 277,000 domestic consumers in the first 8 months of the year, according to the American Gas association, which will open its annual convention in Atlantic City tomorrow.

The public bought 540,000 gas stoves in the eight months, an increase of 28 per cent from the same period in 1933. In the same time revenues from manufactured gas aggregated $255,499,100, an increase of 1.1 per cent from last year. Natural gas revenues were $214,719,800, up 4.6 per cent.

Largely through increased taxations, net income of manufactured gas companies in 1933 declined 30 per cent from 1932 to $47,997,000.

NEARLY SIX BILLIONS OF U. S. OBLIGATIONS DUE WITHIN ONE YEAR

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Obligations of the United States government in the hands of the public, and which will mature within twelve months, amount to $5,790,114,900. They consist of treasury certificates of indebtedness, notes, and noninterest bearing discount bills.

The fourth Liberty 4¼s outstanding have been reduced to approximately $3,142,000,000. Of this amount $1,870,000,000 has been called for redemption on April 15.

The first Liberty 4¼s are not callable until June 15, 1935, and then only if notice is given by March 15, 1935. This issue is outstanding in the amount of $535,981,500. The Liberty 3½s, outstanding in the amount of $1,329,226,350, are likewise callable on June 15, 1935, if notice is given by March 15, 1935.

Millett, Roe & Co. to End Partnership October 3

Millett, Roe & Co. will dissolve their partnership agreement on Oct. 31 and three members will join the staf of Whitehouse & Co. Both concerns are members of the New York Stock exchange. The three partners joining the Whitehouse concern are Stephen C. Millett, Alexander V. Roe, and Charles Boucher.

Steel Makers More Cheerful Over Outlook

With a better feeling established between business and the Roosevelt administration and a quickening in seasonal manufacturing, the outlook in the iron and steel markets is more favorable, says the magazine, Steel. Steel output during the week receded 1 point to 25½ per cent of production capacity as commitments remained conservative.

Steelmakers are confident, however, that a base is being laid for broader improvement, with business apparently discounting the November elections and making progress. In some instances steel production schedules have been stepped up in response to slight increases in tonnage and in preparation for larger orders in the coming month.

Prepare New Auto Models.

As automobile manufacturers are nearing the starting line for 1935 assemblies and the farm implement, stove and radiator manufacturers are becoming more active, tonnage buyers are becoming more of a factor in the markets. While November is expected to develop further recession in production of present automobile models, the month will usher in a definite beginning on new models.

The first substantial purchase of steel since the NRA's recent ratification of the steel code and price policies was made last week by the navy with a purchase of 565 tons of plates and bars at the open market prices bid Aug. 28.

Structural Awards Drop.

Structural shape awards for the week dropped to 11,000 tons from 14,973 tons in the preceding week. Awards of general contracts for the Los Angeles aqueduct project were made last week and 51,550 tons of steel is to be purchased soon, of which 45,000 tons will be in reinforcing bars, one of the largest single orders for this material on record. Bids are to be taken on 8,810 tons of shapes for two more units of the Golden Gate, San Francisco bridge.

Among transportation interests that are in the market are the Norfolk & Western railroad, which has issued a tentative inquiry for 10,000 tons of rails for delivery next year, and the Chicago Motor Coach company, which has ordered 75 motor coaches, while the Union Pacific railroad has ordered 20. The Delaware bridge commission is in the market for 44 subway cars. South Africa has placed 2,500 tons of rails with a Canadian mill and the Anglo-Mexican Petroleum corporation, New York, has purchased 75 tank cars.

Operations during the week gained 7 points to 38 per cent at Cleveland, 6 to 29 at Wheeling, 1 to 21 at Pittsburgh, 12 to 27½ at Chicago, and 12 to 20 in eastern Pennsylvania. At Youngstown the rate was down 4 points to 26 per cent, and at Birmingham 15 points to 10 per cent. Detroit held at 59, New England, 40, and Buffalo, 24.

N. Y. EXCHANGE ISSUES FIRST FINANCE REPORT

Operates at Loss of $287,000 in 1933.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Shattering precedents and aiding the federal effort to give investors all possible information, the New York Stock exchange today made public a statement of its finances showing that it lost $287,000 in 1933.

Given out also was a consolidated balance sheet covering the stock exchange, the New York Stock Exchange Building company, the New York Quotation company, the Stock Clearing corporation, the New York Stock Exchange Safe Deposit company, and 39 Broad Street corporation. Their assets were listed at $43,846,054, including $2,111,738 in cash and $1,262,537 in securities.

Never before had the exchange given out a public financial accounting. Its contention had been that it was a private organization and had to report only to its members.

Released by Secretary.

But because it had swung to the quasi-public conviction, or possibly because of gentle promptings from the securities and exchange commission, the financial summary was released today by the secretary. At any rate, publication of the information was in line with the commission's attempt to help investors protect themselves by giving them all the information available about their securities and the markets and individuals that handle them.

Reports on other market places throughout the country will be published soon.

The stock exchange did not touch on that question of always popular interest—how much it figured the seats of individual members were worth. In past and better times they have been sold for as much as $500,000, and more recently their value has dropped to $100,000 plus.

$27,570,287 Equity Value.

But the exchange did value what it called the "equity representing the interest in the exchange of all members"—at $27,570,287. On the basis of 1,375 seats, that would indicate an equity value of $20,051 per seat. Other things—intangibles including good will and expected profits—would make the sales price of a seat much higher than that figure.

The exchange valued its land and buildings at $31,444,298, less $5,455,908

CANADA'S STAND ON PRICES KEY TO WHEAT TRADE

Dominion Premier to Tell Policy This Week.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Elucidation of Canada's wheat policy, which Premier Bennett is expected to make today, may have an important bearing on the price outlook in the grain market. Canada is admittedly facing a difficult decision despite the strategic position which she occupies this year in the world grain market.

Canada has the choice of continuing the present policy of supporting the price of wheat and taking the chance that the world eventually will have to come around to her way of thinking on prices or she may sell her wheat in the world market at a level which will provide competition with the cheaper grades of Argentine and French wheat. The question is inextricably interwoven with Canadian politics.

Farmers Want Price Supported.

The policy of supporting wheat prices is popular with farmers, just as was the program of the farm board when it began operations in this country. There is a growing uneasiness, however, among Canadian millers and in the grain trade regarding over the final results of the present policy.

Canadian millers have watched an increasing amount of flour manufactured from Argentine and Australian wheat find its way into the home market. Exporters have seen European buyers turning up their noses at Canadian wheat in favor of the cheaper Argentine varieties. The natural question is can Canada continue to run the risk of losing her foreign markets by allowing competitors to undersell her. Canada today has the largest wheat surplus in the world.

Price Spread Too Great.

Logically her wheat should command a premium over that of competing countries because of its admittedly higher quality. The present spread and betweenthe wheat in the Liverpool market, however, is far too great to permit any heavy sales of the former.

Canada has an estimated 475,000,000 bushel supply at the present time. After subtracting the estimated 105,000,000 bushels needed for domestic consumption, there remains a surplus of around 370,000,000 bushels. Some 265,000,000 bushels could be sold abroad and a year's supply would still remain in the country. At the present rate of exports, however, Canada will have a tremendous surplus with which to enter the next year and if, by chance, a bumper yield should materialize next year it would have a depressing effect on prices.

Pass Buck on Price Fixing.

The history of the Canadian attempts to control the price of wheat has been a story of buck passing. The original pools gave way to the provincial governments, which in turn had to turn the problem over to the federal government when the financial burden became too heavy. It is the dominion government's baby now and there is nobody to pass it to.

Traders here can't make up their minds whether it would be better for the Canadian government to stay in the Winnipeg market or to step aside and let the price seek a competitive level. If the government abandoned its support it would be a bearish factor in the immediate future. It would result, however, in moving run the Canadian surplus. In the long run the latter course should appeal to those who are forever demanding "free and open markets."

Chicago Prices for Week.

The following table shows the range of prices in grain futures in Chicago last week:

	High.	Low.	Oct. 27.	Oct. 20.
December	$ .99	$ .94⅜	$ .96	$ .97⅛
May	.99¼	.94½	.95⅜	.97⅛
July	.94	.90⅝	.91⅝	.92⅛

Season's range—December, $1.13⅛@82⅛c; May, $1.17@94½c; July, $1.00@90c.

Oats—	High.	Low.	Oct. 27.	Oct. 20.
December	.51⅜	.48	.49¾	.50⅝
May	.49¼	.46⅛	.48	.48⅛
July	.44¼	.41⅜	.43	.43⅝

Season's range—December, 56⅝@41¼c; May, 59½@45½c; July, 53@41c.

Rye—	High.	Low.	Oct. 27.	Oct. 20.
December	.72¼	.66	.67⅞	.70⅝
May	.73⅞	.69	.71	.72⅝
July	.73⅝	.69¼	.71¼	.72⅝

Season's range—December, 90⅝@65½c; May, 95⅞@69c; July, 77⅝@69¼c.

Closing prices Saturday on all grains were below the level of the preceding week. Not that the domestic situation has been any less favorable to higher prices, but the emphasis that has been placed on the unsettled foreign situation has been responsible for the decline, it is agreed in the trade.

CHILEAN FARMS SUFFER SEVERE FROST DAMAGE

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 28.—The minister of agriculture declared today that frosts, frigid weather, and snow during the last week had caused the heaviest damage ever experienced by Chilean farmers. It is expected exports of wines, fruits, and grains, which have been increasing as a result of an active campaign abroad, will now suffer.

The damage in the provinces of Aconcagua and Santiago is estimated at more than $8,000,000, with the almost total destruction of vineyards, poultry farms, and fruit trees. The ministry of agriculture will advance to farmers nitrate and other fertilizers for a second crop.

N. Y. EXCHANGE ISSUES FIRST FINANCE REPORT

1933 Operations Result in Loss of $287,000.

laid aside for depreciation, leaving a book value of $25,988,390.

There also was included a figure of $13,320,000, representing deposits of members in the Stock Clearing corporation. This fund could not be prorated among the exchange members, but the contribution of each member is repayable to him on his retirement.

The report was not as detailed as many financial reports of private companies required by the exchange for listing purposes. Outlays of monies were described under general headings.

Total salaries and wages in 1933 were $4,336,103. Averaged out among an estimated 2,530 employés a wage of $1,734 was shown. Many major exchange officials receive no salary.

Dues Total $1,375,000.

Dues from members totaled $1,375,000, or $1,000 per year per member. Principal other income came from the ticker and other similar services. This brought in $5,515,444 from members and $1,969,350 from non-members.

Fines against members were $38,960, but this was not broken down either as to character of violation or person fined.

The principal expense item was the $4,336,103 in salaries and wages of the total expense of $7,683,916. Additional major expenses were $536,943 for employé benefits; $645,217 for taxes, and $660,441 for depreciation.

The committee on publicity, of the New York Stock exchange itself, as distinguished from its subsidiary companies, spent $97,650, including $55,693 for general expense which was not otherwise described.

Report by Curb.

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A net addition to surplus of $13,295 in 1933 and a surplus of $3,906,850 on Dec. 31, 1933, were shown today in the balance sheet of the New York Curb exchange. Total assets of $3,929,736 were listed, with cash on hand and in banks totaling $343,807. The curb's total investments, composed of treasury bonds and bankers' acceptances, were given as $306,734, and total accounts receivable were $4,498.

An item of $2,833,281 was given as advanced to the New York Curb Realty Associates, Inc., the corporation owning the Curb Exchange building in the Wall street district. As an investment asset were listed 2,500 shares at $250,000 of the New York Curb Exchange Securities Clearing corporation.

Dues Amount to $274,985.

Total additions in 1933 were $893,339, with the largest item of $274,985 from dues of regular members. Dues of associate members brought in $212,045, and telephone booth rentals amounted to $89,417. Regular initiation fees were $95,000 and associate initiation fees $87,500. Fines levied, an item not given in detail, were listed at $13,530.

Total deductions for 1933 amounted to $880,044. Trading floor salaries were $222,053 and executive office salaries $101,521. Rent was given as $297,027.

For an investigation last year on unlisted securities, the balance sheet showed $52,396, marked "investigation expense [attorney general]." Publicity expenses during the year were $17,487, and an unitemized figure of $1,230 was given for wedding gifts. The balance on Jan. 1, 1933, was $3,-$93,555.

Receivership Is Requested for Great Lakes Utilities

Wilmington, Oel., Oct. 28.—A bill asking for the appointment of receivers for the Great Lakes Utilities corporation has been filed in Chancery court here by Franklin S. Piper and Harry E. McEeachen, both of Manchester, N. H. The bill alleges the corporation is insolvent and requests that receivers investigate the circumstances of a transaction whereby its $606,000 secured notes in National Public Utilities corporation were sold for $74,000 to the Pennsylvania and Southern Gas company. It is alleged the transaction, made on Oct. 27, 1933, was fraudulent.

Head of Canadian Pacific Urges Railway Unification

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 28.—An emphatic declaration that only by unification of Canada's two railway systems can the greatest economies be effected was made here today by E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific railway, replying to speeches made recently by C. P. Fullerton, chairman of trustees of the Canadian National railways, against unification. Mr. Beatty stated that accumulated Canadian National railways deficits since 1923 have totaled $644,000,000.

N. Y. Central Gets Permit to Buy Line in Kankakee

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—The New York Central railroad has been given permission by the interstate commerce commission to acquire for $3,020 a section of track belonging to the Kankakee and Seneca Railroad company in Kankakee county, Illinois, and to operate it as parts of its own railroad. The purchase price was equal to the salvage value of the property. The Kankakee and Seneca railroad was abandoned in 1933. The rails will be used as a connection link between the New York Central and the Illinois Central railroads.

EXPECT WOOL IMPROVEMENT.

The New York Wool Top exchange said indications are that the last two months of the year will be marked by a higher rate of machinery operations and larger wool consumption than in any earlier period this year.

BOSTON EDISON ISSUES LARGEST UNDER NEW LAW

Public offering of a new issue of $20,000,000 in 3 per cent coupon notes will be made today by the Edison Electric Illuminating company of Boston through a nation-wide syndicate headed by the First Boston corporation, it was announced yesterday.

This offering places Boston Edison in the position of having undertaken the largest amount of new financing under the amended securities act of 1933, it is said. On July 2 the company marketed $35,000,000 of 3 per cent notes. It is understood also that this is the first instance of registration of a second securities issue under the act by any one concern.

Notes Run Three Years.

The new notes will be dated Nov. 2, 1934, and mature Nov. 2, 1937. They are priced at 100½ and interest, to yield 2.825 per cent, and will be used to retire a similar amount of 5 per cent notes, due May 2, 1935, which have been called for retirement at 100 and accrued interest Nov. 2.

Others included in the underwriting are Lee Higginson corporation; F. S. Moseley & Co.; Kidder, Peabody & Co.; Burr, Gannett & Co.; Brown, Harriman & Co.; White, Weld & Co.; Goldman, Sacks & Co.; Hornblower & Weeks; Stone & Webster and Blodget; Estabrook & Co.; R. L. Day & Co.; Blake Brothers & Co.; Hayden, Stone & Co.; Paine, Webber & Co.; Jackson & Curtis; Tucker, Anthony & Co.; Coffin & Burr; Whiting, Weeks & Knowles; Arthur Perry & Co.; Newton Abbe & Co., and Spencer Trask & Co.

Cleveland Bonds Offered.

An issue of $560,000 Cleveland, O., street improvement and sewer construction 4½ per cent bonds will be offered today at prices yielding from 3 to 4.5 per cent, according to maturity, by a syndicate headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. and including Bancamerica Blair corporation and Piper, Jaffray & Hopwood. The issue matures from Nov. 1, 1936 to 1946 inclusive.

REDMOND & CO. ACQUIRE PRINCE BROKERAGE FIRM

New York, Oct. 28.—Henry Mason Day, senior partner in the stock brokerage firm of Redmond & Co., has announced an arrangement whereby his firm will acquire the business of Theodore Prince & Co., also a stock exchange firm.

The acquisition, which will bring under one roof two of the oldest firms having membership in the New York Stock exchange, will involve no change in the present partnership of the Redmond firm. Theodore Prince, one of the leading bond experts in the brokerage fraternity, will have direction of the bond department of the Redmond company.

FOREIGNERS BUY MORE COPPER ON CONTROL RUMORS

But World Marketing Pact Is Denied.

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Heavy foreign buying of copper, coupled with persistent but unconfirmed reports regarding a prospective international marketing control agreement, featured the metal markets last week.

Demand was particularly active from continental Europe and Japan, despite denials regarding the possibility of agreements covering selling cooperation and production control for producers outside of the United States. Export quotations advanced about ⅝ cent but the firmness had no influence on the unchanged domestic price of 9 cents for Blue Eagle electrolytic. Business with United States consumers continued in fair volume at the latter price.

Zinc Price Advanced.

Zinc was being quoted $1 per ton higher than a week ago owing to a similar advance in ore prices as a result of recent mine curtailment. Buyers who had anticipated needs prior to the advance withheld further purchases and the market was quiet.

Although occasional lots appeared at concessions, smelters generally held firm owing to a comfortable backlog of orders and on expectations that consuming demand would expand following a slow third quarter. Mines in the tri-state district were scheduled to resume production this week.

Tin Fluctuations Narrow.

Tin fluctuations over a narrow range were still a reflection of changes in sterling exchange with domestic buying limited to small filling-in lots. The international tin committee met at Brussels but apparently left tin production quotas unchanged.

Although lead was quiet following recent activity, smelters reported good shipments to consumers against contracts, regarded as being indicative of a good rate of consumption in October. September statistics published reflected a decrease in refined stocks despite larger production, which was offset by increased shipments. Antimony was quiet on light prompt sales with prices unchanged.

FRENCH ADVERSE TRADE BALANCE IS IMPROVING

PARIS, Oct. 28.—France is steadily decreasing her adverse commercial balance, according to customs figures published today, compared with those of September, 1933, imports were reduced from 2,153,709,000 francs to 1,653,141,000 last September.

Exports improved in certain categories and were below last year's figures by less than 72,000,000 francs. The biggest drop in exports was on manufactured goods.

For the first nine months compared with the same period last year there was a decline of nearly 4,000,000,000 francs in the value of imports, and of only 413,000,000 in the value of exports. The adverse balance for that period was reduced to 4,594,000,000, nearly half of last year's figures for the same period.

FLOUR PRICES STEADY.

Flour business in the New York market made a fair total last week, but large consumers were not prominent in the buying movement. Prices were steady at the close of the week.

EXPERTS DIFFER ON NEW GERMAN RIVAL OF COTTON

Insist U. S. Growers Have No Cause to Worry.

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Are the laboratories of Germany about to offer the world a cotton substitute which may prove to be a competitive menace to the future of the American cotton growing industry?

A tremulous "Yes" has come from certain quarters in the department of agriculture at Washington, according to press dispatches.

An emphatic "No" is still reverberating in local textile quarters, which are supposed to know something about the successes and failure here and abroad in developing synthetic fibers.

"Just plain bogie business," is the terse comment of some of the New York cotton experts on the reported fears and qualms of the agricultural department people.

Disagrement between the cotton specialists here and in Washington followed publication of recent press reports that "Secretary Wallace's cotton experts are none too happy over the undercover information that they have received about the possibilities of 'vistra,' a cotton substitute made from wood pulp by the Germans," and that "the ingenuity of German chemists is putting furrows in their brows."

Explains Synthetic Fiber.

One cotton and synthetic fiber man has undertaken to explain why the agricultural department experts have been doing much of their worrying for no good reason.

He is Benjamin Adler, with a rating of "specialist" in cotton and synthetic fibers. He did business with the German textile industry for years and supplied the largest German rayon manufacturers with raw material.

Says Adler: "'Vistra' is not a cotton substitute. It has none of the properties of cotton, but all of the inherent weaknesses of rayon. Under the microscope it is smooth and tubular, qualities that indicate lack of spirality or spinning value.

"Cotton is a rough, raspy fiber, with definite prong formation, qualities that make for its great tensile strength. If these comparative characteristics were not important, the price of 'vistra' 34 cents a pound, to which must be added the same cost of spinning entailed by cotton, would eliminate it as a competitor to cotton."

First Used in 1926.

He goes on to say that the Fitchburg Yarn company employed this "new fiber" in 1926, and that "the maximum production of yarn made from 'vistra' and similar fiber was at its peak in 1932, and amounted to about 8,250 bales of cotton.

"Figures for the rest of the world are not available, but they are not likely to exceed 6,000,000 pounds for the same year, or a total poundage that may have displaced 20,000 bales of cotton, if it can be said to enter into competition with cotton."

Adler declares that "vistra" has been on the market for ten years and "has been potentially available with the birth of the rayon industry, for 'vistra,' the German product, and 'snialooks,' the Italian product, and 'rayon staple fiber,' the American product, are one and the same, and nothing more than unspun or untwisted rayon filaments cut into desired lengths after the cellulose solution has left them spinnerettes."

MYERS REPORTS DROP IN DEMAND FOR FARM LOANS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—A decrease in demands for government refinancing of farm mortgage debts was reported today by W. I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit administration. He attributed the slump to recovery of farm income and lessening of pressure through emergency lending of the administration.

"The reduction in the number of applications is a reflection of the lessened need for refinancing caused by lending more than $1,300,000,000 on farm mortgages and an improved economic position of farmers over a large part of the United States," he said.

Applications for mortgage loans are now only about one-third as numerous as during the peak period a year ago, he added. The great decline in number of applications, he asserted, occurred in southern states, "where recovery in agricultural conditions has probably been greater."

In the New Orleans district the rate of applications showed a decline of 79 per cent, compared with the corresponding period last year. Higher percentage reductions than the 67 per cent national average were also reported by the Federal Land banks of Houston, Tex., and Columbia, S. C.

Loans from oct. 1 to 15, inclusive, totaled $3,448,000, compared with $2,959,000 from Sept. 15 to Oct. 1. The most substantial increases occurred in the Wichita, Kas., and Houston, Tex., districts.

WORLD'S SILVER OUTPUT LOWERED FOR SEPTEMBER

New York, Oct. 28.—World silver production in September was 14,889,000 fine ounces, compared with 15,436,000 in August and 13,667,000 in July, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. United States production in September was 1,786,000 ounces, against 2,087,000 in August and 1,853,000 in July.

Stocks of silver at refineries in the United States at the end of September were 5,465,000 ounces, against 5,068,000 at the end of August, and in Canada stocks at refineries were 2,739,000 ounces, against 2,257,000.

C. D. Halsey & Co. Stock Exchange Firm, to Quit

New York, Oct. 28. — The New York Stock exchange firm of C. D. Halsey & Co., will be dissolved, effective next Nov. 14, it was announced today. Several of the firm's partners will become identified with other stock exchange firms.

SUGAR EXPORTS RISE.

United States exports of refined sugar in September totaled 13,369 long tons, according to E. W. Dyer & Co. This compares with 4,020 tons in September, 1933.

LETTERS

Letters of not more than 200 words, addressed to the Financial Editor, will be printed in these columns from time to time.

"Unlisted" Securities.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 26.—May I call attention to a phase of the securities business that has caused much trouble to recognized stock exchanges and in which our Chicago newspapers have unwittingly played a part.

For a considerable time over the counter houses have supplied newspapers with nominal bid and asked prices which have been published under the head of "unlisted securities." More than a half of the securities so quoted are listed on various national exchanges. To publish them, as is being done, is a direct violation of the securities and exchange act under which exchanges are now operating.

To include these nominal quotations as "unlisted" constitutes a misrepresentation of fact to which I feel sure you would not knowingly be a party. This method of handling listed quotations tends to present them out of line and consequently acts as a "come on" to the public.

I am pointing out this situation at a time when no stock exchange is enjoying a large volume of business. One of the principal reasons that this is so is because of the bootlegging of securities. That is to say, the sale and purchase takes place over the counter and escapes federal regulation. Unknowingly newspapers have added prestige to the quotations.

Committee on Stock List.

RESERVE BANK AT KANSAS CITY SEES TRADE GAIN

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Both business and agricultural conditions in the Tenth federal reserve district showed a decided and considerable improvement in September and the first part of October, the monthly review, issued by the federal reserve bank at Kansas City, shows.

Retail trade, as indicated by department store sales, was larger in September than in any month since last December, increasing 25.5 per cent over August, for the second largest seasonal advance in recent years, and 25.2 per cent over September, 1933. Cumulative sales for the calendar year to date were, for the first time since 1929, larger than in the corresponding period of the preceding year, increasing 17.8 per cent over 1933.

Wholesale distribution improved during the month and the dollar volume exceeded the total for September, 1933, by 9.6 per cent. Compared to August the combined sales increased .4 per cent.

Weather conditions in the eastern half of the district have been highly favorable to crops and fall work, but western areas are seriously in need of immediate and abundant rains. Farm work made good progres and is far advanced for the season. Government purchasing of cattle, sheep, and goats continues and future liquidations of live stock numbers are imperative, the review states, as feed supplies are inadequate to carry present holdings through the winter.

Weekly Average Tobacco Price Shows Recession

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The Stich index of weekly average tobacco prices, based upon the 1926 average price of 27 cents a pound as 100, fell last week to 101.5. The basic contract traded on the New York Tobacco exchange is United States type, 12 grade B4F, flue-cured tobacco.

STOCK PRICES ON CURB MARKET SHOW DECLINE

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The curb market was reactionary in tone last week. Virtually all groups worked lower. Volume increased somewhat on the decline, particularly late in the period. Movements were narrow in the early sessions. Some improvement occurred on Wednesday, but a decisive downward trend followed.

Metals were lower on Tuesday, Lake Shore dropping some 3 points, while Newmont lost more than 1. Selling in alcohols led the list downward on Thursday, with Hiram Walker and Distillers Corporation yielding about 2 points each. Various oil and utilities dipped fractions to a point or so.

In the specialty division the recently fast climbing Singer Manufacturing receded steadily under small offerings. Pan-American Airways and Fajardo Sugar suffered weak spells. Mead-Johnson and Pepperell Manufacturing were rather hesitant. Moderate recessions appeared in Humble Oil, International Petroleum, Electric Bond and Share, American Gas and Electric, American Cyanamid B, Swift International, Gulf Oil, and Aluminum Company of America.

The sale of a curb exchange seat was announced during the week at $17,500, off $2,500 from the previous transaction.

TOBACCO TAKES COTTON'S LEAD IN PRICE RISES

New York, Oct. 28.—The south may sing of King Cotton, but Wall street interests pointed today to tobacco as a southern leader of prosperity. Higher prices for the leaf were cited as proof of its leadership as quotations on many other commodities have been falling in recent weeks.

Five reasons are given for the price rise: Increased cigaret consumption; sharp reduction of Canadian production; more active foreign and domestic demand for flue-cured tobacco; world consumption of flue-cured leaf in excess of production in the United States, and smaller United States production attributed chiefly to AAA crop control measures.

H. A. Stich, tobacco economist and member of the New York Tobacco exchange, reports the bulk of the flue-cured crop was marketed in a short time this season at the highest prices since 1929. Spot prices in the last three weeks touched 107.8 in the Stich tobacco index, which uses the 1926 average price of 27 cents as 100 per cent.

Stich predicts that 1934 prices will average 50 to 75 per cent higher than in 1933, provided no unforeseen developments enter the market.

FLOOR COVERING STOCKS LIGHT.

Retail stocks of floor coverings are understood to be comparatively light, but trade interests are not expecting important replacement buying until the 1935 spring lines are brought out.

BURNHAM'S
HELPS YOU GET STARTED

If you are going into Beauty Culture, for the sake of your own future be sure to investigate the EXTRA ADVANTAGES that only Burnham's can give, advantages that will enable you to earn more money from the start. To show you how it pays to enroll at Burnham's, if you will call or write, we will give you

as to how these EXTRA ADVANTAGES helped one graduate earn $15,000 a year; how another became manager over 35 operators; how another is now earning $75.00 a week 30 days after graduation; how another became manager of a large shop in six months, etc. These true stories and many others will open your eyes to what Burnham's can do for you

You have only to investigate to learn why MORE GIRLS ENROLL AT BURNHAM'S THAN AT ANY OTHER SCHOOL

Terms Unbelievably Low

—if you act now. Most of your tuition can be paid after graduation. But call at once. We're open every day and on Monday Wednesday, and Friday evenings until 9:00 P.M. Call, write or phone Randolph 3355 for Confidential Information Book

How to Become a BEAUTY EXPERT

What are you ambitious to be? An "ordinary" mediocre beauty operator, trained to work only in the "cheapest" shops at minimum wages? Or—wouldn't you rather be a genuine beauty expert, with sufficient training, practical experience and technical knowledge to qualify you for a good paying position in a high class shop?

Fees Are Lower

Unquestionably you want to be an expert and earn more money. DeLEE trains its students to be real experts. At DeLEE you will receive individual personal instruction under Madame Louise. You will learn the really fine points of beauty culture and hairdressing, in the shortest possible time.

Come in today and talk with Miss Stevens, the dean. Let her show you through this beautiful, light, clean, colorful school and explain the new low tuition free plan to you.
